LASHES 'WAR MAKING' BILL

HOUSE HOBBLES TVA; ACT STUNS UNIT'S BACKERS

Power Area Limited; Bonds Slashed.

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley authority lost a bitter fight late today when the house approved a measure placing drastic limitations on its future operations. TVA supporters said the measure also would endanger a $78,000,000 deal under which Tennessee Electric Power company properties would be bought up by the public agency.

The house voted to reduce, from $100,000,000 to $65,000,000, a bond issue to be floated to finance the deal. It wrote in amendments to a senate bill to restrict TVA to a specific territory in the mid-south and prohibit it from reimbursing states and counties for tax losses suffered through retirement of private utilities from the area.

How TVA backers reacted to the house action was indicated by one who described himself as "stunned."

May Spur Private Financing.

Utility circles in New York said if congress limits the TVA geographically the way probably will be opened for a $300,000,000 refinancing operation by southern subsidiaries of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation. Fear of widening competition by the TVA has prevented private utilities from pushing expansion plans.

Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, has declared that uncertainties as to the TVA's future scope blocked refinancing to reduce carrying charges on the C. & S. system's debts. The latest house action was a step in the direction long advocated by Willkie, leader of the private utilities' fight against the TVA. He withheld comment, however, pending senate action.

Doubt Senate Acceptance.

The $65,000,000 bonds authorized for issuance under the house measure, a complete change from the senate bill, would be obligations of the federal agency, but would not carry the guarantee of the United States government.

Final house passage of the legislation came on a voice vote. Immediately before the final action the house voted, 191 to 167, to substitute its own amendments for the senate bill.

The house legislation, carried to passage by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats opposed to public power sales, so revised the $100,000,000 senate proposal that administration leaders said there was no prospect of favorable senate action.

Deal Upset, Says Rankin.

Representatives John J. Sparkman [D., Ala.], John E. Rankin [D., Miss.], and Walter Chandler [D., Tenn.], supporters of the TVA, said "this action means the Tennessee Electric Power company deal cannot be consummated."

"The friends of the power trust," Chandler charged, "have stabbed public power investors in the vitals."

On the other hand, Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] declared that TVA had set out to "confiscate and destroy" the private power company and had forced it to make the 78 million dollar sale contract with "its back to the wall."

Under the house measure TVA's power sales would be restricted to territories now served, plus the territories served by Tennessee Electric and twenty-seven counties in north Alabama and Mississippi.

Would Supervise Accounts.

Another provision would subject TVA's accounts to review of the general accounting office.

David Lilienthal, TVA director and target of several Republican attacks during debate on the proposal, had expressed vigorous objections to the amendments.

The house amendment now goes back to the senate, which can ask for a conference of committeemen from the two houses to adjust differences.

Senator George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] said he was "stunned" by the house action and agreed with Senator Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.] the bond legislation "will die in the conference committee."

Smokes 3 Cigars a Day and He's Dead, Aged 102

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13.—[Special.]—William B. Wartman, whose 102 years spanned the administrations of twenty-six of the nation's thirty-two Presidents, died today at his home in Germantown. His advice to those who would live long was to smoke three cigars daily.

TROOPS DENIED; 13 HURT IN ALLIS STRIKE RIOTING

1,000 Workers Stay Home for Safety.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 13.—[Special.]—Refused the protection of National Guardsmen, officials of the Allis-Chalmers plant tonight ordered their office workers to remain home tomorrow in an attempt to avoid a repetition of today's rioting by C. I. O. strikers which sent 13 persons to hospitals.

Max W. Babb, president of the big factory in suburban West Allis, announced that only a skeleton crew would be on duty to take care of work normally done by about 1,000 persons.

Meantime, the heads of all police forces in the Milwaukee area met with Gov. Julius P. Heil to discuss means of curbing further violence.

Later the governor conferred for two hours with members of the bargaining committee of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers union, which called the strike. At midnight he announced that a peaceful settlement of the difficulties appeared near. This was confirmed by Harold Christoffel, president of the union.

Joint Conference Sought.

Gov. Heil said he would try to arrange a conference tomorrow between company and union officials, and if this were possible he was confident a settlement could be reached promptly.

The governor had refused a second appeal for troops despite today's disorders in which ten peace officers and three spectators were seriously injured and scores of others received bruises.

The governor reiterated he would not order out the militia until all resources of the county law enforcement bodies have been exhausted. He was reported to have threatened to remove Sherif Edward J. Mitten from office if he could not keep order.

The sherif appealed to all municipalities in the county to send him policemen, but the force of 250 officers he was able to muster was so far outnumbered it was unable to cope with the rioters.

Attack Street Cars.

More than 5,000 strikers and sympathizers, apparently in a belligerent mood, milled about the Allis-Chalmers factory. The disorders began when about 1,000 office workers—the only employés of the company's 7,000 workers still on duty—arrived in the neighborhood of the plant.

Pickets attacked street cars carrying the workers, smashing car windows and injuring those inside. They sat and laid down on tracks to halt street cars and pulled off trolleys until trafic was snarled.

Tear gas fired by officers drove the rioters back momentarily, but they formed again out of reach of the gas clouds. Deputies who loosed the gas were attacked by pickets. Fist fighting and scuffling flared on all sides of the plant.

Pickets Boo and Hiss.

Despite the rioting, most of the office workers made their way through the picket lines and entered the plant, as they did yesterday. When they emerged at the end of the day's work about 500 pickets booed and hissed them.

The Allis-Chalmers plant, the largest industrial unit in Wisconsin, has been closed since May 24 when a workers' holiday was declared by the United Automobile Workers. The formal strike was declared Saturday and mass picketing began yesterday.

The strike was called after the company said it had offered to renew its 1938 contract but rejected union demands for a closed shop, the checkoff system of collecting union dues, and a joint contract covering Allis-Chalmers plants also in Boston and Pittsburgh.

Score Hurt in Flint.

Flint, Mich., June 13.—[Special.]—More than twenty men were injured here today in fighting between rival members of the C. I. O. and A. F. of L. divisions of the dual United Automobile Workers' union.

Mass fighting, with about 100 men on a side, took place in front of the Fisher Body No. 1 plant, one of four General Motors corporation factories in which the A. F. of L. group has called a strike.

THE BUSY CHEER LEADER

A Yachtsman Drops Anchor in Jailhouse

The name is Irvin Limper, alias James Harper. He is 35 years old, and last night he was locked in a detective bureau cell.

Without knowledge of his record, Limper easily might be taken for a promising young business man. His clothes are well tailored. He is tall, slim waisted, and broad shouldered. He speaks with the easy drawl of his native Louisville, Ky. And he has both a car and a yacht.

Irvin Limper.

But Maryland wants Limper for escaping from the state honor farm outside Baltimore on Nov. 8, 1937. It was his second attempt. On the first, in 1931, he was shot. At that time Limper was serving a 23 year sentence for robbery.

Named in $1,600 Holdup.

Baltimore police say that Limper and two others have been identified in a $1,600 pay roll robbery on May 5. Limper admitted his escape, but denied the pay roll robbery.

Since he escaped from the honor farm and arrived in Chicago, he told Detectives Timothy O'Connor and Joseph Logsdon, he has tried his hand at many things.

Police became skeptical when they learned that Limper owned a yacht. This boat, the "Betty," rode at anchor last night in the Burnham park harbor. The boat is a trim, 36 foot cabin cruiser with accommodations for twelve.

Nothing Like Boating.

He said he liked to take girl friends for a cool ride after a tiring business day.

The license number of Limper's automobile had been supplied by Baltimore police, and detectives saw him driving in it last night.

The detectives followed him until he drove past 1121 South State street. There they arrested him. No. 1121 is police headquarters.

"I wish I'd known Chicago better," said Limper. "The last time I was here—in 1927—police headquarters was over on Clark street."

THINKS '39 AUTO TAGS IMMORAL, SO REFUSES TO PUT THEM ON CAR

Los Angeles, Cal., June 13.—(AP)—This year's California auto license plates bear the inscription "California's World's Fair '39." For that reason Attorney Patrick F. Kirby, 48 years old, refused to display the plates.

In court today Kirby argued: "They advertise a world's fair that probably gives entertainment of a low, immoral and degrading type, and I do not wish to lend my support to such an enterprise."

Kirby, a former Sioux Falls, S. D., resident, said he keeps the 1939 tags in his car, which bears last year's plates fore and aft. He was charged with driving without 1939 license plates. The court took the case under advisement.

WIFE'S CIGARET FIRES CARTRIDGE; HUSBAND HURT

A lighted cigaret and a .22 caliber cartridge yesterday injured John Castle, 31 years old, 1212 Frontier avenue, an unemployed cook. Castle told Hudson avenue police he found the cartridge several days ago and placed it on a window sill in his living room. Yesterday Mrs. Castle placed a lighted cigaret beside it. As Castle stepped to the window to remove the cigaret the cartridge exploded. The bullet grazed his right hand and lodged in his chest. It was removed by Dr. Samuel C. Noto, 800 West North avenue. Just before Castle stepped to the window he had been holding their 4 month old daughter.

TREASURY VOWS NEW NICKEL IS STILL WITH US

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—Spiking recurring reports that the new Jefferson nickel had been withdrawn from circulation, the treasury today said there is one such coin in circulation for every three persons.

Since the 5 cent piece was introduced last November, the mints have turned out 63,686,000 coins bearing the profile of the third President. Of these, 48,080,000 have been placed in circulation.

Several hundred million Buffalo nickels still are in circulation and will be used until they wear out.

Kelly to Name J. D. Allen to School Board

John D. Allen, vice president of the Brinks Express company, will be appointed a member of the board of education today by Mayor Kelly who will send his name to the city council for approval. Mr. Allen will fill a vacancy which has existed since May 1.

J. D. Allen.

The appointment was hailed last evening as a fulfillment of Mayor Kelly's policy, announced during the mayoralty campaign, that the advice of leading citizens be sought in the direction of the public school system.

Nominated by Citizens.

Mr. Allen, a prominent layman in Episcopal church circles, was nominated for the post by the citizens' advisory schools committee headed by Dean W. F. Clarke of De Paul university law school.

Mr. Allen was born in St. Paul, Minn., fifty-two years ago and came here at the age of 6. He was graduated from Chicago public schools. When he was 18 he went to work for the Brinks Express company doing general office work. Its development to one of the largest private money carriers in the world is attributed to Mr. Allen's executive ability.

Church and School Leader.

Mr. Allen is a vestryman and treasurer of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church and head of the board of the Episcopal Cathedral shelter. He is also president of the Episcopal Church Club of Chicago and has served as president of the National Federation of Church clubs.

He is a trustee of the Chicago Latin school for boys and of the Latin school for girls. He is on the board of St. Luke's hospital. On Monday he was appointed a trustee of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn.

Mr. Allen lives at the Edgewater Beach hotel. He has two children. His wife died in 1937.

There is one more vacancy on the school board.

Expect Council to Boost Fees by 2 Millions

An estimated $2,000,000 would be added annually to the city treasury if an ordinance proposed yesterday by the license subcommittee is approved today by the city council. Tavern licenses would be increased $200 a year under their plan. In addition, night clubs, cabarets, and all night restaurants which sell liquor would be required to pay another $700 for the privilege of keeping open until 4 a. m. on weekdays and 5 a. m. on Sundays.

Previously the committee had recommended allowing taverns to remain open an hour later, or until 2 a. m. on weekdays and 3 a. m. on Sundays.

Confer with Mayor Kelly.

Before voting extra fees the committee conferred with Mayor Kelly and Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the finance committee. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman, said the mayor stressed the city's need for more revenue.

Then the committee voted to increase the annual tavern license from $600 to $800. The city has 9,330 taverns, according to George Lohman, deputy city collector, who estimated that tavern license revenue would be increased $1,866,000 by the proposed measure.

If the night clubs want to keep late hours, as they did before the recent police campaign to enforce the tavern closing ordinance, they would have to obtain a special $700 permit as well as the high $800 tavern license. All clubs now have the present $600 license.

Two Other Licenses Required.

The committee also stipulated that night clubs must also have both the regular food dispenser's license and the place of public amusement license. Virtually all recognized clubs now have these.

A further restriction would be placed on the owl cafés. To keep late hours they must operate actual restaurants as prescribed in the state liquor control statute.

This provision, the committee explained, would prevent regular taverns and sandwich stands which have no restaurant facilities, from acquiring the special permit. Lohman estimated that sixty cabarets and sixty restaurants would take advantage of the proposed special license, each class yielding about $42,000 in revenue for the city, or $84,000 additional.

Would Be Effective July 1.

The new tavern license and special permits would go into effect on July 1, when the present licenses expire. But the first licenses and permits would be good only until Oct. 31 and would cost $235 and $270, respectively. After that date they would be issued at regular six month intervals on Nov. 1 and May 1.

City Controler Robert Upham was disappointed when the tavern fee was raised to only $800. He had counted on a $1,000 fee in figuring next year's revenue, or an increase of $3,732,000.

The subcommittee also tentatively agreed to restrain package, side line, and grocery stores which sell liquor, from pouring drinks on the premises, as many do. This morning the subcommittee will continue to discuss other regulations governing these stores.

[Representative night clubs, cabarets, and restaurants were polled last night on the proposed 4 a. m. curfew. See page 13.]

BORAH DEMANDS NEW DEAL TELL AIMS IN EUROPE

Measure Is Sent to Floor of House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—The administration's bill to revise the neutrality act, reported favorably today by the house foreign affairs committee, was described by Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] as a plan for the United States to take sides in the controversies and ultimately to involve itself in the wars of European nations.

R. Walton Moore.

The bill to revise the act, first recommended by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, would lift the automatic embargo on war goods shipments to belligerents and empower the President to restrict or prohibit Americans and American ships from commerce in war zones. R. Walton Moore, counselor of the state department, attended the committee's executive session and helped make minor last minute changes.

The committee approved the bill, 12 to 8, voting strictly on party lines. All Republicans voted against the measure except Bruce Barton of New York, who voted "present."

Open to Amendments.

Representative Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], acting chairman of the committee, said he will request a wide open rule permitting full opportunity for amendment on the floor. He hopes to bring the measure up in the house week after next.

The statement by Borah, dean of the senate and of the senate foreign relations committee, presaged formidable opposition in the senate to the neutrality revision bill. The veteran foe of intervention and international meddling is the recognized leader of both Republican and Democratic neutrality advocates. He expressed his views regarding the pending legislation in a letter to A. W. Butterfield of Sterling, Ill.

Senator Borah accused the administration of misleading the American people by constantly talking about neutrality and proposing at the same time legislation that is conceded to be unneutral. The people ought to be informed, he said, that the proposed legislation is not a neutrality plan and is not intended as such.

Called Move to Take Sides.

"We are seeking to enact legislation which will enable this government, under the guise of law, to take sides and become associated in the imperialistic war now being waged, openly or covertly, between two great powers of Europe—Germany and Great Britain," the senator wrote.

"Ex-Secretary of State Henry Stimson stated clearly and candidly, when he was before the committee, that he is opposed to neutrality—that we should identify ourselves with those whom he called the democratic nations. Bernard Baruch declared that his plan of legislation is not neutral, is not intended to be neutral legislation, and is twenty sea miles from neutrality.

"Other parties appearing before the committee took the same view—that we were not legislating and should not legislate in order to enable us as a nation to be neutral, but in order to enable us more effectually to be unneutral.

Openly a Plan of Entanglement.

"It is insisted quite openly by those who do not believe in neutrality that we repeal all laws making it impossible for us to furnish arms and munitions to nations engaged in war in order that we may successfully furnish arms and munitions to those whom we wish to assist in war.

"In other words, the plan is to involve the United States in these European controversies, and finally in their wars, in the name of peace and democracy.

"My contention is that we should be entirely candid about this matter. We should say to the people that we are not seeking to be neutral or seeking to enact laws which will enable us to be neutral. We are seeking to associate ourselves with the controversy in Europe and we are not seeking to stand aloof and make every honest, clean effort to be neutral.

"If the people want laws which will enable us to furnish munitions and arms to certain nations—to take sides in the controversy they have that right, however unwise one like myself believes the policy to be. But we have no right to constantly talk about neutrality, to give the people to understand that we want neutrality and at the same time formulate laws designed to make us allies and associates and bring us into the controversies, and finally into the wars, of certain European nations.

Certain to Make Us Allies.

"I do not hesitate to say that the real controversy—that our effort to furnish munitions and the instrumentalities of war—is an effort to favor certain nations which will just as surely make us allies and associates as time goes on.

"Of course none of us believes in the ideologies and political views of such nations as Germany and Italy. They are contrary to everything in which we believe.

"But, as Premier Chamberlain of Great Britain declared not long ago, in this controversy into which we are edging ourselves, the question of ideology does not obtain.

"What really is happening is this: A great controversy is going on about territory and raw materials—purely imperialistic matters—and that is the issue. To talk about any other issue is to mislead the American people."

Repeals Present Law.

The administration bill repeals the existing law, which contains a mandatory embargo on the shipment of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to all belligerent nations.

The new bill would authorize the President to proclaim the existence of a state of war between foreign states, after which war supplies of all kinds, including arms, could be exported to belligerents provided all title thereto had been transferred to a foreign agent. This is the so-called "cash" provision.

The bill further authorizes the President to define "areas of combat operations," through which American ships could not travel. This is the so-called "carry" provision. Together they are intended to permit belligerents to obtain war supplies in the United States on a "cash and carry" basis. Admittedly this plan would favor England and France, which supposedly would control the seas.

MINTON PLACES M'NUTT ON SPOT; M'HALE IS SORE

Indianapolis, Ind., June 13.—[Special.]—Sherman Minton, Democratic United States senator from Indiana, said tonight in Washington that Paul V. McNutt, former Indiana governor, will withdraw from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940 if President Roosevelt wants a third term.

Frank McHale, Indiana member of the Democratic national committee and manager of the McNutt for President boom, was reported to be angry tonight over what was termed Minton's attempt to put him and McNutt on the spot. Obviously, it was said, the Minton statement was inspired by the White House high command.

"We have no authentic information that either President Roosevelt or Vice President Garner are candidates for the presidential nomination next year," said McHale. "Therefore we are following the mandate of the Democrats of Indiana as expressed in 1938 when they placed McNutt before the country as a presidential candidate."

CLOSE DIVERSEY BEACH; BACTERIA COUNT TOO HIGH

The old Diversey beach in Lincoln park has been closed because of its high bacteria count, George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the parks, said last night. The beach house is being torn down and the beach hereafter will be used only as a harbor for small sailboats and canoes, he said. The Diversey Yacht club had asked the use of the area as a landing, but its request was denied. It is not planned to build any moorings there, Donoghue said. The beach, built and opened in 1912, is virtually landlocked. It has only three small outlets to the open lake. More than a million persons made use of it last summer.

DEMAND GROWS FOR COUNT OF ALIENS IN U. S.

Estimate Million Are on Public Relief Rolls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—In connection with the proposals for admitting refugees to this country there are growing demands that the government determine how many aliens are on relief or depriving citizens of American jobs.

Patriotic organizations are insisting that these facts be incorporated, at least in the 1940 census. In the meantime, the number of aliens living on American taxpayers remains unknown. Administration agencies have spent millions in searching the country for all sorts of statistics, which are distributed freely to the press and the public, but they have avoided inquiry into what becomes of aliens in this country.

The latest count of the bureau of immigration and naturalization shows that there were 3,838,928 aliens in this country on July 1, 1938. But the labor department does not count those who have entered this country illegally for permanent residence. Estimates place the total number of aliens at between five and six millions.

No Records Available.

Attempts of congressional committees to ascertain what becomes of these aliens have proved fruitless. At the recent hearings of the senate subcommittee on immigration, Edward J. Shaughnessy, deputy commissioner of immigration and naturalization, was asked how many are on relief or employed in industry or elsewhere.

He told the committee that the bureau of labor statistics, also under the jurisdiction of the secretary of labor, had no records along this line. The bureau and other administration agencies, such as the WPA, the Social Security board, and the bureau of immigration, when polled today gave the same negative reply.

"When an alien is admitted lawfully to the United States, we have no follow-up system," Shaughnessy had told the senate committee. "The next time we get in touch with him is when he becomes deportable, or when he comes in for naturalization, for return permits, and so forth. We do not establish any follow-up jurisdiction over aliens."

Million on Relief.

A reliable private estimate places the number of aliens on relief as high as 1 million, who are supported by the native born or naturalized American citizens. Aliens are now, theoretically at least, barred from the WPA by congressional action.

The WPA reports that after congress passed this legislation there were approximately 46,000 aliens dismissed from the WPA. Subsequently about 10,000 of these were rehired after they had got their citizenship papers in order. Dismissal from the WPA, however, merely forced these aliens on state and local relief, officials report.

The number of aliens engaged in private employment is a matter of conjecture, for the total number of aliens includes a large number of unemployables, such as those too young or too old for employment.

Pennsylvania found last January that it had paid more than $77,000 in old age assistance to 3,738 aliens who had been in this country from five to thirty years and were being supported by the state and federal governments.

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—There was a minor casualty at the picnic given for King George and Queen Mary by President and Mrs. Roosevelt at their Hyde Park estate last Sunday, it became known last night when Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. appeared at a night spot here wearing a black eye patch. He explained that the patch was hiding a bumble bee sting. His wife, the former Ethel du Pont, was in a Stockbridge, Mass., sanitarium recently for a rest and treatment by Dr. Austen Fox Riggs, a neurologist.

PRESIDENT TELLS 25% SPEEDUP IN NAVAL PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today said a definite speeding up of the naval building program in the last year has resulted in a much happier situation.

Asked at a press conference about a discussion he had held earlier with Charles Edison, assistant navy secretary, Mr. Roosevelt said they had gone into the construction program and that it seemed to be going along very well. He said the speeding up process had resulted in cutting construction time about 25 per cent.

A year ago the President asserted there were complaints about the length of time it took between a congressional appropriation for naval vessels and the commissioning of ships. Asked wherein the delay centered, the President said the most important factor was changes the navy made in ship plans after building had begun. These changes have been diminished, he said.

WPA CHIEF PUTS HIS O. K. ON REDS IN RELIEF UNION

Denies Communists Are a Bad Influence.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—Col. Francis C. Harrington, administrator of the Works Progress administration, today defended the Workers' alliance, a communist dominated union of WPA reliefers, in a statement before a house appropriations subcommittee. He intimated that it is only a "normal tendency" for WPA enrollees to join the communist party.

"Perhaps the proportion of communists in the Workers' alliance is relatively high," Col. Harrington said. "I do not know. However, if that is the case, I do not think it is unusual because the Workers' alliance is recruiting its membership from project workers who have been pretty severely buffeted by fate, who have taken an economic licking, and whose normal tendency would be to align themselves with a political party promising a Utopia."

90 Per Cent Communist.

The appropriations sub-committee investigating the WPA has received evidence that the Workers' alliance is 90 per cent communist. Herbert Benjamin, executive secretary, admitted he had been a communist party member for eighteen years. David Lasser, president, denied that he held a communist membership book, but admitted that the alliance financed a trip he made to Moscow in 1937 to help celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the Russian revolution.

"I cannot avoid feeling that representations that the Workers' alliance is a subversive organization have been considerably exaggerated," said Col. Harrington.

Col. Harrington defended the so-called white collar projects of the WPA, including the federal writers' and the federal theater projects, which have been the subject of particular scrutiny in the committee's investigation. The committee has received evidence that both projects are dominated by communists and that the theater project, particularly, has wasted hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Dispense with Questions.

The committee curtly dismissed Col. Harrington without doing him the courtesy of propounding a single question.

The sub-committee already had drafted a bill, which was in the hands of the public printer, and it fails to comply with most of the appeals made by Col. Harrington. The bill will be reported by the full committee tomorrow morning and the house will begin consideration of it tomorrow afternoon.

The sub-committee recommended the substitution of a three-man, bipartisan board for Col. Harrington's administration.

The sub-committee also recommended various provisions to restrict activities of the Workers' alliance.

Stewardess Weds

MRS. CLAY FORKER.

An elopement in the modern manner took another from the ranks of air hostesses, when Shirley Hafemeister and Clay Forker, advertising executive, were married in South Bend, Ind., on April 25, it was revealed yesterday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Hafemeister of Milwaukee, Wis. She is 23 years old, and was a stewardess for Transcontinental-Western Air Line. They met while Mr. Forker, who is now assigned to the Detroit office of Campbell-Eward advertising agency, was a passenger on a T. W. A. nonstop flight between Chicago and New York several months ago. They will live in Detroit.

SCHOOL REPORTS FOREST PARTIES SCANDAL FINDING

Results of an investigation of three school girls' stories of forest preserve parties that brought the arrest of eight youths on May 27, were announced last night by the J. Sterling Morton High school board. President Richard W. Hoffman of the Cicero school said the board interviewed everyone involved in the scandal.

Only one of the girls involved, Mr. Hoffman said, was a student at Morton. In her case, he asserted, the delinquency started twelve to fourteen months ago, before she entered the school as a freshman. He said only two of the boys—there were fifty named by the three girls, but only eight arrested—were students at Morton. Some were from other high schools, but many were not in school at all.

Mr. Hoffman said also that in no case were the dates made in the school, nor were the acts complained of committed there. He said that all school events were supervised by faculty members, and that the school is not overcrowded, as has been asserted by Berwyn citizens who are demanding their own high school.

FORMER GERMAN BANK EXPERT TO BECOME CITIZEN

Dr. Melchoir Palyi, noted economist, will become a citizen of the United States this morning in ceremonies before Federal Judge William H. Holly. Dr. Palyi came to the United States from Germany in 1934.

Dr. Palyi formerly was chief economist of the Deutsche bank, Berlin, and adviser to the Reichsbank. He now is economist for Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Inc., investment bankers, and is a research economist at the University of Chicago.

FIND BURNED BODY OF A MAN ROPED TO TREE

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—A man was found today tied to a tree and burned to death in Fort Lee, near the New Jersey end of the George Washington bridge. Although the body was only 200 feet from a night club, there was no word of the fire until a WPA worker found the body.

The man had been saturated with cleaning fluid, to which fire had been set. Grass was burned for 30 feet around. Eyeglasses and marks on the clothing were checked in an attempt to identify the man, who was middle aged.

Henry B. Lockwood, chief of Bergen county detectives, said there were two possibilities—that the man might have been murdered, or that he might have committed suicide in involved fashion.

SENATE EXTENDS PRESENT RELIEF SYSTEM 2 YEARS

Body Voted Wider Powers and 72 Million Dollars.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—[Special.]—Bills to appropriate $72,000,000 for relief and to extend the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission into its ninth year were passed by the senate today.

In sending the IERC bill to the house, senate Democrats admitted they expect defeat of pending measures which would place relief, old age assistance, and other forms of aid under a unified permanent state department. A battle over the revision proposal is expected tomorrow in the house, where it is opposed by Republicans.

Major Provisions Outlined.

The relief program passed by the senate today is expected to win house concurrence. It provides that:

1. The $72,000,000 be spent over the next twenty-four months, with no more than $4,000,000 in any one month.

2. The relief commission, allocating state relief money to Chicago and smaller units downstate, is to be continued until July 1, 1941. The IERC was created in 1932.

3. The IERC be given power to spend relief funds for material and supplies on WPA projects. Chicago has insufficient funds for this purpose.

4. In addition to its present control over local relief units getting state funds, the IERC would have authority to require uniform family relief budgets. Budgets now vary greatly in different communities.

Protests Leeway in Spending.

An independent Democrat, Senator R. Wallace Karraker of Jonesboro, protested against permitting the outlay of $4,000,000 in some months. At this rate the total might be exhausted in eighteen months, instead of two years, he said.

"That's inviting a special session of the legislature," he said. "It would mean further expense. We might as well face the facts."

Karraker poked a gibe at his fellow Democrats by asserting that if they are making progress toward recovery, as claimed, relief expenditures should be decreasing.

Republicans joined in this attitude by voting against the appropriation bill or remaining silent on roll call. Exceptions were James B. Leonardo of Chicago and Earl B. Searcy of Springfield. The tally was 28 to 7. The vote on the IERC bill was 33 to 3, with most G. O. P. senators not voting.

Puts It Up to G. O. P.

"The Republicans haven't offered any kind of a relief program," said Harold G. Ward, majority floor leader. "They opposed the plan for a revised setup, so as a last resort we brought in the IERC bill. They don't seem to want it, either. I'd like to hear how they propose to feed the needy."

To help the city of Chicago control its expenditures, the senate passed Ward's bill forbidding the Municipal court to incur debt except on the basis of an appropriation by the council.

Judges of the court would continue to hire clerks and bailiffs, but the council would reserve the right to reduce the number.

Ward is expected to ask a roll call tomorrow on his bill to limit the Chicago board of election commissioners to expenditures provided by council appropriations. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki controls the board.

"Why should the city give any one a blank check?" asked Ward.

Granted Maintenance

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
MRS. ISABELLE BOLAND.

Mrs. Isabelle Boland, 40 years old, is no gold digger, her attorney, Norman Becker, asserted yesterday. She loves her husband, Andrew J. Boland, 73, said the attorney—so much so that on Feb. 11 she shot herself in the head. But what Mrs. Boland wanted yesterday, her lawyer said, was sufficient temporary maintenance. They were married July 30, 1938, and separated June 1.

Andrew Boland.

Boland, a cleaner and dyer, had a different story. His wife, said Boland, urged him to spend all his savings. So he did, spending $3,000 to buy two automobiles, at her suggestion. Now, Boland said, he has no bank account and an income of only $70 a month. Judge Philip J. Finnegan awarded Mrs. Boland, who lives at 6414 Bosworth avenue, $5 a week.

U. S. AIR FIGHTER IN SPANISH WAR KILLS HIMSELF

Ends an Adventurous Life with Pistol.

Little Rock, Ark., June 13.—[Special.]—Surrounded by his relics of the Spanish civil war, in which he shot down eight Fascist planes, Frank G. Tinker, Annapolis graduate and former naval aviator, was found in his hotel room today a suicide. He was 29 years old.

Tinker, who for nearly a year faced the most modern guns known to warfare in the Spanish conflict, used a .22 caliber target pistol to end his life.

His career had been one of adventure since he was 16 years old. In 1926 he enlisted in the navy. Three years later he won the naval academy appointment that is awarded each year to enlisted men.

Becomes a Naval Aviator.

Graduating from Annapolis in 1933, he returned to his home in De Witt, Ark., acquired a 1901 automobile, and was preparing to visit the Chicago World's Fair when he was ordered to duty at Randolph Field, Tex., to become a naval aviator.

When Tinker crashed with his observer during maneuvers of the Pacific fleet in May, 1935, he blamed an unlucky bracelet. His hair began turning gray soon afterward. In the same year he resigned his commission and became second mate of an oil tanker.

In December, 1936, Tinker was in Spain, and he spent most of 1937 as a combat flyer for the Loyalist government under the name of Francisco Gomez Trejo. Eight rebel [Fascist] planes went down before his machine guns.

Terrifies Hot Springs.

After his return to America, Tinker published a book, "Some Still Live," and many magazine articles on the Spanish situation.

Less than two weeks ago Tinker terrorized the town of Hot Springs, Ark., by flying a rented plane down the principal street at a level with the second story windows. He answered a storm of criticism by saying his plane was under control at all times; that the populace was ungrateful for his fine demonstration of war flying maneuvers.

HOUSE DEFEATS BILL FINANCING $30 AGE PENSION

Democrats Succeed in Tabling Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—[Special.]—The Illinois house of representatives today placed itself in the position of favoring a flat $30 a month minimum old age pension but refusing to appropriate enough money to finance it.

This situation developed when a Democratic sponsored motion was passed, 74 to 67. The motion, which tabled an amendment, reversed last week's action and reduced the old age appropriation from 94 to 52 million dollars.

Fifty-two million dollars is the sum the administration sponsored to continue paying an average of $19 to 131,000 beneficiaries after July 1. Republicans were behind the move to pay the flat $30 minimum. They secured its passage last week and also increased the appropriation to 94 millions.

35 Reverse Their Stand.

Thirty-five representatives who voted for the flat $30 pension last week opposed the increased appropriation to pay the bill today. They are:

DEMOCRATS—29.
Edwards	Lenane	Quinn
Fidler	McGaughey	Richmond
Garman, Tom	McGrath	Ryan, James

Gorman, How.	O'Grady	Shannon

Howell	Owen	Turner
Hruby	Parker	Weber
Lee	Petlak
REPUBLICANS—6.
Adduci	Finucane	Martynowski
Broche	Granata	Petrone

Excuses were offered by those representatives who were for the bill two weeks ago but did not answer to roll call today. To a man, those questioned declared they were forced to absent themselves from the chamber for reasons involving their constituencies.

Tell of Outside Duties.

One said he had to confer with old age assistance officials on aged indigents in his district. Another had pressing business in the secretary of state's office. A third was drafting a bill to care for an old friend who had been summarily taken from the pay roll of one of the Chicago taxing bodies. This outside duty, each insisted, was the sole reason for his absence from the house.

The house's action last week in voting the pension and increasing the appropriation immediately brought criticism from the federal social security board and Gov. Henry Horner.

Federal Help Perilled.

H. L. McCarthy, regional director of the board, declared that Washington would not approve a flat pension, and would withhold funds which now match state funds. Only a pension based on actual need of the recipients can be approved by the federal board, McCarthy said.

The governor, through S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance, hinted he would veto the bills on the grounds that the state is doing all it can for the aged. To increase the burden would head Illinois toward bankruptcy, the governor warned.

After a conference with Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, McCarthy last night issued another warning against the appropriation. He said its passage would result in cutting off the federal contribution, half the pension. This would double the state burden. He also declared that by June 25 Illinois must certify its old age funds for the coming three months.

Boyle Gets Reconsideration.

Representative James P. Boyle [D., Chicago] moved this morning to reconsider the appropriation increase. He repeated McCarthy's arguments. Robert J. Branson of Centralia, Republican leader, said the arguments were propaganda to scare somebody, and Leroy M. Green [R., Rockford] branded them a smoke screen.

Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, the Democratic floor leader, told the Republicans:

"Blame the Democratic legislators and the Democratic governor, if you will, but don't hold out false hope to the old people."

The bill for a $30 minimum pension is now in the senate, where its future is uncertain.

KONKOWSKI DENIES TAKING POISON; CHILI AND 'POP' ARE BLAMED

Former Alderman Frank E. Konkowski, who was taken to Nazareth hospital Monday a few hours before he was to have gone to trial on charges of taking money from men who wanted to get on the police force, explained his illness yesterday.

Physicians and police had agreed that the former alderman had swallowed poison of some sort in his home at 1030 Chicago avenue. Konkowski, however, told Dr. Emanuel Padnos, sent by state's attorney's assistants to examine him, that he had eaten unwisely.

According to Dr. Bruno Bielinski, intern attending him, Konkowski told Dr. Padnos he ate a bowl of chili Sunday, topped it off with a bottle of pop, and then took a headache tablet. His stomach, he added, has been weak for some time and he was treated for stomach trouble four years ago.

Dr. Bielinski said Konkowski was out of danger, barring complications, but probably would remain in the hospital for another week or two.

PAROLE REFORM BILL DEFEATED IN HOUSE VOTE

Vital Support Absent or Not Balloting.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—[Special.]—The Ward-Schnackenberg parole reform bill was defeated in the house of representatives today, ending attempts in this session to divert some of the parole board's power to the trial judges. The bill would have let trial judges set criminals' maximum and minimum sentences within the limits of the indeterminate sentence act.

Needing 77 votes, the measure obtained only 72. Forty-eight representatives opposed it openly and the remaining 30 were absent from Springfield, left the floor during roll call, or sat silent when the roll was called. To refuse to answer is known in legislative parlance as ducking.

Battle Will Go On.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, house sponsor of the bill, said after its defeat that the battle for parole reform would go on. He added:

"This was just a skirmish in the battle. No great reform has been accomplished in the legislature in one or two sessions. However, no official nor group of officials can long withstand the need to correct an imperfect parole machine. Society must be protected."

Two weeks ago Schnackenberg asked the first house roll call on third reading of the bill, the passage stage. He obtained 76 supporters on that tally, one short of the required total.

Administration Applies Pressure.

Much pressure is reported to have been exerted since then on supporters by the administration. Today's roll call showed that ten representatives who previously voted for the bill were absent or not voting. Only one frank change of position was registered. George Garry Noonan [D., Chicago] was for the measure two weeks ago, but voted against it today.

Co-sponsor of the bill was Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Edward J. Kelly's legislative spokesman. The mayor supported it, even in the face of Gov. Henry Horner's reported displeasure.

If the law required trial judges to fix minimum and maximum sentences, the parole board could not release a convict until after the serving of the minimum term set by the court. The reform bill had considerable support from trial judges, defense attorneys, and Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach of Cook county. At the head of the list of sponsors was Frank J. Loesch, president emeritus of the Chicago crime commission and veteran battler against the alliance between crime and politics.

Vital Support Is Absent.

Despite Mayor Kelly's support, the following Chicago Democrats, who supported the bill two weeks ago, failed to answer or were absent today: Louis G. Berman, Edward P. O'Grady, Edward J. Petlak, Pierce L. Shannon, and Charles H. Weber.

Three Chicago Republicans who recently voted for the measure also did not vote today. They are William S. Finucane, Michael A. Ruddy, and John A. Pelka. Ruddy and Finucane are ward committeemen. Two downstate Republicans, Harry W. McCaskrin of Rock Island and Ira H. Streeper III. of Alton, were in the same classification.

On the other hand the bill picked up seven votes today from the list of those absent or not voting two weeks ago. This new support came from the following: George B. Allen [R., Braceville], Henry F. Scarborough [R., Payson], Drennan J. Slater [R., Evanston], Nick Keller [R., Waukegan], James E. Davis [R., Galesburg], and Edward Skarda and Michael A. Hannigan, Chicago Democrats.

Lobbying Laid to Parole Board.

Schnackenberg charged during debate two weeks ago that members of the parole board and other administration lobbyists had been seeking to buttonhole representatives on the floor to enlist their opposition.

At the end of the first tally at that time it first was announced the bill had been passed with 78 votes. A recount showed, however, that the count actually was 76. Schnackenberg was able to postpone consideration until today.

REAPPORTIONING BEATEN AGAIN IN ILLINOIS SENATE

Solid Downstaters Block Plan, as Expected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 13. — [Special.]—The senate today had its biennial opportunity to reapportion the state and turned it down as expected. Once more downstaters of both parties ganged up to defeat bills to give Cook county its constitutional share of votes in the legislature and congress.

Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Edward J. Kelly's floor leader, called up his bills for a vote by humorously remarking that he was sure there could be no objection to reapportionment. Instantly the downstaters snapped upright in their seats.

"Some gentlemen are always talking about the constitution," Senator Ward said. "All this bill does is to carry out the constitutional provision that the senatorial districts be readjusted each ten years on the basis of population. It hasn't been done since 1901, you know."

Asks About Cook County.

Senator Richard J. Barr [R., Joliet] asked whether the bill would give Cook county 26 of the 51 senate seats instead of 19 it now has.

"Just the number Cook county is supposed to have, which is twenty-six," Ward replied.

This also would mean Cook county would have 78 of the 153 seats in the lower house, instead of 57. There are three representatives for each senatorial district.

"No state has given a single county that much power," Barr protested. "However, I'm going to propose that the Illinois constitution be so amended as to give Cook county a majority in one house."

The vote was 25 to 15 against the redistricting bill, with downstaters solidly opposed. All Cook county members voted for it.

Congressional Bill Called Up.

Ward then called up his bill providing for congressional reapportionment. It would have given Cook county and downstate each thirteen congressmen, with the twenty-seventh shared by both. Cook county now has nine national representatives and shares another.

The vote was 19 to 18 for the bill—merely a complimentary vote because 26 "ayes" are required to pass a bill under the constitution. Downstaters supporting it were R. Wallace Karraker [D., Jonesboro], Melvin Thomas [D., Charleston], and D. T. Woodard [D., Grayville].

GRID STAR'S MOTHER DIES.

Mrs. Elizabeth Elser, 62 years old, died yesterday in her home at 764 Polk street, Gary, after a stroke. She is survived by her husband, Gustave, and three sons. One of the sons, Don, was formerly a Notre Dame football star. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at 675 Adams street, Gary.

1,619 REFUGEES OF SPAIN REACH MEXICAN HAVEN

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, June 13.—(AP)—A group of 1,619 Spanish Loyalist refugees arrived today from France cheering Mexico and shouting "death to Franco and Facism."

Disembarking from the French liner Sinaia, the refugees organized a parade carrying the standard of the Mexican communist party. They cheered President Lazaro Cardenas who granted them asylum in Mexico. Spectators watched the parade quietly.

Mexican authorities arranged food and lodging for the group, which included 400 women and 300 children.

GLIDER PILOT WILL PUT RECORD MAKING SHIP IN U. S. CONTEST

Frankfort, Mich., June 13.—[Special.]—Ted Bellak, who yesterday became the first airman to cross Lake Michigan in a motorless soaring plane, started preparations here today to enter the tenth annual national soaring contest at Elmira, N. Y. The contest begins June 24 and continues until July 2.

Ted Bellak.

At Elmira Bellak will fly the same Minimoa soaring plane he used in crossing the lake yesterday. Bellak will be accompanied to Elmira by Stanley Corcoran, chief instructor at the Frankfort Soaring school, who also has entered the contest.

Bellak's lake crossing was made from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., to Frankfort. He was towed by an airplane to 13,000 feet over the Wisconsin shore. There he cut loose and turned eastward. Fifty-two minutes later he reached the Michigan shore at an altitude of 8,000 feet.

NEGRO PLAY CAST QUITS WPA FOR PRIVATE JOBS

Los Angeles, Cal., June 13.—(AP)—The Federal Theater project play "Run Li'l Chillun," which has had an 11 months' run here and in Hollywood, passed from federal into private hands today. Alexander Leftwich, project director, said 60 members of the all Negro cast resigned, telling him they now have private employment with "a Mr. Warner of Pasadena." Reports were the play would be produced on Broadway in New York.

Leftwich said he was forced to cancel opening of "Run Li'l Chillun" in San Diego Thursday and might have to abandon "Mikado in Swing," an all Negro musical comedy, in which he had planned to use most of the resigned players.

Farmers Solve Silage Problem

How farmers are solving the perplexing problem of making silage under the restrictions of the AAA control program is told in Homer Neisz's timely article on page 16 of today's Tribune.

On this page also are the farm lands want ads which each weekday appear adjacent to the farm article.

PHOTOS OF KING TRIBUNE VICTORY OVER RED TAPE

Color Crew Hamstrung by Web of Regulations.

It can be told now how THE TRIBUNE'S photographers sheared through yards and yards of red tape to obtain natural color photographs during the visit of British royalty to Washington, D. C.

E. H. Johnson of color crew.

Color pictures taken by TRIBUNE photographers were printed last Friday and Saturday. Never before had a color wirephoto of a distant news event been used in current editions of an American newspaper.

THE TRIBUNE has still others—fine views of the garden party that the British embassy gave Thursday afternoon for King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth—and they will appear as a picture scoop Sunday on the front page of the society section.

Formality Rules Occasion.

There was great formality about the rules for photographers while royalty was being fêted in the capital. The three who gathered their color paraphernalia together and flew to Washington to get royalty onto their plates quickly found this out.

First they were handed a book of rules and three sets of credentials. One rule required that they must drop their cameras, doff their hats, and stand at attention if any national anthem was played within hearing. The credentials were a card, an arm band, and a lapel button. Together they proved that a photographer was authorized to take pictures.

But they didn't authorize him to work at any but specially designated places. It was true that stands had been built for the use of picture men, but the space in them was announced as "all allotted."

Red Tape Experts Wary.

This didn't matter much, to the color men, E. H. Johnson, Al Madsen, and George Greb, since they had picked out places without stands as the best for their work. To use these spots they had to have special permission in writing.

The red tape experts, including the man who was administrator of photography for the visit, were wary. The photographers got on this official's trail, followed it through the state department, and gravely asked his help. They wanted a picture of President Roosevelt and King George in the Union station. All the permits, the official insisted, were issued. Then he reached in his pocket and found one.

The resulting photo, first of the color sequence, was taken according to the rule book. The photographers followed the example of Washington officials and kept their coats on in the terrific heat of Washington.

Photographers Scurry for Ice.

The color photographers then hurried to a rented studio. It was warm in there. The tap water was so warm it threatened to damage the plates. The picture takers rushed out for ice. Nearly all business houses were closed, but an accommodating hotel man let them have enough ice to save the picture.

Their most spectacular achievement, however, was at the embassy garden party. Red tape had been wound all around that. "Pool" pictures were authorized, and pool pictures only. This meant that all the newspapers and picture services were to obtain their prints from the two photographers permitted to take pictures of the party. There was to be, supposedly, no color photography.

A neighbor offered the Tribune men a window overlooking the garden. A nice window, but a tree obscured the view. So the hopeful trio set off, with cameras and credentials, for the embassy. Their car was halted two blocks away. They couldn't drive nearer.

Red Tape Defeats Itself.

Nobody could find a rule to bar photographers on foot. So Greb loaded his equipment on his back and trudged toward the garden party. Much to his surprise, he got in with no trouble. He boldly set up his large camera.

All appeared well. Then the red tapers arrived. They demanded credentials, and then——

"Sorry, old man," was the decision. "You're all right, but you can't take pictures from here without a written order. You'll pack up and get out, and quickly."

There was nothing to do but obey. Greb took down the big camera and packed it. The red tape bearers looked on.

Then there was a diversion. Some one whispered excitedly that the king and queen were in the garden. The red tapers couldn't resist the temptation. They forgot Greb.

He had not forgotten his small camera. He just forgot the book of rules, picked out a nice window, and clicked off half a dozen shots of the brilliant scene that will appear in THE TRIBUNE next Sunday.

Visitor Flies In

Crow which flew into Miss Serrins' home. It is now a guest of the Anti-Cruelty society.

Miss Ethel Serrins, 2341 North Western avenue, was startled yesterday when a rusty black crow swooped down off a tree in her back yard and landed on her head. She was more surprised when it jumped off, cawed hoarsely and followed her into her house.

Once inside the house, it hopped around the rooms, drank a dish of milk, and ate a quantity of chopped beef. Then it devoted the rest of the morning to hiding bits of the meat under chairs, and in corners. The bird spent last night at the Anti-Cruelty society. Dr. A. W. Young, director, says it will be a permanent guest unless its owners call for it.

LYONS TO SEEK NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR RACE

Gets Jump on Other 1940 G. O. P. Aspirants.

Richard J. Lyons, former state representative and Republican nominee for United States senator last year, surprised all the politicians except his closest associates yesterday by announcing his candidacy for governor in 1940.

This was the first announcement of aspirations to nomination for a major office in either Republican or Democratic primaries next April, but a number of other Republican candidates are known to be looking over the ground. Among the possible entrants for the governorship are C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago, Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin, and Edward A. Hayes of Decatur.

Glenn Eyes Senatorship.

Among those known to have an eye on the United States senatorship are Otis F. Glenn, former senator, and Congressman Ralph E. Church of Evanston.

Lyons' announcement was a surprise because there had been a general belief that recent activity on his part indicated that he would make a second race for the senatorship. But he covered that point early in his statement, issued from his home in Libertyville.

"I am prompted to announce my candidacy at this early date," he said, "for the reason that, having been the candidate for United States senator at the last election, many think that I may be a candidate for that office again. But, as I have received many thousands of letters urging me to be a candidate for governor, and as friends of mine, both downstate and in Cook county, have reported that there is a demand I run for governor, I have decided to be a candidate for that office.

Retraces Senate Campaign.

"My friends call attention to the fact that as a candidate for United States senator I campaigned this state from end to end preaching Americanism and Republicanism. Without funds to cope with the vast political machine built up in this state by the New Dealers, the Republican party came within sight of victory.

"A change of a few thousand votes would have elected the Republican ticket and elected me as senator.

"This is the first time since 1934 that any Republican carried downstate, and my friends and the press attribute these Republican victories in a large measure to the intensive campaign that I personally conducted. To the loyal men and women workers of every precinct in Illinois real credit is due for the 1938 victory."

Plane Victim

MISS AUDRIE KING.

Rockford, Ill., June 13.—[Special.]—Backfire from the motor was advanced today as the probable cause of the airplane tragedy here yesterday in which a Milwaukee man and a Rockford woman died. Raymond V. Zuelke, 34 years old, and his brother's fiancée, Miss Audrie M. King, 25, of Rockford, were killed when the flaming plane crashed on a golf course. An investigator for the civil aeronautics authority arrived today to question witnesses.

The wreckage gave no clew to the cause of the disaster, but witnesses said the flames swept from the rear toward the cabin as the pilot sought a landing field. Only metal parts of the plane escaped destruction.

Apparently realizing that he had little chance to live, Zuelke tossed out two insurance policy receipts just before his plane crashed. They were recovered by witnesses who saw them fluttering to the ground.

FRIEND OF SLAIN SPINSTER FREED ON COURT WRIT

Fred Hayward, 39 years old, who was taken into custody Saturday for questioning in the murder of Miss Rose Neary, was released by Judge Michael L. McKinley yesterday in bonds of $1,000. The surety was signed by Hayward and his wife, who own a home in Palos Park.

The case was taken before Judge McKinley on an application for a writ of habeas corpus by Attorney Emmett Byrne. Lieut. Otto Erianson of the homicide squad told the court he had no information to justify placing a charge against Hayward, and Byrne promised to produce him for questioning at any reasonable time.

JAPS BLOCKADE BRITISH ZONE IN PORT OF TIENTSIN

Americans Quit Areas as Trouble Looms.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, June 14 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Japan demands a "guarantee against further anti-Japanism" within the British concession at Tientsin, a foreign office spokesman declared today. He described the Tientsin blockade as a measure of self-defense and disavowed any intention by the Japanese of taking the concession forcibly.

TOKIO, June 14 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japanese reports from Tientsin said an economic blockade of the British and French concessions went into effect at 6 a. m. today and all business firms inside the areas were refused permission to communicate with the outside city.

The reports said both Japanese and British authorities were uncertain whether the blockade applied to food. Americans and other nationalities were declared to be leaving the concessions.

Japan was said to have rejected Britain's proposal to create a three-man commission composed of a Briton, a Japanese, and a neutral to settle the dispute over the surrender of four alleged Chinese terrorists.

Britain Warns Japan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG, June 13.—A threat by Japanese military forces to blockade the British and French concession at Tientsin, important North China port, was reported to have been defied today by Great Britain. There were indications that Britain had warned the Japanese a clash would ensue if the blockade went into effect tomorrow.

In an eleventh hour attempt to prevent a possible outbreak of hostilities the British government suggested the establishment of a commission of one Briton, one Japanese and one neutral to settle the dispute.

The row developed over the refusal of British authorities at Tientsin to surrender four alleged Chinese terrorists. The Japanese have accused the Chinese of killing an official of the Tientsin provisional government.

Serious Crisis Feared.

The British informed the Japanese there was not sufficient evidence to warant the surrender of the Chinese. They also told the Japanese the quartet would continue to be held in custody in the British concession.

British circles expressed the fear that if Japan formally turned down the proposal for a commission to settle the dispute a serious crisis might develop.

The British, it was said, are determined to stick by their guns in the argument.

"If we yield to Japanese demands, it would set a precedent which might destroy British influence in Tientsin and other Chinese treaty ports," one British official exclaimed.

Move to Set Up Blockade.

The Japanese, meanwhile, prepared to set up the blockade at the British and French concessions at Tientsin. Japanese soldiers were ordered to take up stations around the two concessions. The troops were commanded to search every one entering and leaving the foreign zones by a few specified roads.

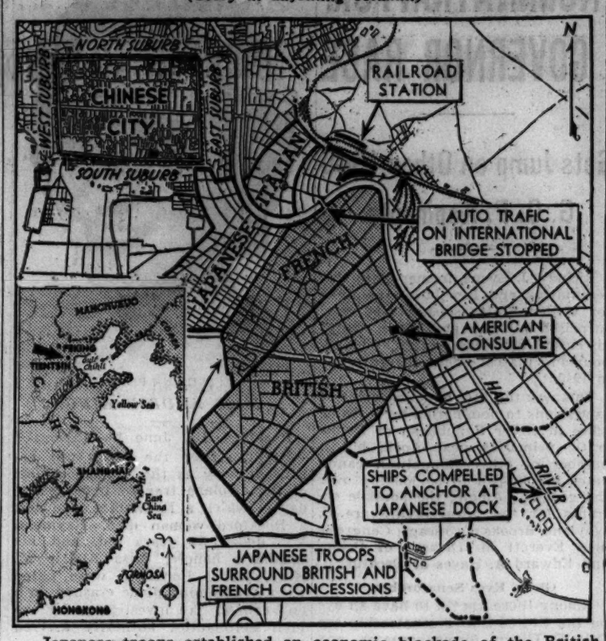
The Japanese posted notices that all ships reaching Tientsin will be compelled to anchor at the Japanese docks below the concessions.

The Japanese issued a statement in which the British policy in China was attacked.

[A British infantry battalion of 750 officers and men is stationed at Tientsin. The French have 1,500 officers and men, including a colonial infantry regiment, two batteries of artillery and one light tank company. The United States withdrew the 15th infantry regiment, which had been stationed in North China for twenty-five years, on March 2, 1938. The regiment was replaced by a detachment of 560 marines. They are stationed at Peking. The American consulate in Tientsin is located in the British zone.]

Japs Blockade Chinese Port

(Story in adjoining column.)



Japanese troops established an economic blockade of the British and French concessions at Tientsin, important port in North China early today. The blockade was ordered after British authorities had refused to turn over four alleged Chinese terrorists, accused of killing an official of the Tientsin provisional government. Captions on map show how the Japanese intend to enforce the blockade of the foreign zones. Americans were reported to be leaving the concessions. The American consulate is located in the British concession. Arrow on small map locates Tientsin.

11 U. S. BOMBERS MOVE 110 TROOPS IN A SHAM WAR

HONOLULU, T. H., June 13.—(AP)—A mass movement of troops by air started today when eleven army bombers took off from Hickam field for Kauai Island, about 100 miles away. Machine gunners carried full equipment.

The bombers are transporting Company D, 19th Infantry, in a tactical problem that assumed a disturbance in Kauai Island which had gone beyond control of police and National Guardsmen. A two weeks' training will be provided.

The company of 110 men carried packsacks, guns and food. In the bomb rack of each plane were machine guns, food and equipment. The troops were instructed in the use of parachutes. Officers planned a landing at Burns field, near Hanapepe, Kauai Island.

GENERAL SETS UP CZECH LEGION TO REVIVE REPUBLIC

Hundreds of Young Men Join to Resist Nazis.

PRAGUE, June 13.—(AP)—The organization of a so-called Czech legion in Poland—an adventuresome body of men said to number 18,000—is firing the imagination of many Czechs who are passively opposing German domination in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

Gen. Vladislav Prchala [top] and Vojta Benes.

In Bohemian circles the legion was the subject of lively discussions today following the disclosure that Vojta Benes, brother of Eduard Benes, former president of the fallen Czecho-Slovak republic, had crossed the border into Poland.

The Czechs of Prague, who admitted that Vojta Benes had been living among them quietly for several months, did not know whether he had gone on business for the legion.

General Recruits Legion.

But the aims of the legion men, recruited by Gen. Vladislav Prchala and determined to campaign from abroad for "resurrection of the Czech nation" were gaining increasing attention. Gen. Prchala commanded Czecho-Slovak troops which resisted Hungarian occupation of Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia] in March.

A story being told in Prague is that one acquainted with the intricate coal mines in the Maerisch-Ostrau region could go underground within the protectorate and come to the surface in Poland.

Hundreds of young men have been disappearing from Prague, Brunn [Brno] and other Czech cities. Their friends say they have gone to join the legion.

[In Warsaw it was stated contingents of Czech officers have sailed in recent months from Gdynia to France, where they are reported to be taking up arms in special Czech legions controled by French military authorities.]

There was speculation as to whether the Czech legion was getting any underground encouragement from Czechs in the United States, where former President Benes now is living.

Czech War Legion Recalled.

It was recalled that during the world war, large numbers of Czechs and Slovaks deserted the Austro-Hungarian conscript army and fled to Russia. There, with those who had been taken prisoner, they organized a Czech legion to help the allies.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, arrived in Prague today. Czech political circles believed his visit indicated great importance was attached to a prompt clearing up of incidents in which two policemen, a Czech and a German, were killed.

Fearing disorders, officials of the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia today ordered postponement at the last minute of funeral services for Johann Mueller, Czech policeman killed Friday in a quarrel with German officers.

Czech leaders estimated more than 20,000 persons had gathered at Nachod where Mueller was slain, to take part in the ceremony. Mueller's body remained in the chapel of the Nachod hospital tonight.

The protectorate government tonight forbade all strikes and lockouts. The government said it would announce soon a decree regulating salaries.

Slovak Troops Enter Poland.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Poland, June 13.—Reports that 4,000 Slovak troops had crossed into Poland could not be confirmed tonight. However, in addition to the three military planes which six Slovak aviators flew to Poland yesterday several Slovak soldiers crossed the frontier today. Regarding rumors that Germany may occupy Slovakia it was pointed out that German troops occupied western Slovakia in March with the consent of the Slovak government.

Forms Czech Legion

(Story in Adjoining Column.)

Hundreds of young Czechs from Bohemia and Moravia are joining a so-called Czech legion in Poland with the aim of "resurrecting the Czech nation." It was hinted that the Czechs were crossing the border into Poland through coal mines in the Maerisch-Ostrau region of Moravia (1). At Nachod (2) Nazis ordered the postponement of funeral services for a Czech policeman, slain in a quarrel with German officers. Contingents of Czech army officers have sailed recently from Gdynia (3) to France to join special Czech legions.

KING AND QUEEN CONTINUE TOUR IN SPEEDY AUTO

SAINT JOHN, N. B., June 13.—(AP)—Escorted by scarlet coated motorized Canadian mounties, King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain toured New Brunswick in a streamlined automobile today.

Leaving their train this morning at Newcastle in northern New Brunswick, where they were welcomed by a crowd of lumbermen and farmers at the gayly decorated station, they drove 108 miles to Fredericton, old provincial capital.

After a two hour stay the party traveled sixty-three miles to St. John, oldest incorporated city in the dominion. Here the king and queen spoke with the Mahaney quadruplets—John, on crutches with a broken leg in a cast, and May, Edna, and Christine. They are 15 years old.

HITLER BUILDS UP NAVY AT RECORD BREAKING SPEED

New Battleship Will Be Launched in July.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 13.—While the campaign against so-called "perfidious encircling England" reached a new intensity in the Nazi press today, it was learned that the Adolf Hitler's navy is being increased at a rate believed to be unprecedented in modern naval history.

Early in July Germany's third 35,000 ton battleship and the fifth heavy cruiser will be launched. The speed at which the Nazis are building up the navy can be best gauged by the fact that the battleship to be launched next month was only listed as "planned" in the official yearbook of the German navy. The book was published at the beginning of this year.

Speed Up Battleships.

Foreign observers estimate that at this rate Germany will be able to place her battleships in commission two years after they are laid down, instead of the customary three to four years.

Like its predecessors, the Bismarck and the Admiral Von Tirpitz, the new battleship will carry eight 15-inch guns as main armament. The vessel also will be equipped with twelve 6-inch guns and a large number of anti-aircraft guns.

Immediately after the launching, the keel of another battleship displacing 42,000 tons will be laid down. Of the latter type Germany is building or planning six. In addition, the reich is building five aircraft carriers and many smaller craft, including U-boats.

British plans to establish a ministry of information similar to the German propaganda ministry has aroused the anger of the German press. Papers carried such comments as "British attempt to stab Germany in the back—Preparations for treasonable agitation—Is Lord Northcliffe returning?"

Quit League, Neutrals Warned.

While the Nazi propaganda machine is branding Great Britain and her allies as encirclers, all neutral countries are warned that they prejudice their relations with the Rome-Berlin axis powers if they remain members of the league of nations.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Boersenzeitung writes: "The time approaches when all neutral states desiring good relations with the axis powers must consider whether, under the present circumstances, real neutrality is reconcilable with membership in the league of nations."

Germany, it is said, hopes Jugo-Slavia will be the next country to sever relations with Geneva.

Wide publicity is given in the German press to the opening of "cultural week" in Danzig today, where Albert Foerster, Nazi leader, is reported to have said "Danzig is German and wants to return to Germany."

TRIBUNE COLOR PHOTO OF KING AND QUEEN ASTONISHES LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Mail from the American clipper plane PAA-21 was delivered in London today. Among deliveries to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE correspondent was an envelope containing the THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE picture page in color of Friday morning, June 9, showing King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britian with President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The page is the marvel of Fleet street. Editors and technical staffs of London newspapers unamimously expressed admiration of the fact that a newspaper with an average circulation of more than 900,000 could run off color photos in Chicago which could be seen in London four days later.

"It is a grand accomplishment and congratulations," said the editor of the Daily Telegraph.

5 ARABS SLAIN; BRITISH USE DOGS TO HUNT KILLERS

Jews Are Accused in New Holy Land Terrorism.

JERUSALEM, June 13.—(AP)—British soldiers and police using dogs tonight tried to track down a band which dragged five Arabs from their tents near Haifa and shot them dead today.

Arabs asserted that the killers, dressed in European clothes, were Jews.

A curfew was ordered from 10:30 p. m. until 4 a. m. daily for an indefinite period at Tel Aviv, where six time bombs damaged telephone booths and a railroad station.

A seventh explosion wounded a British constable in a Jaffa suburb.

Jews Find Temporary Havens.

PARIS, June 13.—(AP)—At least temporary havens for the 907 refugee German Jews who have been wandering the seas aboard the liner St. Louis were assured tonight by the governments of France, England, Belgium, and the Netherlands.

These four countries each agreed to take about one-fourth of the shipload of refugees after the American joint distribution committee had volunteered a bond of $500 for each passenger of the liner.

The St. Louis, which left Hamburg on May 15 and turned back to Europe after the Jews were denied permission to land in Cuba and the Dominican Republic, is expected to reach a European port Saturday.

700 Seek to Enter United States.

The American bonds, totaling $453,500, were offered as a guarantee that the refugees would not become public charges of the nations giving them temporary homes.

The Netherlands is to take 194, and each of the other countries is to take up to 250 of the refugees. French authorities said that about 700 have applied for permission to enter the United States and are expected to proceed there after fulfilling immigration requirements.

The negotiations to land the Jews were conducted by the American joint distribution committee and a liaison committee of the league of nations commission for refugees from Germany. A spokesman for the league committee said:

"One thing we must state is that if these are taken care of by certain governments, it is not to constitute a precedent for other shiploads."

Today's action, it was stressed, was to meet an emergency.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Marshall Field & Company

presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

THE BIRTHDAY OF A BANNER

By CALEB

ONE hundred and sixty-two years ago today, Congress officially adopted the Stars and Stripes as the national flag of the United States. And with a strange fitness, Congress likewise appointed, as maker of the first banner, that splendid woman patriot of Revolutionary days—Betsy Griscom Ross, who continued in that capacity until her death, at the ripe age of eighty-four, in 1836. For twenty-one years thereafter, Betsy Ross' daughter was official flagmaker, and visitors to Philadelphia find the Ross mansion a museum of rare historic value as our banner's birthplace.

Embodying the scheme of the French tricolor, our earliest flag was composed of seven red and six white alternating stripes, commemorating the thirteen original states; and in the blue field in the upper left-hand corner was placed a circle of thirteen white stars, increased in number as more states joined the Union, until today there are six rows of eight stars each.

It was this original flag-design which a young American patriot, watching the bombardment of Fort McHenry, near Baltimore, by the British fleet, saw still flying from its ramparts in the smoking dawn of September 13, 1814. Under the inspiration of that hour was born Francis Scott Key's "The Star-Spangled Banner." A popular drinking song of the day, To Anacreon in Heaven, supplied the music; and when Admiral Dewey heard the song, he designated it as a national anthem, Congress so approving it in 1931 . . .

The war standards of ancient times were the logical forerunners of modern flags—individual lords and princes also flaunting their own banners in feudal days. The Roman battle flag, or vexillum, and the standard of Constantine, are among the first uses on record; and the oldest state flag is that of Denmark; while the earliest English flags were those carried by the Crusaders.

Seen by American eyes on some far-off mainland, or flying over some lonely island outpost, the most fleeting glimpse of one's national banner is rendered doubly significant and inspiring. Love of country, pride in its achievements and ideals, incentives to truer nationalism, are Flag Day sentiments that in nowise diminish, but accentuate, the basic note of brotherhood in the beholder's philosophy. For America, more than any other strong world nation, has furnished sanctuary to all races and creeds . . . and under its flag given democratic welcome to all who cherish freedom.

SPANISH TORTURE SUSPECT FACES STRANGULATION

Weird Story of Horror Cells Told at Trial.

BARCELONA, Spain, June 13.—(AP)—A Jugo-Slav architect, 12 times sentenced to death by the Spanish republicans, faces possible execution by strangulation by the nationalists, who charged that he built and decorated weird cells in which prisoners were tortured to blindness and insanity.

The military prosecutor concluded the trial of Alfonso Laurent Cik, 38 years old, in a crowded courtroom of the palace of justice with a demand for his death by garroting. The court withheld sentence pending approval from Burgos, Gen. Francisco Franco's capital.

Describes Fiendish Cells.

The prosecutor declared it had been conclusively proved that Cik directed the construction of little odd shaped concrete cells four feet high and decorated them with diagonal yellow lines, red, white, blue, yellow spots and black and white cubes in such a way that the figures changed shape before the stares of prisoners dazed by highpowered rays from multicolored lamps.

"Never in all the history of Spain has there ever been such refined devices of the most horrible tortures," declared Col. Jose Ungria, chief of the Nationalist secret service.

He estimated that at least 2,000 persons had been held in such cells in a few months before Barcelona was captured.

The prisoners were stripped of their clothing and flogged, and steel rings were placed in their eyes to keep them open, Nationalist witnesses said.

One Cell Built Like Drum.

Others told of raised cement blocks placed in cell floors so the prisoners could not walk about, and of cement chairs and beds built at a slant so the prisoners could not sit or lie down with comfort.

"There was one cell built like a drum, it was declared, so that prisoners' steps echoed as they were forced to walk in circles for hours.

In an impassioned 90 minute plea for his life Cik declared:

"I am innocent. I ask only justice. I had no participation whatsoever in the construction of the torture cells."

The defendant testified that he came to Spain in 1933 from America and sought work as an architect in Barcelona cabarets. He later became a lieutenant in the Spanish Republican army.

Served as Franco Agent.

While serving as an agent of the counter espionage service of Gen. Franco, he related, he was arrested by the Republicans in May of 1937, was sent to a concentration camp and sentenced to death. Altogether, Cik testified, he was sentenced to death on twelve occasions under the Republican régime.

He escaped, however, and joined the syndicalists. The syndicalists then forced him to paint the fantastic designs upon the walls of the little concrete cells which the prosecution charges caused many nationalist prisoners, tortured to extract military information, to go blind and insane.

The architect's attorney asked that the court give him a thirty year sentence on the ground that his client only aided a rebellion.

Cik said he was arrested by the republicans before he could carry out a plan to blow up republican Checa [secret police] headquarters.

He had built a subterranean mine and placed 240 pounds of dynamite in it, intending to ignite the explosive under cover of one of the aerial bombardments of Barcelona, he declared.

LADY ASTOR GIVES AWAY A PARK AND WINS A DISPUTE

LONDON, June 13.—(AP)—Lady Astor gave away a deer park in the Scottish highlands today to win her point in an argument. She apparently won the point, since the member of parliament to whom she offered the land declined to accept it.

Lady Astor.

The Virginia-born Lady Astor's parliamentary foe of the moment, David Kirkwood, Labor leader for Dumbarton burghs, started things by deploring the extent of deer forests in his native highlands and proposing high taxes on such land to force it into cultivation.

Lady Astor interrupted, saying Kirkwood could have her deer park providing he could make a success of farming such poor land. Kirkwood cautiously considered the offer for several minutes, then shouted a roaring acceptance. Later, however, he withdrew his acceptance.

MADRID TO LEAVE AREA IN RUINS AS WAR MEMORIAL

Prices of Food Soar; Ham $1.50 a Pound.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 13.—Two months of peace since its surrender to Gen. Francisco Franco's Nationalists have already made Madrid practically into another city.

Scars of war still show everywhere, especially if you know where to look and how to tell them; but recovery is more rapid than any one had believed possible. Strenuous efforts and skilful planning are wiping away the ruins and marks of damage.

Signs Mark Army Positions.

Most completely shattered of all, the University city area on the northwestern edge of the city, is expected to be left as a monument. This model development, with its huge modern dormitories and medical clinic, has been reduced to complete ruin. Trees have been stripped to dry, shattered poles sticking up among the wreckage and the ground is dangerous to walk upon because of half buried, unexploded bombs and shells that litter the area.

All around neatly painted signs mark out the positions where the armies faced each other for two years and more.

Neighborhood children are scornful of the bombs, though there have been six fatal accidents since the end of the war. They grub about among the wreckage for unexploded cartridges and bits of equipment.

Food Prices Soar.

The rest of the city is better off. It is quickly shaking off the shabbiness left by the war, though it is still far from the neat, clean city Madrid used to be.

There is food enough now, though it is limited in variety and high in price. Many commodities are three times their pre-war price.

Real coffee is almost impossible to get. I could not find any in retail stores at all. Fresh meat is difficult to find, and its cost is triple that of three years ago. Ham costs $1.50 a pound, mutton costs about 60 cents against its pre-war price of 20 to 25 cents, and butter is 75 instead of 45 cents per pound.

ADMITS CARRYING GUN AS HE TRIES TO SEE ROYALTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Ledwedge Vincent Lawler, an Australian, who is accused of having fired a shot at the duchess of Kent on June 5, was quoted at his hearing before a magistrate today as having said he carried a gun around Buckingham palace and Windsor castle for several days because he wanted to see dukes and kings.

Lawlor, who is 45 years old, also was charged at today's hearing with having fired a shot through a window of the Mayfair house of Lord Harewood and the princess royal on June 4. Lord Harewood and the princess royal are the brother-in-law and sister of King George VI. of Great Britain. The duchess of Kent is the king's sister-in-law. Lawlor is accused of having fired at her automobile as she was leaving her Belgrave square home for a movie.

Lawlor pleaded not guilty to both charges. He was held without bail for trial at Old Bailey. A statement Lawler is alleged to have made was quoted by H. A. K. Morgan, the prosecutor.

FIRE IN CHURCH FOR THIRD TIME; SHRINE DAMAGED

For the third time since March fire of apparently incendiary origin was discovered yesterday in St. Mary of Magdalene Catholic church, 8412 South Marquette avenue. On two other occasions burning papers have been found in the rear of the church. Yesterday's blaze damaged the shrine of the Blessed Virgin and caused $700 damage.

Except for the prompt action of Sister Eulalia, who discovered the fire, 890 children attending classes on the second and third floors of the church might have been imperiled.

Sister Eulalia sounded the school alarm and the children, ranging in age from 6 to 13 years, marched out calmly, thinking they were responding to a periodic fire drill.

3 Policemen Dismissed on Charges of Drinking

Three policemen were dismissed from the police department yesterday on charges of drinking. They were William Miller of the Central station, James A. Madden of the South Chicago station, and Oscar T. Aaflei of the Marquette station.

Defer Hearing Protesting Small Phone Book Type

A public hearing on the size of type used in Chicago telephone directories was continued to June 27 yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission when the complainant, Alfred O'Connor, failed to appear. O'Connor had asked the commission to require the telephone company to use larger type.

DENIED LINGERIE, CONVICT MINERS START A MUTINY

Finally Give Up Strike on Threat of Tear Gas.

Lansing, Kas., June 13.—[Special.]—A four hour mutiny in the Kansas state penitentiary was broken today when 229 convicts capitulated on their demands for silk underwear and bedtime snacks in their cells.

Robert Murray.

Refusing to mine coal, the rebellious prisoners remained at the bottom of a 750 foot mine shaft where they held twelve guards and Robert Murray, mine superintendent, captive.

The convicts' decision to surrender was reached shortly before the arrival in the pit of twenty guards armed with machine guns and tear gas and under instructions to use both weapons to bring the rebels to terms.

No Silks, Warden Orders.

The mutiny was precipitated by an order from Warden M. F. Amrine to the prison commissary to stop selling silk underwear to prisoners. The warden said, however, that 100 inmates owning such underwear would be permitted to wear it out.

The strike began after 251 convicts had entered the shaft at 7 a. m. They held Supt. Murray prisoner for three hours and then sent him to the surface with their demands that the warden rescind his order.

Amrine declared he would not meet the demands and sent Murray back with instructions that all prisoners who would not work should come to the top. Twenty-two men responded. The others remained below.

An hour later, when the heavily armed guards were preparing to descend upon them, the rebels began crowding into the elevator cage and were brought to the surface.

Six Accused of Drunkenness.

Warden Amrine said six of the convicts were drunk when they were brought out. He described two others as tipsy and said another apparently was still hidden in the mine.

The convicts who showed no further desire to strike were sent back to work. Those who persisted in their wish for mutiny were placed in punishment cells to await trial by a disciplinary court.

Amrine, who became warden on May 3, had not been popular with the convicts after he conducted an investigation which uncovered two liquor stills in the prison mine.

Today's mutiny was the fourth in the prison in recent years. On June 18, 1935, a twenty-one hour strike was conducted by 348 convicts who barricaded themselves at the bottom of the shaft until guards subdued them. In 1926 about 325 miners stayed in the mine 72 hours and a year later 372 inmates mutinied there for 36 hours.

BUBS QUINLAN'S WOMAN FRIEND SENT TO PRISON

Mrs. Josephine Hodelka Nylen, who stole $11,375 from the village of Summit during the years she worked as a clerk in the village treasurer's office, was sentenced yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court to one year in the Dwight reformatory.

Mrs. Josephine Nylen.

During her trial Mrs. Nylen, who is 26 years old, testified that she had given village funds to Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, south side gangster and handbook operator who was shot to death in 1934. Quinlan's widow, Mae, denied Bubs ever took any money from Mrs. Nylen.

Mrs. Nylen's attorney, James M. Burke, had asked Judge McKinley for a light sentence for the attractive young woman on the ground that she had not benefited from the funds she stole. Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli had asked the maximum sentence of from one to fifteen years.

Mrs. Nylen burst into tears when she heard the sentence.

HIGHER LEARNING FRILLS ASSAILED BY DR. HUTCHINS

799 Granted Degrees by U. of Chicago.

The triviality and futility of many current forms of higher education were denounced yesterday by Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago. He spoke at the university's 196th convocation in Rockefeller Memorial chapel.

Degrees were awarded to 799 candidates, raising to 1,776 the total awarded during the university's four convocations of the academic year.

"The test of true education is not whether the graduates are millionaires or ditch diggers," said Dr. Hutchins. "Even if they were all ditch diggers they would still be educated citizens that a democracy demands if they had sound character, a disciplined mind, and an elevated spirit.

Then he assailed the type of learning offered by many colleges and universities:

"Our people may properly complain at the triviality, futility, and confusion of most programs now masquerading as higher education. These schools must confess their offerings are such as to drive their students to seek mental stimulation in gladitorial contests, college life, and the consumption of live fish.

What Education Can Do.

"Unfortunately the public complaints on these scores are neither loud nor numerous. We hear instead that the universities are not up to date, that they are not practical, and that they must have too many students because their graduates can no longer be sure of good jobs.

"Since no college or university can possibly guarantee financial independence or social success, it perpetrates a fraud on its students if it permits them to cherish the superstition that it can.

"Graduation from college does not carry with it the promise that the graduate will even be able to earn a living. . . . You cannot imagine that either profit or prestige was handed you with your diploma. Perhaps that is just as well."

Not a Way to Wealth.

"We must recognize," he continued, "that you may never make a nickel that you would not have made if you had never come here; that your education will not hoist you by so much as a single rung up the social ladder, and that with the finest degree in America you may have to support yourself by pushing buttons."

"Higher education can confer the capacity to read, to distinguish what is worth reading and what is not, to enjoy reading what is, and the habit of doing it. It can confer, too, the ability to think, to distinguish what is worth thinking about and the habit of thinking about important things in a disciplined way."

Honors for Chinese Envoy.

At the morning session President Hutchins conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United States. The citation accompanying the degree lauded Dr. Hu's leadership in assisting China to join the march of the modern world.

The day's youngest graduate is Robert E. Kronemyer, 17 years old, 6156 Kimball avenue, who received his bachelor's degree in economics. Robert said he had kept his age secret for three years, fearing it might interfere with his chances of obtaining work.

Last night at the annual law school alumni association banquet at Hutchinson commons, a leather bound book of letters from his former students was presented to Harry A. Bigelow, who retires on July 1 as dean of the law school.

The presentation was made by George M. Morris, class of 1915, now a Washington, D. C., attorney. Dean Bigelow, who has held that post since 1929, will continue with the law school as a professor. William G. Katz will succeed him as dean.

CITY TO OBSERVE FLAG DAY WITH PATRIOTIC DRILLS

Flag day will be celebrated today throughout Chicago. In classrooms and assembly halls in every public school, and in dozens of parks and clubhouses, children will gather for flag drills, patriotic music, and a review of the history of the American flag. American Legion posts throughout the county will hold special ceremonies this week in honor of the flag. Representative Hamilton Fish of New York will arrive this morning to address Flag day exercises tonight in the Waukegan Township High school.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the Catholic Youth organization, will be the principal speaker tonight at a city-wide Flag day rally in Riverview park. The rally is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus of Chicago and Cook county. The group will hold its annual barbecue to aid Bishop Sheil's youth fund during the day. Jeremiah Sheehan is in charge of arrangements.

40 FATHERS OF 40 ERRING SONS GET LESSON IN COURT

Warned by Judge Bicek on Parental Neglect.

Forty boys huddled in small, disconsolate groups outside the Juvenile court yesterday. They were there for a number of reasons: dependency, delinquency, truancy, the theft of a car, the theft of a bicycle. Inside the courtroom stood forty men, their fathers. Before them was Judge Frank Bicek, standing stiffly beside his bench.

"Your boys are in trouble," he began slowly, looking sternly from one to the other. Before him the eyes of the men dropped uneasily. "I have called you here because you are fathers. Sunday is Father's day. There are some things you must hear."

Above the judge hung a portrait of Abraham Lincoln, his small son Tad pressed against his knee as they read together. In the hands of the judge was a thick typewritten volume, the case records of the forty boys who were to face arraignment, their crimes, and their parents.

Hits Parental Neglect.

"I find," said Judge Bicek, "that one of the outstanding causes of juvenile crime is parental neglect. By that I mean a failure to recognize that children have problems as well as the parents.

"It is better for a child to have no parents at all than to have both parents indifferent to their welfare. The job of rearing children, gentlemen, is not a part time job. It is a full time job day in and day out. Rearing children, if it is done right, is the biggest, most important business in the world. It pays the greatest dvidends."

The men shifted their feet. They looked about them, surprised and dismayed at this strange departure from court procedure.

Offers Advice to Them.

"Let me advise you," continued Judge Bicek, his tone softening. "Get to know your boy. Live his every day life with him. Give him your confidence; you may expect his in return. Accept his friends; he will make you one of them. Respect his ideas, but try to guide him. To do these things you must spend your time with your son.

"Last of all, love him, and let him know it. That is the way, the only way, to be a father."

150 SPORTSMEN FLYERS ENTER 2D AMATEUR SHOW

Pilots from 8 States Will Compete June 25.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Sportsmen flyers from eight midwestern states have entered the second annual Amateur Air show to be held on Curtiss field, Glenview, Sunday, June 25. Co-promoters Bob Morrow and Pat Sweeney announced yesterday that they have received definite entries from 150 pilots who will fly 126 different light planes to Chicago for the meeting.

Sweeney said more than 200 small privately owned planes are expected to be on the field. Most of these ships will be flown by men and women who fly purely for the love of flying and spend their own funds to maintain their skill in the air. They will compete for cups, plaques, and medallions. No cash prizes will be offered to attract the professional exhibition flyer.

Limited to Small Planes.

To further the amateur spirit the promoters have limited entries to light airplanes. No ship with a motor developing more than seventy-five horse power can be flown in the competitive events. And there will be contests of piloting skill limited to planes with forty horse power and fifty horse power motors.

Seventy-seven of the pilots already entered live in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Ohio. A number are entered from downstate Illinois and the remainder are from Chicagoland airports. Mass flights with as many as 25 and 30 planes in a group are to be made to Chicago by entrants.

There will be at least 15 young women flyers entered. A number will compete with men in the open contests. Special events for women are also planned. One of these will be a race for planes of 50 horse power or more.

Two Races for Airmen.

There will be two races for men, one for planes of not more than 50 horse power and the other for ships with 75 horse power motors. An entirely new principle is to be followed. The races are to be flown around a two mile triangular course instead of the usual five mile or more course. Thus spectators will be able to see every plane in the race at all times.

Col. Roscoe Turner, the country's No. 1 professional racing pilot, will be the chief starter for the show. A number of airline officials and expert airmen from the army and the commercial airlines have promised to act as judges and timers.

In addition to the conpetitive events there will be a number of stunt and demonstration flights by test pilots for the manufacturers of the light planes. A United Air Lines sleeper plane will be on exhibition.

CHICAGO BROKER SAILS TO SOLVE SHIP MYSTERY

Miami, Fla., June 13.—(AP)—Waldo Logan, Chicago broker, sailed for Cuba with diving equipment and cameras tonight to attempt to solve an 85 year old mystery of the United States navy—the disappearance of U. S. S. Albany.

Logan will join Capt. John D. Craig, author and adventurer, on the Isle of Pines and with an expedition will go to a point nearby in the Caribbean sea where the sunken wreck of a ship has been found. It is believed to be the Albany, which disappeared in 1854.

SEEK SUPREME COURT RULING ON WOMEN JURORS

Judges of County Act to Test New Law.

Cook county authorities arranged yesterday for a speedy test in the Illinois Supreme court of the constitutionality of the new law which gives women the right to sit on juries. It becomes effective on July 1.

This step was taken to guard against the possibility that the law might be ruled invalid by the high court after women had served as jurors in many cases. Prisoners convicted by such juries then would have a valid ground for their release.

The decision was reached at a conference in the chambers of Judge Harry M. Fisher who said it is hoped to obtain a decision before local courts begin their fall terms.

Women Lawyers Coöperate.

Present were Judges Fisher and John Prystalski, representing the Circuit court; Judges Peter H. Schwaba and Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court; County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Also at the conference were Attorney Walter F. Dodd, an authority on constitutional law and the following members of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois: Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, Mrs. Jean Smith Evans, president; Mrs. Grace H. Harte, chairman of the legislative committee, and Miss Martha E. Cardwell, chairman of the jury committee.

By prearrangement, the judges served notice on the jury commissioners to prepare a list of women for jury service. John Traeger Sr., as head of the commission, will refuse, it was announced.

The jury commissioners will contend that the new law is invalid on constitutional grounds. They will argue that the state constitution, by implication, restricts jurors to men only in two places: first, where it states that trial by jury is guaranteed "as heretofore enjoyed," and second, where it provides for juries of "less than twelve men," as in justice of the peace courts.

Contend It's Generic Term.

As soon as the jury commissioners refuse, probably within a few days, the Women's Bar association will petition the Supreme court to issue a mandamus requiring the listing of women for jury service.

"In our petition the bar association will contend that the new law is valid and constitutional," said Miss Cardwell. "The constitution uses the term 'men,' in the generic sense of mankind generally, that is, men and women, as other states have so held."

DENTIST CONFERS WITH STATE ON WIFE DROWNING

Dr. L. V. Dorman.

Dr. L. V. Dorman, whose attractive bride, Virginia, was drowned last Wednesday when the sail boat in which she was sailing with her husband capsized off Belmont harbor, conferred with Assistant State's Attorney John Long for two hours at the state's attorney's office yesterday. An autopsy performed on Mrs. Dorman's body revealed death was due to drowning.

Dr. Dorman, a dentist who lives at 4157 North Pulaski road, said after his meeting with Long that he had come voluntarily to the state's attorney's office for the conference. He also declared that the autopsy had been performed at his request to silence rumors that were being circulated. Dr. Dorman said his wife's body has been cremated in accordance with her wishes, and the ashes will be scattered upon Lake Michigan next Sunday.

LIBRARIANS URGE SENATE TO DENY MAC LEISH POST

The American Library association asked the United States senate yesterday to deny confirmation of Archibald MacLeish, poet, as librarian of congress because "he lacks the essential qualifications of a librarian." The request was made through Milton James Ferguson, president of the association in an open letter to President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner, and the senate. Ferguson is head of the Brooklyn public library.

MacLeish, a native of Glencoe, Ill., was nominated for the post recently. The nomination was sent to the senate by President Roosevelt recently. MacLeish lives in Farmington, Conn. He was born in 1892, son of the late Andrew MacLeish, official of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.

He was graduated from Yale university and the Harvard law school, won the Pulitzer prize in 1932 for his volume "Conquistador," and for the last year has been curator of the Nieman journalistic collection at Harvard.

Representative Thomas of New Jersey charged recently in the United States house of representatives that MacLeish was "a fellow traveler" of the communist party. He further identified MacLeish as one of the leading members of the League of American Writers, which he labeled a united front setup of the communist party.

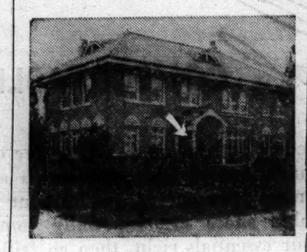
JOE SALTIS FINDS THAT HIS HOUSE IS WIFE'S CASTLE

Court Orders Police Guard to Keep Him Away.

On the theory that a man is always welcome in his own home—even if he has to break windows to get in—Big Joe Saltis, the ex-beer baron, has got himself in trouble again.

His wife, Anna, charged that Saltis, who never has been able to handle his marital affairs as well as he did his prohibition era breweries, has been ignoring the injunction that is supposed to keep him away from her, their four children, and the $50,000 Saltis residence at 9857 South Bell avenue.

Mrs. Saltis and her attorney, Julius Selinger, made the charge yesterday before Judge Oscar F. Nelson. Saltis and the Gresham police have been to the mansion so often recently that she appealed to Judge Nelson for protection.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Arrow points to window in front door of $50,000 Saltis home at 9857 South Bell avenue which Joe Saltis broke to get in, according to wife's complaint.

Wife Describes Visit.

On June 2, she declared, Saltis appeared and demanded admission. While the eldest son, Edward, kept him engaged at the front door Mrs. Saltis called the Gresham station and a police squad took Joe away.

Mrs. Saltis said that last Monday, while she was attending the graduation of a young relative, Saltis appeared at the house again and found the four children alone. When they refused to let him in he smashed a front window and staggered in, Judge Nelson was told.

"He threatened to kill them and to kill me," Mrs. Saltis declared. "He even threatened to kill himself. He finally left, but he came back last night while I was home. We guarded the broken front window, but he smashed a rear glass and reeled in. He said he wanted his clothes.

Police to the Rescue.

"I phoned the Gresham police again and told them Joe was going to kill us all. They sent five or six squads this time and took him away again. But he'll come back. The police said he couldn't because of the injunction. They ought to know Joe better by this time."

Judge Nelson summoned Lieut. Archie Kane from Police Commissioner Allman's office and ordered him to post a detail of men at the Saltis mansion.

"If Saltis shows up again, don't hold him for the Municipal court," the judge ordered. "Hold him for this court, and he'll soon find out that injunctions mean something."

Mrs. Saltis' divorce bill, charging cruelty, is pending. She charges that Joe has squandered or hidden the fortune he built as a beer baron. Joe charges that she has hidden it and has asked that she be ordered to support him.

LORRAINE MILLER.

The inquest into the death of Charles Weller, 18 years old, a Tilden Technical High school pupil who died early Thursday as the result of a skull fracture, will be continued at 10:30 a. m. today in the Woodlawn police station by Deputy Coroner Lawrence Rasmussen.

Woodlawn police have been holding Julius Perlman, 17, Hyde Park High school pupil, since yesterday. Young Perlman and Weller were reported to have engaged in a fist fight Wednesday after arguing over athletic merits of their schools.

Perlman, in chance conversation with a classmate, Miss Lorraine Miller, 17, of 6619 Kenwood avenue, learned of Weller's death. Miss Miller, who was a friend of Weller's, told his mother, who reported to the police.

Weller was the son of Mrs. Florence Weller, 1426 East 65th place, a clerk at the board of education. Perlman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perlman of 5717 Dorchester avenue.

Perlman's father, a government income tax attorney, said last night he had information that the Weller boy was the victim of a hit and run driver after the fight. He said he believed he had information that would bring in the guilty driver.

PADDING OF PENN PAY ROLL TOLD AT OFFICIAL'S TRIAL

Aid Testifies Year's Cash Spent in 4 Mos.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 13.—(AP)—A Pennsylvania highway engineer testified today at the trial of his former chief—Roy E. Brownmiller, charged with pay roll padding—that more than $250,000 in excess of a year's allotment had been spent in one county in four months preceding last year's election.

The state introduced its first testimony to the jury trying the secretary of highways in the preceding Democratic state administration. Republicans won control in January. Brownmiller's trial is the first of a dozen Democrats indicted on charges made during the primary campaign.

Excess Finally Passes $600,000.

Armand E. Keeley, assistant to the chief engineer of the state highway department, testified the department allocated $450,000 to Luzerne county for road work in the fiscal year 1938; that this sum was exhausted plus an additional $250,000 by September, and that by Dec. 1 the excess reached $600,000. Prosecuting Attorney Earl V. Compton contended this money was "misused for political purposes."

Keeley submitted budget figures and expenditures and identified letters he wrote to Brownmiller in which he protested heavy expenditures in Luzerne county.

Keeley said a district engineer told him he had 9,000 men on the district pay rolls and was spending $45,000 a day.

Compton told the jury he would show, through other witnesses, that there were 20,000 on the pay roll in Luzerne on Nov. 15, and that about 6,000 of the names were fictitious. "Some were on relief; some were the names of school children," he said.

Fights for Law License.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13.—(AP)—Judge Harry McDevitt today ordered the county board of law examiners to give its reasons for refusing former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti admission to the Philadelphia county bar. The order was issued as the Punxsutawney and Pittsburgh lawyer made his third attempt to obtain permission to practice law here. Hearing is set for Monday.

Margiotti, ousted from office by former Gov. George H. Earle, brought many of the indictment producing charges against his former associates during the whirlwind Democratic primary campaign. He is scheduled to appear as a witness against these former associates, now facing trial at Harrisburg.

BROOKFIELD CHIEF DENIES CHARGE OF DONATION RACKET

Defends Sale of Police Dance Tickets.

Capt. H. Chester Crosby, acting police chief of the suburb of Brookfield, last night defended the recent sale of tickets to a dance given last Friday for the benefit of the Benevolent Association of the Brookfield Police department. The money went to a fund used for sick and needy policemen or their widows and orphans, he said.

Senator George Dixon [R., Dixon], complained to Chief Walter Williams of the state highway police that truckers of Lee county had been forced to make donations to the Brookfield dance fund. He asked that truck owners be protected against reprisals from Brookfield police and said many trucks had been stopped on the highways and drivers asked to contribute.

Denies Street Solicitation.

"There was no street solicitation," Capt. Crosby said. "There was no racketeering. We made legitimate sales of tickets for a legitimate entertainment given in a deserving cause. I am sorry to hear of Senator Dixon's complaint. It is the only one I have heard.

"We have staged four benefit entertainments in the last five years for the benevolent association of the department. In the last few years we have not permitted any street sales nor was any village policeman asked to sell a single ticket.

"Citizens and business interests of the village were asked by phone or mail to buy tickets. We did send 70 to 75 letters to the big trucking companies which use the highways through Brookfield. But we certainly did not apply any muscle; we only asked them to help.

Denies Stopping Trucks.

"They need not fear their trucks will be stopped in Brookfield. We will give the same service to all whether or not they bought tickets. It is untrue that any drivers were stopped on our highways and asked to donate. We thought we had satisfied all concerned that we were going about a benevolent affair in a gentlemanly way and we didn't receive one sour reply to any of our letters."

The dance was held at the Melody Mill in North Riverside and a pleasant time was had by all, Acting Chief Crosby declared. The affair netted $1,100, which brought the funds of the benevolent association to something more than $4,000, to be used for emergencies or when needed, he added.

Senator Dixon said several of his constituents had reported giving $5 to policemen on the road. Others said they were asked on the telephone for $10 to $15 and some truck owners were asked for $50, Dixon said. Chief Williams of the state highway police said he would refer complaints to State's Attorney Courtney.

TWO BANDITS HELD TO JURY.

Burton Babler, 34 years old, and Melvin H. Hansen, 29, both of 2819 Madison street, were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court in bonds of $30,000 each on three charges of robbery. They were arrested after robbing a gasoline station at 1647 North La Salle street of $25 on May 29.

NIGHT SPOTS GAY OVER PROSPECTS OF 4 A. M. CURFEW

See Dawn of New Life in Extra Fee Plan.

Operators of representative night clubs, cabarets, and restaurants were polled last night for their reactions to the council's proposed 4 a. m. closing hour with increased license fees. Their answers were:

Hi-Hat restaurant, 871 Rush street. It will be all right. What else can we do but pay the difference? Our business doesn't start until 9 or 10 o'clock.

Isbell's restaurant, 940 Rush street. It's swell, but they ought to give us half a year free.

Old Heidelberg Inn, 14 West Randolph. What can we do? We shall rejoice with the rest, even though we always closed at 1 o'clock.

The Pit, 875 Rush street. It will be all right with us; we'll be glad to pay the difference.

Rose Bowl, 865 Rush street. The extra fees are satisfactory, but taverns must not be allowed to encroach on the extra hours for night clubs.

Colony Club, 744 Rush street. It's all right with us. We'll have to pay the difference; what else can we do?

The Ranch, 123 East Oak street. [Gus Terzake, owner, was a member of the Chicago Restaurant association's committee that dealt with the council committee.] That's good! You bet we'll pay! We should have the same closing hour as New York, 4 o'clock. Chicago is driving conventions away with its present law. We provide no entertainment, but there are plenty of people who don't go to night clubs who want a drink after 1 a. m.

Chez Paree, 610 Fairbanks court. We think it's fine. Sure we'll pay the difference.

Old Hickory Inn, 514 Diversey parkway. We are very much in favor of the proposal and the extra fee is okay. It's worth it to stay open; 80 per cent of our business after midnight is at the bar.

885 Club, 885 Rush street. It sounds reasonable.

Gay 90's Music Hall, 1022 Rush street. We want to stay open at any price.

WHAT MADE STALIN'S OPPONENTS SIGN THEIR OWN DEATH WARRANTS?
WHY DID major Bolshevik leaders "confess" to crimes they couldn't possibly have committed—and then go to their death before a firing squad? That mystery, which has long puzzled the Western mind, is discussed in the Post this week by a former Soviet insider who narrowly missed execution himself. He gives you a new insight into those elaborately staged "treason trials" in Moscow last year, reveals how Stalin stole a leaf from Hitler's book, and shows what happens when Stalin meets opposition.

"If that kid wins another fight HE'S A SUCKER!"
"He knows how to win, but he hasn't found out how to lose!" warned the ring-scarred veteran. "And if he doesn't find that out, Mary, you'll have a mush-eared, punch-drunk husband, with bells ringing in his ears." And so the old-timer cooked up the only cure he knew for a ring-crazy college hero.

"PROSPERITY IS IN OUR HANDS...IF-"

WHAT can the man in the street do to put our 11,000,000 idle men and $4,000,000,000 idle money back to work? Is it Government's worry? Or industry's? Or whose? Wendell L. Willkie, new champion of private enterprise, tackles the question everybody is talking about, and gives you a new angle on it. INCOME TAX IS INTEREST MONEY.

The payment of the second instalment on the year's income tax bill is a proper occasion for considering some of the facts about the tax. It is now in its twenty-sixth year. Other nations had income taxes before 1913 when the 16th amendment conferred the authority upon congress to levy the tax on American incomes. Other nations previous to 1913 and since that year have levied income taxes which increased with the size of income. But no nation has levied or is now levying a general tax at a rate as high as that imposed upon the higher incomes in the United States.

Our income tax is unique in another respect. Other nations levy high taxes upon their citizens, but do so with the single-minded purpose of raising revenue. Nonrevenue aims have no place in foreign income tax legislation. Previous to the present administration that could also be said of American income tax laws. But under the present national administration the purpose of the income tax, the principal purpose, is, so far as the higher incomes are concerned, not to raise money but to soak the rich and appropriate their incomes. If it were money the Roosevelt administration was after the tax rate would be cut.

The individual who is recognized as the highest economic authority by the present national administration, John Maynard Keynes, has advised that "a reduction of taxation will run a better chance than an increase of balancing the budget."

One much humbler than a leading government adviser could have perceived this truth by referring to the reports of the treasury since 1929. Starting in 1930 there has been a persistent increase in tax rates. But as the rate has gone up the revenue has gone down. The largest collections in the period have been made in the years when the rates have been lowest. At the peak rate this year the tax receipts will be little more than half of what they were when the percentage of exaction was at the minimum. The point of diminishing returns in tax rates on large incomes has long since been passed.

By the application of these high rates, running up as high as 79 per cent on the largest incomes, and of stiff rates in American experience on intermediate incomes, the government will obtain 900 million dollars this year. The incomes of all the people of the United States in 1938, on which this year's tax is based, aggregated 64 billion dollars. That is 4 billion above the average for the six years Mr. Roosevelt has been President. Year in and year out, a national income, therefore, in excess of 60 billion dollars cannot be expected from an economy which is subject to the kind of regulation which the Roosevelt administration has imposed.

If 60 billion dollars constitutes the nation's expectable income at present, then 900 million dollars is the expectable yield from the income tax. If any more is obtained it will have to be by increasing the rates on intermediate incomes and levying income taxes on people regarded by every previous administration as too poor to pay the income tax

Another tax which also was levied to force a sharing of the wealth is the inheritance and the estate tax of 1935. It was sent to congress for enactment in a surprise move at a time when Huey Long's original share the wealth movement was going like wildfire. This year's yield from this tax will probably amount to about 350 million dollars. That tax, too, has exhausted the possibilities so far as the rich and the near-rich are concerned. At the time of the death of Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, it was calculated that the estate and inheritance taxes would take all but about 19 per cent of his estate and that a considerable portion of the balance would go for administration charges.

The income tax and the estate taxes both soaking the rich beyond the point of diminishing returns will bring to the government about a billion and a quarter dollars this year. This will be just enough to pay the interest on the national debt. The 3 million people who will pay their tax on Thursday should understand that their money is not going to provide for the unemployed or for the national defense, but that it and other revenue will be needed to pay interest on a debt half of which was incurred through wasteful expenditures during the last six years.

A WARNING TO BE HEEDED.

The official canvass showed that the two bond issues submitted to a referendum by Cook county voters at the June 5 judicial election were beaten by about a three to two vote.

The bonds were proposed to finance additions to the County hospital and the Oak Forest infirmary. The projects possessed considerable merit, and in consequence the arguments for increasing the county's debt had more than usual plausibility.

Inasmuch as the judicial victory went to a coalition ticket, the election cannot be called a Democratic party victory. Nevertheless, most independent voters stayed away from the polls, satisfied that the ticket they favored would win, as it did, and as a result the Democratic machine vote exerted more influence than it would have done in a hotter contest.

Conditions were thus extremely favorable for carrying a proposition that the machine originated and favored. In spite of these favorable conditions the bonds lost. When it came to a clear cut referendum on a question of public spending the machine could not deliver enough even of its own voters to carry the proposal.

It is to be hoped that this lesson will not be lost, either in the city or at Springfield. Inasmuch as the day of miracles is past, it is too much to hope that it will be heeded at Washington.

WAGNER ACT STRIKES.

The New Deal influence in congress is being exerted to prevent amendment of the Wagner labor relations act. Meanwhile in Flint, in Detroit, in Milwaukee, and other centers, factory operation is being interrupted and further interferences are threatened by rival labor potentates.

The Wagner act was supposed to establish peaceful labor relations. Instead it has promoted strikes. It was supposed to provide an orderly means of adjusting labor controversies. Instead it has encouraged violence and continues to encourage it. The act was supposed to provide a means of determining labor representation with which management can deal. Today we see management in strike-bound plants unable to adjust grievances because the Wagner-created labor board refuses to call elections which would establish the rights of competing labor organizations to speak for the employés.

It is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the administration in Washington and its creature, the labor board, desire industrial stagnation and disorder. The situation is an intolerable one. It explains to no small extent the present popularity of state legislation directed against labor excesses. The New Dealers promote strikes and leave the states to suffer the consequences. Naturally state officials are indignant. They have to quell the riots, reëstablish public order, protect life and property and take the blame for any injuries which may be inflicted in the process.

If there ever were any doubt of the need for amendment of the Wagner act in the interest of fairness to all, that doubt has now been removed. The strikes in the automobile industry, directed not against employers but against rival union organizations, could be prevented if the employer were authorized to demand an election of labor representatives in such circumstances. Americans are familiar with the process of election and are accustomed to accepting the results. The present troubles could have been avoided and should have been avoided. They were not avoided because the New Deal didn't want to prevent injustice and disorder.

THE SHORTCAKE SITUATION.

With the home grown crop at hand, it is a pleasure to report that true Americanism is winning on the strawberry shortcake front. Alien proponents of the subversive sponge cake are on the run. Biscuit dough holds the field.

Now is no time, however, to relax vigilance. Our spies, reporting in from white front restaurants, hotels, and railroad diners, convince us that many of our converts are only rice Christians. They are afraid to flaunt their nauseous sponge cake concoction before the public as they once did. But they still sneak off to pagan shrines, we suspect, to burn a couple of punk sticks before a cube of petrified cake, stingily topped with halves of verdigris hued berries and sprinkled with powdered sugar.

The vigilant may easily detect these clandestine backsliders. They are the scoundrels who make shortcake with cold biscuits.

This is just a type of sabotage intended to retrieve the lost cause of sponge cake. They substitute for the true bread of our fathers something that looks and tastes as if it was knocked out on a punch press. Perhaps it is. It perils the digestion of the young and the teeth of the aged. Attacked with a fork, it frequently skitters to the far end of the table, spraying berries and juice in its flight.

Baking powder biscuit, of which true shortcake is only a richer variant, must be eaten hot to be eaten at all. Moreover, shortcake should come to the table on a large platter, a warm and slightly crumbly slab, split and buttered and both filled and covered with berries well crushed. In serving it, preferably with a pancake turner and a deep spoon, the hostess attains the same importance as the host in carving a turkey. And usually comes off with more dignity, we might add.

Mrs. Bevans may not have noted it, but individual shortcakes are an important contributing factor to the increasing unmannerliness of the young. When the whole magnificent confection was on the table they had only to squirm to make known their obvious need of a second helping. Now they have to holler.

UP FROM THE RANKS.
[The Elgin Courier-News.]

The United States has reason to be proud of Stanley W. Dziuban.

He has led the 456 members of his graduating class at the military academy at West Point through the four years of their hard grind.

Of course, in every class somebody does that. But Dziuban's performance means more than that of some class leaders at the academy. He was appointed from the ranks of the regular army.

A Yonkers, N. Y., boy, he went through high school there, studied a year at New York university. But he was a member of New York's 71st National Guard infantry. And in this field, open to all young Americans, he saw his opportunity. He enlisted in the 62d coast artillery and promptly attended the Second Corps area preparatory school which the army maintains for the benefit of ambitious regular army men.

But most important is the fact that pull, position, and patronage had nothing to do with his success. The army has been wise in keeping this road open to any private in the army. What Dziuban has done, any private can do.

That is the democratic way, and it is the wise way, too, for any army and any government must keep the road to progress open on equal terms to all who have "what it takes."

BORIS AND THE BALLET.

Speaking of royal visits again: In the summer of 1902, the Grand Duke Boris of Russia, a cousin of the czar and heir presumptive, visited Chicago. A prominent citizen who helped to entertain both Boris and, a little later, Prince Henry of Prussia, says:

"They were different breeds. Prince Henry was thoroughly respectable, at least on the surface of things. His imperial highness, Grand Duke Boris, was given at times, and not infrequently, to unseemly levity.

"Boris attended a light opera performance here, went behind the scenes during an intermission, and ignored the attractive star for the chorus girls, whom he invited as his guests at an after-theater supper. It was during this entertainment that he was reported to have drunk champagne from the slipper of each and every girl.'

The girls came from "The Wizard of Oz" and also "King Dodo." The party was given in the home of Baron von Schlippenbach, Russian consul, in the Charlevoix apartments on North Michigan avenue. William J. Burns, secret service agent, was on guard at the door. A newspaper reporter, barred from the festivities, heard much singing of a song from "The Wizard of Oz":

'Twas Mister Dooley, 'twas Mister Dooley,
The greatest man this country ever knew.
He's diplomatic, he's democratic,
Is Mister Dooley, ooley, ooley, oo.

And then a few bars of the Russian national anthem, solo by Boris.

"The grand duke is merely enjoying a quiet little time with his friends," the G-man explained to the reporter.

All this corrects our statement [June 7] that Prince Henry of Prussia was the slipper-sipper. The charge against Boris was false, according to the testimony of the late Percy Hammond, who afterwards admitted that he invented the tale.

VACATION INERTIA.

Part of me says: "Go!"
Cautious part says: "Stay!"
(Trails where pine woods grow,
Are so far away.)

Part, in a canoe,
Slip-slaps down a lake;
Part says: "Nice to do—
But your back will ache!"

Part, by some wood fire,
Hears a calling loon—
Sees a pine tree's spire,
Silvered in the moon.

Lazy part says this:
"Long, too hard, a bore—
Even waves that kiss
Any pebbled shore."

Always, urge and scold—
Always, to one end:
Staying, I'd be old—
That, may God forfend!

The Alleged Walls of Libby Prison.

A newspaper story states that the walls of the Coliseum are the original walls of old Libby prison. Am I right in my belief that those gray stone battlements along Wabash avenue were simply the Chicago built symbolical surroundings for the prison, itself a brick structure that once had been a Richmond, Va., tobacco warehouse?

What became of the prison and its exhibits?

What became of the cast iron Union soldiers once posted along the top of the stone wall?

Footnote to History of Sherlock Holmes.

The country estate of the late William Gillette, who was Sherlock Holmes on the stage, near Lyme, Conn., now accepts paying guests and is on the real estate market. It includes 143 acres, a private lake, a private railroad three miles long, a twenty room house, art "treasures," theatrical collections, and all kinds of oddments and gadgets. Sic transit gloria! Ancient Penalty for Tree Murder.

Recent discussions in the Line of the wanton destruction of our trees brings to mind the punishment inflicted for this offense, according to James G. Frazer in his "Golden Bough," by the primitive peoples of northern Europe. Their method was to dig out the navel of the offender, affix it to the mutilated tree, and slowly wind his entrails around the trunk by marching him around it.

IN FEAR OF PARTING.

I like the way you ask, "How have you been?"
It is a benison to know that through
The waiting hours' unswerving discipline
You thought of me as I thought then of you;
That down long miles between us beamed a road
The mind made bright with constant journeying
And so it was the heart could lift the load,
Could now and then be gay and even sing.

Sometimes I feel the swift and aching thrust
Marked by the sharp Excalibur of fear
That to an ultimate farewell I must
Approach in that decreeing hour, my dear.
Then would my sky be starless and the long
And lonesome way be stranger unto song.

A Memory of the Beer Garden Era.

In the nineties Thielmann's beer garden was at the foot of Diversey avenue just north of Lincoln park. Part of it was built out on a pier and a small steamer used to run from the Madison street bridge to the garden. In the summer of 1895, ex-Queen Liliuokalani's Royal Hawaiian band and Liesegang's world's fair band were the attractions. The sand flies were pretty thick at times, but the music and beer were good. THE MEANING OF ABDOMINAL PAIN.

PAIN in the abdomen may mean trouble. If it comes and goes the patient is always restless, shifting about in an effort to find a comfortable position. When the distress is persistent he seems to sense that a severe inflammation is present and instinctively resists every attempt at movement. A bubble of gas in a loop of bowel may produce tenderness. But as a rule this is temporary, and within a short while may disappear. It is only the continuous or the constantly recurring variety that is significant.

It is easy for the surgeon to say: "There is something wrong. We will open and take a look." The chances for recovery, however, will be greatly enhanced if sufficient study has located previously the region affected and the organ probably at fault. Unfortunately, many ailments are sly and evasive. In some instances pneumonia or involvement of the diaphragm may point directly to the abdomen. The physician must be alert to disease within the chest which may be referred to the intestinal cavity, to the possibility of gallstones, a gastric or duodenal ulcer, an abscess about a kidney, a cyst of the ovary, or to the lodgement of a stone in the tube that leads into the bladder. All of which means that a careful physical inventory should precede the journey to the operating room.

The most frequent cause is appendicitis, and there is no condition requiring more skill in diagnosis. While it is never wise to defer the removal of a badly inflamed, pus filled, or gangrenous structure—a brief period may be devoted to securing a white blood count and analyzing every manifestation. If infection has localized in any part of the body, white cells come to the rescue and multiply in number. If an abscess along the alimentary tract exists, tension increases and nausea and vomiting usually complete the picture.

After a time diffuse or general discomfort—perhaps in the pit of the stomach—becomes confined to a particular spot—for example, the right lower portion. In such a situation deep but gentle pressure may elicit the characteristic response—a feeling of rigidity, a wave of nausea, and "O, that hurts!" from the victim. More often than not the typical attack comes from a clear sky with the individual apparently in excellent health. All the more reason for a clear-cut identification of the malady before resorting to surgery. Nevertheless, it is better to err on the side of safety and extirpate a normal appendix than to risk rupture and gangrene.

Whenever a gastric ulcer perforates the occasion is so dramatic—with a sharp, stabbing, knifelike thrust of agony—that there need be but little doubt as to the nature of the episode. Following the accident the abdomen will become boardlike in hardness and no delay should be brooked in summoning the family physician even though the sufferer states that he is easy.

Now and then food colic with its griping seizures may prove puzzling. Ordinarily the rapid onset of diarrhea and vomiting, and the relief afforded by heat, will determine the origin. In addition there is a history of some dietary indiscretion or the consumption of spoiled edibles.

In those who are in middle life or beyond an acute abdominal catastrophe may exhibit but mild symptoms. Appendicitis can occur in a person 80 years old. We must remember that the local reactions within this area are less marked and less severe. In other words, signs which may be regarded as trivial in a young adult should be taken seriously in those who are elderly.

We must realize that the vermiform appendix continues to take life and many a disaster is brought about by the administration of a laxative. With the first warning the rule is to keep the patient quiet and give nothing by mouth—not even a drink of water. When the physician arrives the responsibility is his.

SEE YOUR DOCTOR.

Mrs. K. writes: My 15 month old child cut his finger tip about a month ago. Is it possible for this finger to become normal again? It is now bent down.

REPLY.

We strongly urge you to take the child to your physician. At the time of the injury the tendon was probably involved. Neglect may lead to a permanently crooked finger. A simple splint may be all that is needed.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother has a house and lot, two certificates of stock, and a joint bank account with me. She made a will stating the three children should share equally in the sale of the house and lot; that I am to have the bank account and that my sister and I are to share the stock equally.

1. Could probate be avoided if she endorsed the stock, having a local bank guarantee her signature, leaving all else blank?
2. If she placed her house and lot in joint survivorship naming one of us (3) would an attorney be necessary?
4. A form would be filled in and not recorded in any way.
5. Would this joint survivorship have to be recorded before her death?
6. The will could stay as it is, designating her wishes in the matter, and used for guidance only and not for probate. M. H.

1. We advise against relying on endorsement without delivery, since this invites litigation on the question whether the gift was actually completed during the lifetime.
2. Joint tenancy would avoid probate.
3. You are in a better position to estimate your capacity than we are.
4. We advise that the instruments be recorded.
5. See 4.
6. In absence of joint tenancy, probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title.

OUR SUPREME COURT.

Harvey, Ill., June 10.—Referring to your editorial entitled "The Constitution Is Dead," it must be sadly admitted that you are largely correct.

When the court packing question was before the senate several years ago I doubted whether the President's plan would be effective even if the pending court bill should be enacted. My conception of the independence and integrity of the members in the higher ranks of my profession was such that I considered it extremely doubtful whether any lawyers could be found who would lend themselves to carrying out the President's scheme. It seems, however, that circumstances have enabled the President to pack the court in his favor even though he was frustrated in the details of his plan. It is to be noted, however, that [if my memory of the facts is correct] none of the four appointees was elevated from the bench and only one from active practice at the bar, but this, of course, affords no consolation.

The only hope of redress seems to lie in the 1940 election. And while I know nothing of practical politics, that hope probably depends on the willingness of the Republicans and real Democrats to get together and work together. The existing burocracy, being intrenched as it is, even with such a combination it would be difficult to win, and without it, or something of the kind, the prospect and future of this country seem quite hopeless. W. FOSTER HAYES.

FAVORITES IN THE WPA.

Chicago, June 11.—Why is it taking the nation so long to listen to sense? Don't they even care where the charity money is going? The poor majority are not getting it. It's taken in nice fat salaries by the ones in power who have jobs bestowed by the politicians. All the way down the scale it is unfairly given out to favorites until it gets down to the "small fry" on the bottom salaries. Some of the "small fry" earn what they get, while some do not.

Favorites of the officials get more than the actual poor with much larger families. Even the $55 or $60 a month is a godsend, but the worry over the funds running out would be eliminated if these "hogs" did not get so much. I KNOW.

ROYALTIES FOR MUSIC.

Chicago, June 8.—I just read in your paper that the American Society of Music Publishers demands royalties for music played at the Navy Pier public concerts. Is this true? Can any of your readers tell us who compose this society? Do our readers think such a demand is fair for free concerts? Let us hear from some one who knows. A MUSIC LOVER.

UNPAID WAR DEBTS.

Chicago, June 11.—We read so much these days about the unpaid world war debts of France and England. We rarely read about the unpaid war debt of Italy. And we never read about what Germany owes us as a result of the world war. Or doesn't she owe us? If not, why not?

AGNES HARKNESS ANDERSON.

PEOPLE CAN MAKE MISTAKES.

Chicago, June 12.—I try to keep up with you, but sometimes it gets tough. For example, you now maintain that the people would elect better federal judges than Roosevelt appoints. If you look back in your files you will find that the people elected Roosevelt. A. C. L.

AN EARLY MASS GRADUATION.

Chicago, June 8.—Superintendent of Schools Johnson proposed a mass graduation of high school students in Soldiers' field but canceled it. I recall the last mass graduation of this sort on Friday, June 27, 1890, in the Auditorium theater. All graduates were seated on the stage and received their diplomas individually from Ferd W. Peck, chairman of committee on high schools. Those officiating were William G. Beale, president board of education; Mayor Cregier, Lyman J. Gage, Chief Justice Fuller, Selim Peabody, regent of the University of Illinois; Clarence Eddy and Stewart Sabin, organists.

The papers today indicate that there will be 16,028 graduates this year. In 1890 there were 438 all told, ranging from West Division with 137 to South Chicago with only three.

My graduation program, which is a real keepsake, contains the names of all graduates, segregated according to schools, and while sere is still readable.

My class, Englewood, had twenty-six graduates. As secretary of the class I have endeavored to keep track of the members, but know of only six, inasmuch as the girls getting married have lost to me their maiden name identity. Will be glad to have information. It may be possible to have a class reunion by ourselves sans husbands, wives, children, or grandchildren.

HARVEY M. BROWN,
1100 Glenlake avenue.

REPORTING THE KING'S VISIT.

Chicago, June 11.—Hope I'm first to congratulate THE TRIBUNE on its good news reporting of their majesties' visit to our America, also your "true-color picture" of President Roosevelt, King George VI, and party during the functions of our greeting and national salute. Also the garden party guest list of names. Regardless of our common readers' hate at some tones of your paper, we must feel that you're guided by true basic American principles. May these great American ways be revealed in the progress and betterment of humanity—eventual security for our people. In all the vast abundance democracy has an imperative duty to eliminate and abolish the people's impoverishment and establish abundance for all. And remember: The British war debt to us may be cheap toll for work of their great navy in wartime. World history is not all written.

SPOTLIGHT.

CRUISING TAXIS IN THE LOOP.

Chicago, June 10.—I am not by nature a reformer, nor have I any prejudice against taxicabs or the taxicab companies. However, I feel that the congestion in the loop in Chicago is largely occasioned by "cruising" taxicabs.

As an illustration, in attempting this morning to drive down Wabash avenue from Madison to Monroe street, I found myself blocked behind seven cruising cabs, with the result that my light changed twice before I could drive from the south side of Madison street to the north side of Monroe street. I suggest that more taxicab stands be established in the loop and that the cruising of taxicabs, when not answering a call or actually hauling a passenger, should be forbidden. LOUIS E. HART.

USES LOGIC ON TRACTION.

Oak Park, Ill., June 12.—Allow me to congratulate you on your editorial on "The New Car Franchise." At last some one has had the intelligence and courage to state an obvious fact. The present combined income of the transit companies is not sufficient to pay the interest on their outstanding first mortgage bonds. How, then, can they procure the capital to make the vast improvements needed and contemplated? Obviously by making additional securities attractive to the public so that they may be sold at a reasonable rate of interest to provide the capital. Who will pay the interest and carrying charges? Obviously the street car riders. Why should the man who rides to his work in a street car pay compensation to the city for use of the streets any more than the man who rides to work in his own car? Obviously no reason. Why should the street car riders pay pensions to the street car employés? Same answer. The sooner the city fathers stop their shadow boxing and wake up to the fact that the street car riders will have to pay for the improved traction system or the city will have to subsidize the lines as other cities which have rapid transit are doing, the sooner we will have a modern transit sytsem. H. R. HAMILTON.

FAITH IN COURTS SHAKEN.

Eagle Harbor, Mich., June 8.—THE TRIBUNE has published the news stories of the conviction of Judge Manton for selling his decisions to the highest bidder. Maybe you city folks are cynical about these things, but the small town people are really ill because of the things that are happening to our courts these days. We always looked up to the federal bench as a paragon of civic virtue. We took pride in the fact that at least there was one branch of our governmental set-up not subject to the corruption so easily discernible in the legislative and executive branches. We never suspected such a thing as a crooked federal judge.

Roosevelt frightened us when he appointed a Klu Kluxer to the Supreme court. Now we have this Wilson appointee selling out to Harry Warner, the picture magnate, to the American Tobacco company and others, wherever he could make a touch. It is a great shock to the American public. And the only way it is going to be cleaned up is to punish the guilty. That goes for the people who gave the money to the judge as well as the judge. Perhaps it was blackmail, but it really isn't nice to pay blackmail. If we fail to do our duty with this Manton case where will this evil stop? Let us hope nobody tries to buy the Supreme court.

HOMER GUCK.

A TASK FOR LAWMAKERS.

Chicago, June 11.—There are thousands of young men and women graduating each year from high schools and colleges. They need jobs and are now without work.

Lawmakers should help find the solution to the unemployment problem. Energy and knowledge should guide the new way to progress.

DANIEL POPOVICH.

VICTORY PARADE

THIS WEEK AT MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

Luncheon Fashion Showing Friday

World Entries Make Photo Exhibit Success

Of nearly 6,000 pictures entered in Field's Sixth Annual and Third International Photographic Competition, 344 have been hung in the Crystal Corridor on the Seventh Floor at Field's. From all over the world came entries; the photographers—Amateurs and Advanced Amateurs—whose pictures are on display have sufficient reason to be proud, for these 344 photographs comprise the Salon.

The Competition was open to anyone except persons employed in Field's Photographic Section and their families.

The judges were Frank Marshall Moore, Edw. Rinker, F. M. Tuckerman, Ralph J. Fallert. Valentino Sarra. and Herman Sherrer. The photographs are divided into three classes: candid (any unposed shot); amateur; and advanced amateur. In the collection, there are some enchanting pictures of children, some fantastic angle shots, many scenic photographs. and a number of pictures that are frankly funny.

Prizes And Medals Awarded

The First Prize for candid pictures was a Simmon Model A Enlarger with lens. It went to A. E. Meyerhoff, 410 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

The Amateur Grand Prize, a Retina II with F 2 lens, was awarded to W. J. Holliday, Jr., also of Chicago.

And to C. T. Boyles, of Murray Hill N. J., of the Advanced Amateur class, went the Grand Award—a solid gold medal.

Advanced Amateurs were presented with medals or awards, while Amateurs received precious camera equipment, kodaks and albums.

It is amazing how photography has captured innumerable imaginations in the past few years. Your own will fall captive—if you've so far been immune—when you see the pictures hung in the Crystal Corridor.

Not A Casual Pursuit Today!

It's amusing to remember the days, not so long ago, when photography was something you did haphazardly, on a listless Sunday afternoon, if you could remember to buy film. Today, countless men and women have found absorbing interest in the pursuit . . . two of the photographs in the Salon will prove to you that it can be fascinating to take a picture of a few lines of barbed wire stretched taut between two posts or a soap dish lying on a table. Many of the pictures of children are enchanting. The pictures submitted from foreign countries bring alien faces which you'll find yourself studying intently.

Field's is happy to invite you to the Exhibit, where hundreds of people have already discovered the tremendously interesting collection

You may see it any time till the end of July.

Home Sweet Home

Floor plans and photographs of the homes which won prizes in the House Beautiful Small Homes Competition are being exhibited on Field's Eighth Floor, near the Modern House, today and tomorrow.

See Panama Hats In The Making, Today

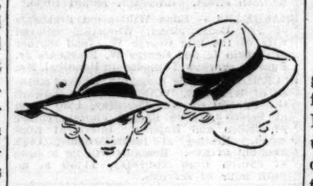
Are you one of the millions who believe that fine Panama hats are woven under water? Then come to Marshall Field's today and see how it's really done.

Carmen Del Gado, beautiful senorita from Ecuador, and Mr. C. A. Arcentales, director of the Ecuador Panama Hat Exhibit at the New York World's Fair, will be here today only, through the courtesy of the Ecuadorian Government, in our Tailored Hat Room on the Fifth Floor.

Senorita Del Gado, from Monte Cristi, who is now 18, began weaving hats when she was 2 years old, carrying on the tradition that has existed in her family for over four generations. It was in the Del Gado family that a panama hat was woven so silken in texture that it could be pulled through a wedding ring.

Finest Panamas Made Are Here

The Knox Hat Company has arranged this special exhibit to show you different grades of panamas and how they are woven. Including the famous Monte Cristi variety, known everywhere as the finest panama made. It sometimes takes from 6 months to a year to weave one of these hats.



The two Knox hats pictured above are Ecuadorian panamas—smooth textured, feather-light hats that are ideal for summer wear. They're superbly man-tailored in the simple, classic lines that have made Knox hats famous the world over. The one at the left has a dashing tricolor grosgrain ribbon and is priced at $6.75. The hat at the right has an unusually interesting crown. It's $5.95. Both hats are a part of our large collection of Knox Hats, exclusive with Field's in Chicago.

Check This List Of Gifts For Pop

Pay no attention to Dad when he says "Fiddle!" about Father's Day. He hates the prospect of being the center of attention, but he'll beam like a July sun when you turn up on Sunday with a remembrance.

Field's modestly acknowledges there's practically nothing you can't find for him at Field's.

To make your own problem easier, go over this list with some care. It's frequently a mistake to assume that Father has everything . . . there are undoubtedly things listed here that he doesn't have and would like. A little thoughtfulness helps you to hit on a gift that will please him.

If He's a Pipe Smoker (And of Course He Is) Find Out Which Pipe He Wants

"Give a man a pipe he can smoke" and you're giving him something he'll love for years! In fact, if he's a really inveterate pipe smoker (and most men are) he probably hoards them by the score—and is always greatly delighted to have another one to add to his collection. And it all adds up to this—Father's Day is a wonderful opportunity for you to give him a pipe that will really satisfy.

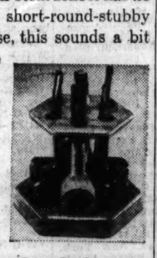
If your father happens to be fussy about the kind and style of pipe he smokes, Field's pipe section is practically made to order for you! The strange thing about Father is that when he wants a Dunhill (or a Comoy or any other kind) he wants that particular kind! Some fathers are even particularly partial to a certain shape . . . and the long-thin-stem school has no patience with the short-round-stubby devotees. Of course, this sounds a bit confusing to the non-pipe-smoker, but if you come to Field's we can iron out those troublesome little details.

Kaywoodie, $3.50

To mention but a few of the well-known pipes we have in our assortment, there are: Bromptons, Kaywoodies, Comoys Sasienis, Dunhills, Barlings, Meerschaums and Ben Wades. The prices are as varied as the kinds, ranging from $1 up.

Besides this complete collection of pipes we also have a fine assortment of pipe racks and pouches (we have not illustrated them, but there is one to suit every type of pipe smoker . . . some even have a pipe tucked inside) from $1 up; and humidors from $3. You'll find them all in the Smoker Accessory Section, First Floor, Middle, Wabash.

Dunhill, $10



Pipe Rack, $1.50

A Lighter That Lights—For $1

Did you ever try to light a cigarette in a strong wind? Then you'll know how useful this new Glopoint lighter is. You simply stick your cigarette in the open cup . . . press the bottom button while you inhale . . . and presto, a lighted cigarette! It's flameless, windproof and odorless. Comes complete with a bottle of fluid. $1. First Floor, Middle, Wabash.

Shop Where He Shops

It's fairly likely that Pop does his shopping for people's birthdays and anniversaries in Field's Gift Court. That's the place where we've collected gift items from all over the store.

If you're clever, you can even find out what he'd like from the Gift Court. No doubt he's had his eye on several things. Second Floor, Middle, State.

Let's Give Dad More Than A Great Big Hand This Sunday, June 18

By the Editor, Fashions of the Hour

Father's usually in the front line when there's any occasion that involves gifts. (Front line, i. e.: region where checks are signed.)

Sunday it's his turn to be on the receiving end of the surprise attack. As far as he knows, he hates being in the limelight . . . but all the bluster in the world won't prevent him from telling the boys on Monday (and with ill-concealed satisfaction) about all the swell things his family gave him.

He'll make an occasion for mentioning the new golf bag. He'll have the new tie on. He'll invite the boys out to the house so he can use the new cocktail set, to show it off.

Wood For A Change

Father is probably sick to death of those fine old cuff links Mother gave him fifteen years ago (although he'd feel awful if anything happened to them, of course) . . . Take your cue from that, and give him a very smart pair of wooden cuff links for sportswear. We have them in three kinds of wood . . . zebra wood from Africa, Padonk wood from India, and U. S. maple. They're highly polished, to accent their natural beauty. And we bet anything Pop would be delighted with them. $2, on the First Floor, Store for Men.

Taylor Fisherman's Barometer

If he's a Father, he likes to fish (practically axiomatic). If he likes to fish, he likes anything and everything to do with fishing (except a new fishing hat) . . . the newer the better. Wherefore, permit us to present a device which tells 'im when the fish are biting! Peace, it is indeed wonderful . . . a barometer which rises when the fish are waiting for Pop's bait, and which drops when they are sulking at the bottom of the lake. It works no matter where the fishing's done. Salt water or fresh. And it's no gadget, either, but a real fishing forecaster. $5, on the Fifth Floor, in The Store for Men.

This Caddy Can't Talk

The mechanical caddy is fun to buy because you can just picture Father (valiantly trying to be casual) appearing on the course with it. It looks like a toy, but it's almost a robot. Pneumatic-tired wheels support a short leather bag which holds 8, 10, 12 or 14 clubs. The bag has a zippered pocket for golf balls, too. The shafts of the clubs are held in place at the top of the caddy by grippers. It's $40—an imposing gift—and a thing that'll make him feel like a boy again. And what's more, this caddy can't talk. Can't even smile (at those uncomfortable moments when Dad pulls a dud). Fifth Floor, Store for Men.

Leather Is Sure-Fire

Men frequently are as crazy about leather as women are about perfumes (or china, or silver). Give him something in leather . . . our laminated leather ash tray is a beauty. For one thing, it is adequate (how men hate bitsy ones!). For another, it is good to touch and to look at. And under the glass tray which slips out (for dumping) is the gold word F-A-T-H-E-R or D-A-D. It's $3, on the First Floor, in The Store for Men, where you'll also find other leather pieces which he'd like. There are cigar and cigarette humidors, cigarette boxes, table lighters and coaster sets, which range in price from $3 to $25.

Here's a fascinating new jewelry idea! One necklace that can be worn many ways. Each strand is attached to tiny separate clasps that fasten into the large clasp. Now you have a one-strand necklace or a five-strand one, however you wish to wear it. The pearls are a lovely white tint and come with a variety of smart clasps. And they're only at Field's in Chicago!

HOUSE APPROVES METER TEST FOR DRUNKEN DRIVER

Method Shows Degree of Alcoholic Influence.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—[Special.]—A measure providing for the use of "drunk-o-meters," chemical tests for motorists, was passed by the Illinois house of representatives this afternoon. The vote was 81 to 6.

The legislation, according to its sponsors, is as important in reducing trafic accidents as a drivers' license law. Authorities agree that liquor is making a much greater contribution to the motor toll than is shown by statistics. Lacking an indisputable test for drunkenness recognized by the courts, police have been reluctant to file a charge difficult to prove.

Approved by A. M. A.

The bill, introduced by Representative George H. Smith [D., Chicago], was indorsed by Chief Justice Harry H. Porter of Evanston, as chairman of a national safety council committee.

The American Medical association approved the standards as outlined in the bill.

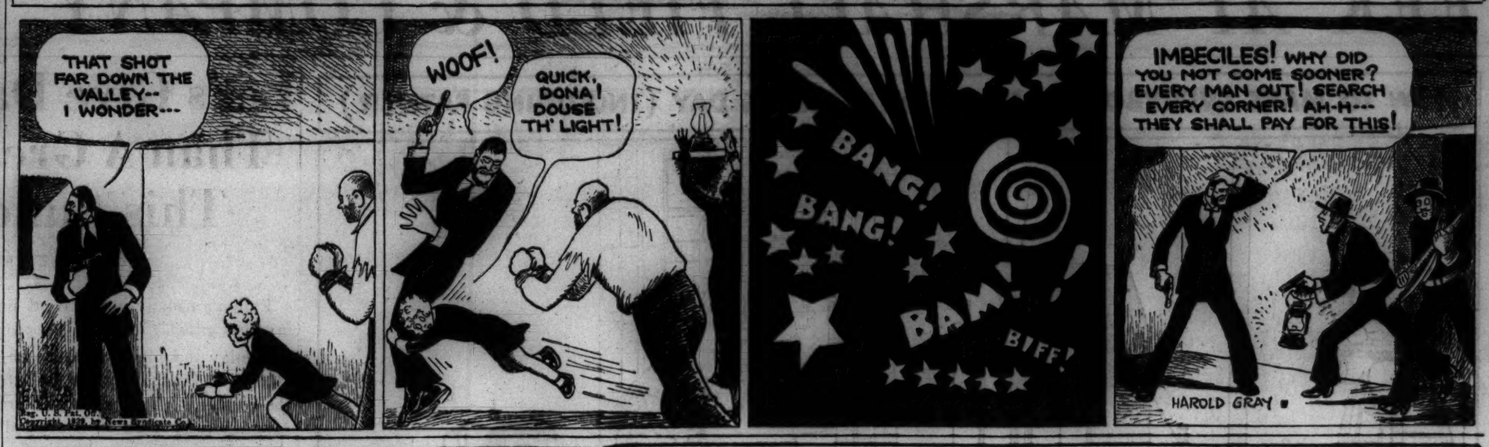
The amount of alcohol in the blood would be measured by a simple chemical analysis of urine, saliva, or breath. Under .05 of 1 per cent would be prima facie evidence that the defendant was not under the influence; from .05 to .15 of 1 per cent would be relevant but not prima facie evidence; more than .15 of 1 per cent would be prima facie evidence of intoxication.

Protection for Innocent.

"This system would protect the innocent as well as convict the guilty," said Representative Smith. "Chemistry makes no distinction between personalities."

The amount of alcohol in the blood, and not the amount in the stomach, is the pertinent factor in whether a person feels his liquor, according to physicians. The quantity of alcoholic drink in the stomach, to result in these various graduations in the blood, differs with different persons, and at different times with the same person. The chemical analysis removes the variants from consideration in that they measure not the amount that has been consumed but the degree to which this consumption has reached the brain through the blood stream.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Black Out



TRUCK DRIVER CAUGHT FLEEING AUTO MISHAP JAILED FOR 6 MONTHS

Robert Gray, 28 years old, a truck driver, accused of leaving the scene of an accident on April 15, was sentenced yesterday to six months in the Bridewell and was deprived of his driving privileges for one year by Judge Thomas A. Green of the Safety court. Gray, who lives at 733 Aldine avenue, was accused of fleeing after his automobile struck Walter Kocol, 2432 North Marshfield avenue, in front of 2503 North Ashland avenue. Gray's car was stopped by another motorist.

Judge Green freed Dominick La Pore, 1640 West 71st street, another truck driver, of a charge of reckless driving. La Pore was arrested Monday after he had driven his ten ton truck through the window of a store at 4502 South Ashland avenue in attempting to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

BAN FIREWORKS SALE NEAR BARS IN LAKE COUNTY

The Lake county board yesterday prohibited the sale of fireworks within 100 feet of a tavern. Chairman Leo F. Fenlon, who is also chairman of the liquor control commission, said the board feared the sale of fireworks near a tavern might endanger lives and property.

There is no such provision in Cook county, although fireworks cannot be sold within fifty feet of a gasoline filling station. All sales are prohibited within the city limits.

For twice violating this ordinance, Walter Bernotas, 55 years old, owner of a delicatessen at 4542 South Wood street, was fined $200 yesterday by Municipal Judge Mason S. Sullivan. Emila Karvanek, 6 years old, 4358 South Wood street, was burned by one of Bernotas' firecrackers. George Kitowski, 25, of 5548 Cortland street, and Julius Czochora, 23, 3225 North Natchez avenue, were fined $2 each by Municipal Judge Michael Tremko for throwing lighted firecrackers among dancers in the Aragon ballroom Sunday.

SQUAD CAR HIT IN CHASE; TWO POLICEMEN HURT

Rammed at Intersection by Motorist.

Policemen Edward Woodrich and Steve Kaspar of the Austin station were injured yesterday when the squad car in which they were pursuing a law breaking motorist was rammed by another car which, they said, drove through a stop signal. The policemen were chasing a motorist alleged to have driven through a trafic light at Central Park avenue and Division street. At Division street and Humboldt boulevard their squad car was struck by an automobile driven by Anthony LaCerra, 34, of 948 North Trumbull avenue, who, they said, ignored the stop signal at the intersection.

Hit by Truck; Dies.

Struck by a truck at Irving Park road and St. Louis avenue, Wesley Watters, 67 years old, of 4037 North St. Louis avenue, was killed last night. The truck driver, Clarence Schellenberg, 29, of 868 North Marshfield avenue, was held for the inquest today by the Albany Park police.

John Palmquist, 81, of 5028 West Ohio street, a retired foundry worker, was killed by an automobile yesterday at Grand and Kildare avenues. The driver of the car was Mrs. Anna Berg of 2040 North Lavergne avenue. She told the Austin police Palmquist walked in front of her car before she could stop.

Falls Off Car; in Hospital.

Lyle Johnson, 14, of 2150 North Kenneth avenue, a sophomore in the Kelvyn Park High school, was in a serious condition at the Danish-American hospital yesterday from a possible skull fracture he sustained Monday night when he fell from the running board of an automobile driven by his cousin, Kenneth Fredricks, 15, of Des Plaines.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 367 persons had been killed in Cook county by automobiles since Jan. 1. Of these 288 were killed in Chicago, where 9,042 were injured in the same period

Manitowoc, Wis., June 13.—[Special.—Joseph Lemberger, Mishicot farmer, has been so successful in selling milk at 5 cents a quart on his farm as a protest against the price fixing policies of the state department of agriculture and markets that he intends to invade this city and sell milk in bottles at 6 cents a quart, he said today. The legal price of bottle milk in the city is 10 cents a quart.

June Weather Brings Rush of Garden Parties

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERY ONE who has a pretty garden, a country home, a week-end cottage, or even an open porch is planning an outdoor party for one of these pleasant June days or nights. Some are taking advantage of the outdoor facilities of the country clubs for their entertaining, and most of the festivities have brides-to-be for the center of attraction.

The Carleton Blunts are entertaining at tennis, swimming and an informal supper on Friday night at the Glen View club for their cousin, Miss Frances Bell, and her fiancé, Gilbert H. Osgood. The junior Kellogg Fairbanks and the Benjamin Ayer Fairbanks are giving a luncheon on Sunday at the Fairbank home, the Butternuts, in Lake Geneva, for their cousin and Mr. Osgood.

The Benjamin Morton Hairs are entertaining at supper and swimming at the Glen View next Monday for Miss Nancy Merrick and Phil E. Gilbert Jr., who are to be married on the 24th.

The charcoal grill in the gardens of the Barrington home of the Arthur Croxsons will be put to work on Saturday night when the Croxsons and Arthur Jr. entertain for Miss Esther Grulee and Thomas Cauthorne White, who will be married next Wednesday.

Miss Jane Wilson will give a garden supper next Wednesday for Miss Phoebe Massey and George W. Ryerson, another bride and bridegroom-to-be of the 24th.

Since there is dancing outdoors, weather permitting, at the Indian Hill, the Glen View and the Onwentsia clubs the parties to be given for brides at these clubs could be classified as outdoor ones, too. Miss Florence Walsh, Miss Mary Trumbull, and Miss Peggy Sargent are entertaining tomorrow night at the Indian Hill for Miss Massey. Mr. Ryerson's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, will entertain at the Onwentsia's weekly buffet dinner-dance Thursday of next week.

Miss Gertrude Matthews is entertaining at the Glen View dinner-dance on Friday night for Miss Grulee and Mr. White. The Glen View party on Friday next week will be the scene of the bridal dinner for Miss Merrick and Mr. Gilbert. Her aunt, Mrs. Roger L. Foote of Charlottesville, Va., is to be the hostess.

Mr. Gilbert and Bride Will Live in New York.

Mr. Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil E. Gilbert of Evanston, is being graduated this month from the Harvard law school. In September he and his bride will start housekeeping in New York. Until then they plan to tour the western half of the United States, which he never has seen. Miss Merrick hasn't been west since she was a child.

Their marriage is to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at St. Mark's church, Evanston, with a reception following for the families and a few close friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Merrick.

Miss Barbara Barry is giving a buffet supper and miscellaneous shower for Mr. Gilbert next Tuesday night. Miss Dorothy Meaker will give the spinster dinner the following Thursday. Miss Georgeanne Rundall is giving a tea and stocking shower on Saturday afternoon, and the junior Francis G. Fabians are giving a party Saturday night to which they have asked their guests to come dressed as they think Mr. Gilbert and Miss Merrick will be twenty years from now. The Fabians will entertain in the senior Mr. and Mrs. Fabians' Evanston home. The John Breytspraaks are entertaining Sunday afternoon for Miss Merrick.

Miss Merrick and Mr. Gilbert will be among the guests at the White-Grulee wedding at 8:30 o'clock next Wednesday night at St. Mark's, and at the reception following which Mr. and Mrs. Lowry K. Grulee, parents of the bride, will give at the Evanston Country club.

Mrs. Charles Piter Jaeger and her mother, Mrs. Thomas C. White, are giving a tea on Sunday for Miss Grulee. Miss Brothers is giving a luncheon today. The Grulees will give the bridal dinner at home in Evanston next Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Wallace D. MacKenzie are entertaining at cocktails on Saturday for Miss Bell and Mr. Osgood. Wells Sinclair has planned a supper for the night of the 25th in town, and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, will give the bridal dinner on the eve of the wedding at home in Hubbard Woods. The wedding and reception are to take place on the afternoon of July 1.

Miss Barbara Hess to Be Bride Today.

The wedding of Miss Barbara Hess and Winfield Durbin will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Wayne church, with the Rev. Ashley Gerhard officiating. The reception will be held at the Hess home in Wayne.

Miss Hess, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miner Hess, will have only two attendants. Miss Georgia Clifford of Pasadena will be maid of honor and Miss Dorothy Wilder of Winnetka will be bridesmaid. The Warren Buckleys' five year old daughter Joan will be flower girl.

Mr. Durbin, the son of the Fletcher Durbins of Chicago, will have George Hawkins as best man. Ushering will be Kenneth Hess; S. Prentice Porter, the bridegroom's brother-in-law; Loring Rowe, and Henry Stanton Jr.

Miss Hess will wear a dress trimmed with heirloom lace which belonged to her great-grandmother.

After a three or four week wedding trip, Mr. Durbin and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

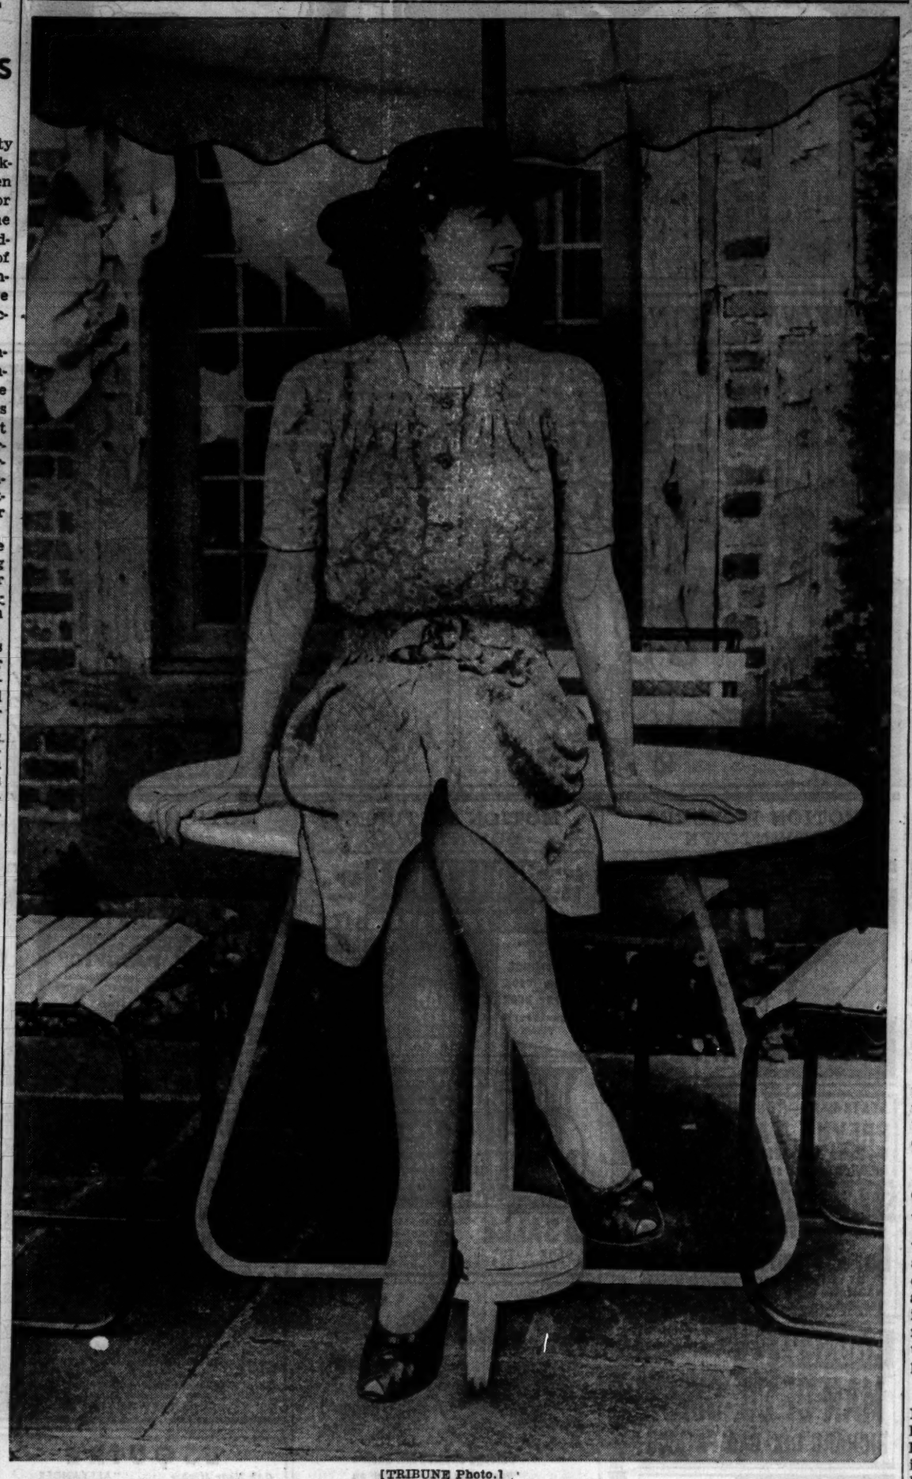
Will Become Bride Next Saturday



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Dorothy Wilder, who will be a bride on Saturday and a bridesmaid today, was photographed on Monday at the Evanston Junior league's spring luncheon at the Glen View club. Miss Wilder will be married to Charles Newell Fuller Saturday afternoon in Christ church with a reception following at the Hubbard Woods home of her parents, the Erskine Wilders. She will be the only bridesmaid this afternoon at the marriage of Miss Barbara Hess to Winfield Durbin, in Wayne. Most of the business at the luncheon was concerned with the Junior League Follies to be staged on Nov. 9, 10, and 11 in the Glencoe school auditorium.

All-Illinois Art Society Offers Gay Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A colorful and gay show has been hung by the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts in the Sixth Spring Salon now current at the Stevens hotel. Artists from both Chicago and downstate are well represented. Flower paintings again predominate but they fit so beautifully into the season that no one can quibble.

The most attractive portrait is that of a little blonde girl, "Shirley," by Doris Walkington. Ted Vognild gives us the cleverest dog interpretation with her painting of a lively wire-hair terrier pestered by a bee. We might tell in passing that the bee is there because there was a spot on the canvas and Mrs. Vognild took this amusing way to conceal the defect.

Nina K. Griffin has an outstanding canvas in her witty still life, "Bygone Days," high white kid shoes, a piquant little hat, and a parasol, beautifully done. Florence Furst shows an intriguing arrangement with luscious, velvety grapes, "In a Gautemalan Market Place." Robert Kilbert gives us an apple orchard in bloom, with a figure lying at the foot of the trees. Alice Mason shows her attractive "Denise," last seen at the Arts club, and a chic "Spring Flowers." Dale Nichols offers four new pictures in his characteristic manner, excellently done.

Julia Sulzer Griffith was awarded the medal of the All-Illinois for water colors. The prizes offered by the American Legion Auxiliary of Illinois went to "Resting," by H. S. Stevens, and "Old Home: Prairie Avenue," by Donald J. Mills.

At the Navy pier Chicago artists are keeping holiday. Chicago's New Century committee sent out over 3,000 invitations to painters and sculptors of Chicago asking them to send in two works. There was no jury. Each artist is represented by his own choice.

The exhibit is large, over a thousand pictures are hung. It is not a very gay show, for many of the painters must have been in a dull or pessimistic mood when they painted their masterpieces and the work reflects their attitude. One wonders a little at the persistence of people in trying to paint, the result seems so out of proportion with the effort.

Peggy Palmer, Anna Lynch, J. Wellington Reynolds, Alfred Juergens, Karl Plath, F. C. Peyraud, and Julius Moessel contribute to the highlights of the show. It will continue to July 4.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Next Sunday we have another national love fest, this time with father as the recipient of hearts and flowers.

As you might expect, the master minds of the merchandising world are ready and willing to coöperate with the ever loving sons and daughters. To date at least two hundred manufacturers, with tears drenching their typewriters, have written to tell us that their heart belongs to daddy. It's all very touching, and our slight cynicism is probably due to the bad cold we have.

Anyway, if ye shop for gifties ye shall find them. Here are a few that we thought particularly suitable:

1. A shaving bowl, nicely packaged with a bottle of hair tonic. There seems to us to be a great deal of sense to this. The flossy gift of perfume for men or sachet for his shirts is apt to surprise the average father right out of his socks. But he will adore a small wooden bowl of very fine shaving soap—it may be a little luxury he's been denying himself for years. And whether he admits caring about the state of his hair or not, he'll respond to the lure of a really good hair tonic.

These are English preparations, tops in quality and, for this special anniversary, very reasonably priced.

2. Something a little more distinctive than many of the suggestions we've received is a sterling silver pocket file, small, well made, with a place for a monogram. At its top is a little swivel ring by which it can be attached to a chain. It isn't very expensive and for an additional sum you can get it in gold plate. It's a little luxurious but essentially practical.

3. Brushes, of course. All prices, all prices. Our suggestion is that you get good ones, with strong, flexible bristles that will stand the test of time.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"He held the eye like a spell
And moved the spirit like music."

"Young Mr. Lincoln" is an intelligently produced and entertaining screen dissertation ON—YOUNG Mr. Lincoln.

It picks the great man up as a gangling youth who gets his start toward fame through his unexpected acquisition of law books, given him in payment for merchandise, and leaves him at the age of thirty.

The body of the story is the famous murder case which Lincoln won, with the aid of the moon and a farmer's almanac, and in which he cites the dog story given prominence in Lloyd Lewis' memorable book "Myths After Lincoln." Said trial didn't actually take place till Lincoln was fifty and had been married fifteen years.

The production is a pleasant blend of fact and fiction, very cleverly directed and dialoged.

When I heard that Fonda was to play the part I cringed. "Just about the last person on earth," I thought, "who COULD look or act like Lincoln!"

Well, how wrong one CAN be!

Mr. Fonda's performance should certainly put him in line for the Academy award. It's a thoughtful, intuitive, beautifully timed piece of work and his makeup is a grand paint and construction job. Not nearly so clever an accomplishment, however, as the photography which recorded it and, in a number of instances, was responsible for its amazing likeness to photographs of the Great Emancipator.

The "Abe" of this movie rides to New Salem on a mule [I believe a horse actually took him there], wins log splitting and tug o' war contests, is a diplomatic pie judger, stops a lynching through use of his dry humor—"stealthy as a gas leak"—loves and loses Ann Rutledge, in about three screen minutes, meets but doesn't marry Mary Todd, and is very sweet to the Widow Clay, whose two sons he defends in the aforementioned murder case. . . . The widow is arrestingly played by Alice Brady. I never dreamed she COULD be so inarticulate. . . . Minor rôles are adroitly handled.

You'll enjoy "Young Mr. Lincoln" if you're not a hound for accuracy. . . . The film was meant to be just a lifelike and warmly colored sketch of a human being who, I bet you, would get a great kick out of this movie.

See you soon.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Our Town.

Hollywood, Cal., June 13.—They asked Ben Turpin, working at 20th Century-Fox, how long he had been away from pictures. . . . "Years," he said. . . . "What have you been doing?" the interviewer persisted. . . . "Waiting for the telephone to ring," said Turpin.

Waiting for a telephone call from a studio is one of the grimmer professions of this town and performers will savvy what Turpin meant.

Now it's Wendy Barrie and Lee Bowman. . . . Add statistical: Al Ritz, of the Ritz Brothers, takes more steam baths than anybody else in the country. . . . He tops even the "sitters" who meet daily in the steam room of the New York A. C.

Lynn Bari, at the Prince Mike Romanoff shindig, played a $5 chip into a $250 winning. . . . Just before she went into the death scene of "The Rains Came" Myrna Loy received a box of flowers from Hubby Arthur Hornblow with this note: "Darling, die beautifully but quickly, as you invited those people for a 7 p. m. dinner."

Director Mike Curtiz, one of the best on the Warner lot, has a bad memory for names. . . . He calls John Garfield "Group Theater." . . . Claude Rains, to Curtiz, always is "Mr. Theater Guild." . . . Wayne Morris is "Bank Night." . . . Olivia de Havilland is "Baby." . . . In "Elizabeth and Essex" Curtiz became impatient with a love scene that Errol Flynn and Bette Davis were doing and stopped the action.

"Remember always," he explained, "that this is a 17th century love story which is just like a 20th century love story without the highballs, jingle bells, and rah-rah."

When Jack Warner sent him a front office memo with a complaint Curtiz said, dramatically: "Mr. Warner bawls me out, although I work my brains to the bone." . . . The former Austrian circus man confesses he never expects to learn to speak English. . . . In fact, the longer he stays here, the more hopelessly involved he becomes.

Binnie Barnes, who adds a decorative note to the screen, expects a visit from her ex-hubby next month. . . . He's a London book and antique dealer, Sam Joseph. . . . The directors have put over a deal for billing: Hereafter the director's name will go on the screen just before the picture starts. . . . Is Betty Grable out of Paramount? . . . No youngster before cameras photographs so effectively as the Grable lass.

Before he left, Cary Grant saw a lot of the Fairbanks girl. . . . Nancy Kelly's preferred, N. Y. Stage Actor Esmund O'Brien, will be here in July. . . . Tyrone Power and Annabelle are trying to book passage on the Atlantic Clipper's first passenger flight. . . . Tyrone will be finished with picture assignments July 15 and has notified the studio he's going to take a long honeymoon.

The new phone number of the Selznick studio is Ashley 43355. . . . Probably the "Gone with the Wind" influence. . . . Dorothy Lamour, who undresses more often on the screen than any other actress, has bad legs. . . . Too heavy above the knees.

Despite the fact that the studio cut out all of her songs in the last "Ice Follies" flicker, Joan Crawford is still spending heavy sugar for singing lessons. . . . The hilarious operatic number which Willie and Eugene Howard do never gets tiresome.

Mrs. Freeman Gosden is going to Europe. . . . Nine year old Virginia Gosden turned down the trip because of war conditions, no foolin'. . . . The youngsters don't quite know what to make of all the war scares, but they have a sneaking suspicion that it isn't good.

Paul Draper hoofing at Coconut Grove. . . . I remember 'way back when they said this column was daffy in tabbing him one of the great tap dancers of his profession. . . . With every showman in the business complaining of business, midget sized Billy Rose is turning them away at his Aquacade.

If you are going out swimming, this is a pretty fair sun tan recipe: Equal parts of vinegar, olive oil, and witch hazel. . . . Shake well and apply. . . . Over that spread a thin coat of vaseline. . . . It worked in the Miami sun, which is tops in heat. . . . But remember the thin coat of vaseline, or old Dr. Sullivan isn't responsible.

More than forty pictures rolling at local studios currently. . . . Bing Crosby wears the daffiest hats. . . . Look-alikes: Mrs. Joe Penner and Ethel Merman. . . . And although Greg La Cava and Wesley Ruggles do not look alike particularly, I always have trouble splitting them out.

Wonder what the ex-prince of Wales thinks about from his position on the world sidelines. . . . And whatever became of little Haile Selassie? They certainly gave him a tossing around. . . . "On Borrowed Time" is being whispered as a second "Good-By, Mr. Chips." . . . You don't generally associate Greeks with show business, yet no smarter operators are in this business than the brothers Skouras.

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," the Frank Capra special at Columbia, is arousing the titters of the colony, inasmuch as quite a few of the movie industry high shots are going to Washington. . . . To see Attorney General Frank Murphy's investigators. . . . Three movie Janes are doing very nicely out here: Jane Withers, Jane Wyman, and Jane Bryant. . . . No singer so soothing on the ear as Cinnie Boswell, the lame girl who refused to be counted out.

Bamboo Beige Picked to Win in Style Race

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Continued excitement over the newest contrast color called bamboo beige . . . even the unimpressionable have been won to its undeniable flattery. It's a beige, but not the drab, nondescript beige of past service. It's the pale, golden glinting beige of real bamboo, furniture, shades and sticks. A beige with lots of vibrant depth, and it goes with sun tan with some eye-catching results.

Suits, two piece ensembles of printed silk dress and long fitted coat use the bamboo beige for subtle contrast, the beige used in the coat. Gloves, belts, bags, and hats are all featured in this lovely new flattery.

One of the most romantic of summer dance dresses is made of beige colored net and then trimmed with huge bows of copper brown lace, the bows appliqued onto the billowing wide skirt and smaller bows on the extremely fitted bodice. Cool net suits for hot weather also use bamboo beige as the newest shade with pictorial success.

Linen, novelty weaves, and cotton resembling linen all come in this delicate tint in the yardage supplies or in the ready-to-wear collections.

Practically every type can wear this color . . . the copper tops and honey colored blondes will claim it as their very own! Brunettes will cheer for the stunning and startling contrast with dark clothes.

Bamboo beige goes perfectly with navy blue, accents dull black, and dramatizes raspberry and cypress green with the same subtle swank. It blends beautifully with difficult tones of sultry copper. Daytime or for evening clothes, it will make fashion history this summer and should be a record breaker for fall clothes.

Good-bye To Vienna

By Olga L. Rosmanith

(Copyright: 1939: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Grunewald, in a café in Vienna, hear the radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian, has been staying in Franz's home studying voice. Franz fears for his foster father, Prof. Josef von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son Johann, who has the mind of a child.

INSTALMENT III.

JEALOUSY.

Marian put her hand against the wall. Just on the other side Frank slept, when he did sleep. But he wasn't there now. She had heard him talking to Gisela outside her door while she undressed. He had gone out into the crowds again to look for Johann.

Johann was nineteen, a giant of a boy in physique, in mind a child. It was partly owing to this disappointment in his son, and partly for affection for a dying colleague that the professor had adopted Franz Grunewald, given him home, family affection and education.

Franz had not followed the professor's lead into the world of history and economics. His mind was scientific, inquiring, venturesome, capable of endless concentration, thorough, profound. He was employed in the research department of a leading firm of Vienna chemical manufacturers. His fame had spread outside Austria in scientific circles.

A year ago he had been invited by the German reich to go to Germany and experiment with lethal gases. He had roared with laughter at first, then grown sober. Written back in a youthfully arrogant way that he was dedicated to the preservation of life, not to the service of death.

Marian turned uneasily in her narrow bed. Would that he linked up with him now? Would they hold it against him? Would any one remember that?

A light tap on her door, followed by Gisela. The professor's wife sat on the edge of Marian's bed. "Without a doubt the trains will be jammed with refugees, but when the rush is over you must go home."

"But Gisela, why? After all the work I've done here. The Conservatory will go on. I want to sing in Vienna before I go. I came to get the Viennese background."

The older woman patted her hand lightly, but her voice was sad. "There'll be no Viennese background. That's gone as finally as if it had been dead a thousand years. You're lucky to be American. America is the stronghold of civilization for the future. It will be the refuge of art. Of science. Of truth. And all the music."

Marian felt the tears well in her eyes, brim over and roll slowly down her cheeks. She did not speak because the tremble of her voice would have given her away. But Gisela von Plasy was an acutely sensitive woman. She felt the quality of the silence. She said gently—"perhaps there is something else—love perhaps—"

"Yes."

"I have thought it. I have known he loved you. Well, that's different." She rose from the bed, laid her hand briefly on Marian's head in a reassuring caress. "Things may not be so bad as we think. We must wait and see."

Marian caught her hand and squeezed it. "Then you wouldn't mind?

"Mind! In other circumstances I would have been happy, Marian. Where could he have found any one sweeter—lovelier? But now—well, I don't know—"

"O, you too are going to say it is too difficult—life here for me—"

"No, no liebchen. I'm not the one for that. I'm thinking of other difficulties. Opposition from your own people—"

There were voices in the hall, doors opening and closing. Franz had found Johann and brought him home. Frau von Plasy was instantly withdrawn from Marian. "I must go and see what he has been doing. Good night, liebchen—don't worry, good night."

. . . . . .

The seats for Tristan on the following night had been booked far ahead to celebrate the birthday. Normally a short walk along the Ring from the Reichstratstrasse, Franz and Marian found it a struggle to get to the opera through the crowds watching the tireless demonstrations still going on.

The opera was not crowded as was usual on Saturday nights. Franz reached for Marian's hand when the lights went out and the sublime voice of the Vienna Philharmonic rose in celestial harmony. The girl felt her being throb with love and music. She felt Franz's warm strong fingers tighten on her own. The audience had vanished and the solid walls of the opera. No one was there with her but Franz and a woman singing their love on the deck of a phantom ship seen in a dream.

She felt spent when the curtain fell and earth reasserted itself with lights and curtain calls and applause. Franz smiled at her. "Some day you will sing better than that."

"You think so?"

"I know so."

He rose from his seat still smiling. "Let's go and eat our sandwiches."

They left the gallery chiefly patronized by the students and went up into the combined cloak room and refectory where chattering groups were already taking possession of seats at the long table, ordering coffee or soft drinks and opening out their food parcels. Many familiar faces were missing from the throng. Marian realized it with a pang of horror. The Jewish students. Already they were in hiding.

She drew a deep sigh. "It makes me feel guilty now to be so happy. O, Franz, I could never live without you."

His voice was almost inaudible. "Nor I without you."

It was a dearer moment than that of the first declaration of his love. It was a dedication of themselves to love and the uncertain future. She made up her mind then and there that she would allow no one, not even himself, to persuade her to leave him.

It was with a curious little shock that she felt a touch on her shoulder and heard the husky voice of Leopoldine Steinweg. "Well, well—so little Fraulein Taylor is still here. Why have you not gone home?"

"Why should I go home? Everything goes on as usual."

Leopoldine shrugged her thin shoulders under her expensive silver wrap. "More or less. But all of the tourists are rushing out pell mell, and giving stories to the newspapers and calling themselves refugees."

Marian felt the young woman's powerful hostility. "That is hysterical nonsense. Besides, I am not a tourist."

"So?" The thick black eyebrows rose. "The dilettantes are going also. What can you hope to gain by staying here?"

Franz turned from an animated conversation with a friend. "That is Fraulein Taylor's own affair, surely."

The intruder relaxed and was suddenly amiable. "Yes, naturally. But she looks so amusing when you surprise her. I was only teasing, hein."

People were going back to their seats at the summons of the bell. Marian felt Leopoldine's eyes on her as she followed Franz down the steps to the front row of the balcony.

"What is the matter with her?" Marian asked as she sat down.

"She has a strange nature, liebchen. I've known her a long time, but cannot predict her moods. Sometimes she's nice to me, sometimes she isn't."

Marian had her own ideas. There was something furiously possessive in the green eyes when they rested on Franz. She said—"I think she's jealous of me."

Franz had no admiration for Leopoldine in spite of her quick brilliant success. A woman surgeon was not his idea of a girl to cherish and protect. And her tongue antagonized him. It was as sharp and sure thrusting as one of her deadly little surgical knives.

He laughed at Marian. "Of course. She is dark and brown like a monkey while you have hair like silk woven out of the sun. Nor can you be easily forgiven for the grace of a deer, the voice of a lark and the beauty of a Botticelli Venus."

Marian giggled happily. "You are seeing things, Franz, or love has killed your sense of humor—"

Children Vary in Tendency to Shyness

GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The group of naturalists, after dinner, were looking at paintings of snakes by one of their number.

"The coloring and pattern of the corn snake are perfect," said one, "but I think you've made the head too narrow."

"But this one's head was just like that," replied the artist, "unusually narrow."

"That 'sner' is typical of the bull snake's expression," spoke up another herpetologist, "but his nose is too heavy and blunt."

"But that's exactly the specimen I painted," came the response again. "I've found in drawing and painting snakes more than in previous observing that there is a tremendous individual variation in the marking and coloring of even very typical forms."

It's the same story throughout nature. It's the same story with our children. And it holds quite as true in regard to children and their adjustment to people, grown or small.

So, in considering your child in the light of whether he is or is not shy, keep in mind that there's an individual variation, as the naturalist expresses it, in this as in other aspects of personality. And I mean to say this is true of what we consider normally adjusted people.

Look at the human material you have to handle—that is, your child—as an individual, and don't expect him or her to fill the requirements of some standardized pattern that you or some one else may consider normal or desirable. So much for that.

Now, let's go on. We will next touch upon what may seem like a detail of minor importance, but which really isn't so minor because it puzzles as well as worries so many mothers. It has to do with parties and the resistance many children show to the idea, or the discomfort they experience while present at them.

Big parties for small children—why shouldn't some of them draw back? Often strangeness and confusion confront the little guest, and his withdrawal from it we call shyness. And big parties for children a little older frequently mean the same thing. If you find going to parties makes your child unhappy I'd stop forcing him and skip it for a while.

But what you can do, and perhaps get other mothers to do, will subtly break your child in and give him more real pleasure. That is, give little parties, but don't call them by that name. Get together a very few children of the same age who know each other.

Plan simple things they enjoy doing, or some novel play that's not difficult. Then, instead of party fare, which is often upsetting, give them at their usual hour a little supper of real food with a festive but simple dessert. Shyness probably won't rear its head if you do this.

"Have You a Shy Child?" is a booklet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Those whose birthday this is will probably find it a more confining day than the rest of us. From all, it will require adjustments and attention to domestic affairs and relationships with others.

Harriet Beecher Stowe was born on June 14 and it was her "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which brought about a national adjustment in the affairs of our great country.

ried. The ceremony will be performed at noon at Few Acres, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hoyt Granger, former Chicagoans. The only witnesses besides the Grangers, will be the bride's sons, Bill and Bobby Blair; and her sisters, Mrs. Granger Brown and Mrs. Chester D. Shepard of Menasha, Wis., and their families.

Following the ceremony there will be an informal breakfast to which a few friends have been invited. Mrs. Blair will wear a purple, green, and absinthe printed gown, and a hat made of primroses with an absinthe straw brim. It is the costume she had made for the British garden party last week. Mr. Krock and his bride will sail Saturday for Bermuda where they have a house for a month. After Oct. 1 they will be at home at 3206 P street, Washington.

Mrs. Blair, who lived in Chicago as a girl and later as the wife of William Mitchell Blair, plans to continue her column, "These Charming People" in a Washington paper.

English Union to See Movies of King's Visit.

The English Speaking union will hold a luncheon today in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. Members and guests may hear an account of the festivities in Washington last week in connection with the British monarchs' visit for Samuel M. Rinaker, who was there, will preside at today's meeting. Mr. Rinaker, who is retiring as president of the union, does not plan to talk about the garden party at the British embassy, at which he and Mrs. Rinaker were guests, for a full program is arranged. But if there is any time, he probably will be persuaded to tell something of his impressions.

The luncheon is being given for Orson Welles, actor and producer, who will talk about his work immediately following luncheon, which will be served promptly at 12:15 o'clock. After Mr. Welles leaves the annual meeting will be held and then moving pictures of the American visit of the British king and queen will be shown. Mr. Rinaker said yesterday that he was astonished at the size of the celebration in the streets of Washington and at the number of persons who witnessed the royal parade on Friday morning. He estimated that well over half a million saw the parade. This pleased him, of course, for, as he said, he is in favor of friendly relations between the two English speaking countries although he does not believe in formal alliances or treaties.

Sponsor Garden Walk. on North Shore Today.

To the list of north shore gardens to be opened for a garden walk sponsored by the Winnetka Garden club from 2 until 6 o'clock today has been added that of Mrs. James Simpson at 375 Sheridan road, Glencoe. The gardens of Mrs. Francis H. Hardy, Mrs. William D. McKenzie, Mrs. Gordon L. Pirie, Mrs. Alice Drake Miller, Mrs. Howard C. Phillips, Mrs. Arch W. Shaw, Mrs. Arthur C. Sullivan, and Mrs. Langdon Pearse, also will be opened.

In order to make a complete tour from north to south the committee suggests that the gardens be visited in the above order. Tickets may be obtained at any garden. Proceeds from the tour will go towards the work the club is doing on Crow Island, Winnetka, a bird sanctuary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Thomas Taylor of Lake Forest are being congratulated upon the birth of their second child, a daughter, last Saturday at the Passavant hospital. The baby has been named Geraldine after her mother, the former Miss Geraldine Swift. The older child is Tommy.

WEDDINGS

This evening at 8:30 o'clock Miss Jane Morrison will become the bride of Frederick Reed Dickerson, son of Mrs. Frederick G. Dickerson and the late Mr. Dickerson of Oak Park. Miss Morrison is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Clayton Morrison of Kimbark avenue. She will be given in marriage by her father who will officiate, assisted by the Rev. Edward Scribner Ames, minister of the University Church of Disciples, where the ceremony will take place.

Miss Morrison will wear a white satin dress and long tulle veil and will carry lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry will be a seed-pearl brooch belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Hugh P. Morrison.

The reception will be held at the University Quandrangle club. Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson will go on a wedding trip for two or three weeks and will return to spend the summer in Chicago. Their plans for the future are indefinite.

The marriage of Miss Lorna Mae Jones to Tyrell Sears is taking place at noon today in the chapel of St. Luke's procathedral in Evanston with the Rev. Gerald G. Moore officiating.

Miss Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen William Jones of Seattle, Wash., will have the bridegroom's sister, Miss Helen Barry Sears of Seattle, as maid of honor.

Mr. Sears, the son of the Philip R. Sears of Seattle, formerly of Kenilworth and Chicago, is the grandson of the late Joseph Sears, the founder of Kenilworth. His mother is the former Clara Cheney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard A. Cheney.

After a short wedding trip in northern Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Sears will make their home in Beloit.

Announcement is made of the marriage yesterday of Miss Dorothy Murial Clarke, daughter of the Rev. John H. Clarke of Mount Vernon, Mo., to Arthur Bohnen, son of Carl Bohnen, portrait painter, and Mrs. Bohnen. The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock in the University of Chicago chapel, the Rev. Mr. Clarke officiating.

The bride attended the Chicago Art institute, Columbia university and the University of Chicago. Mr. Bohnen, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, is an architect. He and his bride will make their home at 2130 Lincoln Park West.

Frock Has Girlish Styling

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

One thing is certain about the "little girl" fashion: One has to have a slim figure to carry it off well. That's why this girlish frock is designed only in junior sizes. It is contrived to set off youthful, gleaming hair, lovely complexions, and firm young throatlines. If you're on the shady side of youth don't try to wear this dress, but if you have the qualifications, make it for yourself and score a summer hit.

Many types of fabrics make up well in this pattern. The sketch at the left suggests a soft sheer, such as batiste, handkerchief linen or mousseline. The other version is adapted to more tailored fabrics, such as linen, pique, gingham, and other cottons, either plain or printed.

The dressier frock has a square neckline, butterfly sleeves, and ruffled hemline. All are treated to ruffles and beading. The waistline, too, has ribbon run through it.

The tailored frock has a Peter Pan collar and short puffed sleeves, edged with rickrack or any other tailored finish you prefer to use. The ruffle at the hemline is, of course, omitted.

Style No. 2872 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19. Size 15 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material for the dress, ¾ yard of contrasting for the collar, and 1½ yards of braid.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Iced coffee grows more and more popular as a summertime drink. But if iced coffee cuts down the usual consumption of milk it may be better to serve now and then an iced mocha drink, a sort of combination of iced coffee and iced chocolate.

One way to make such a drink is to combine double strength coffee with an equal amount of prepared cocoa, pouring the combination over cracked ice. Another way is suggested in the recipe at the end of this column.

This menu, which finishes with mocha drink, contains enough hot food to satisfy appetites which scorn an all-cold menu, and enough cold food [salad and beverage] to conquer any lassitude induced by warm weather.

SHORT CUT DINNER.
Braised Mock Chicken Legs
Hot Potato Salad
Buttered Fresh Green Beans
Tomato and Cantaloupe Salad, Lettuce and French Dressing Whole Wheat Bread
Blueberry Shortcake [Prepared Biscuit Mix]
Iced Mocha Drink

BRAISED MOCK CHICKEN LEGS.

Most dealers have mock chicken legs ready or will make them up for you. They consist of ground veal breast, shaped and impaled on skewers to resemble drumsticks. They may be coated with flour before browning, or dipped into diluted egg and then into fine, dry crumbs. Brown on all sides in a little hot fat, season with salt and pepper, and turn heat low. Cook gently until meat is tender, about 30 minutes, with a cover on the pan. If more convenient the mock chicken legs may be baked in a covered container in a moderate oven, 350 degrees. Paper frills may be attached to the skewers when the meat is served. The frills may be procured from the dealer or may be made by folding and slashing white paper.

Hot Potato Salad.
[Serves Four.]
4 medium potatoes
3 slices bacon
4 green onions
1 egg
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
Paprika
½ teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
Salt
2 tablespoons cream

Peel and slice potatoes. Cook until tender in boiling salted water. Fry bacon until crisp. Remove from fat, break it into pieces, and add to potatoes with sliced young onions. Include part of the green onion tops. Beat egg slightly, add seasonings slowly, stirring well. Gradually stir with cream into the hot bacon fat. Cook until smooth and thickened. Pour over the hot potato mixture. Season to taste with salt and serve hot. If moister potatoes are desired add more cream.

Slice tomatoes and cantaloupe thinly for salad. Chill well and arrange alternate slices on lettuce. Pour French dressing over the combination.

Add sugar to cleaned fresh blueberries, crush a part of the berries, and let stand until biscuits for shortcake have been mixed and baked. Prepare biscuits by splitting them, spreading with butter, filling, and topping with the berries. Serve the shortcakes with cream.

Iced Mocha Drink.
[Serves Four.]
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup hot coffee, made double strength
¼ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk

Melt chocolate in hot coffee. Add sugar and salt. Boil three minutes, stirring constantly. Cool mixture and add to chilled milk, beating with a rotary beater until foamy. Pour over ice in tall glasses. Glasses may be topped with spoonfuls of sweetened whipped cream if desired. Remember that double strength coffee is made by doubling the usual amount of coffee, not the processing time.

Refrigerator cakes are a welcome dessert on any warm day. They are not hard to make in spite of their partified appearance. For all kinds of recipes see "33 Refrigerator cakes," by Mary Meade. The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; or will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps.

Crocheted Dress for Infants Is a Serviceable One

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

When the toddler from 9 to 18 months starts on her initial adventure of discovery she will have to have some serviceable dresses to withstand wear and tear. Crocheted garments are the logical choice, and these not only are durable and good looking, but easily made and the only ones in the wardrobe which may be laundered in a "jiffy." The crocheted garment illustrated is worked in the shell stitch and double crochet for the body and the yoke, respectively.

For instructions in crocheting the baby's dress for the infant 9 to 18 months, No. X-36, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Star Offers a Beauty Hint: Raise Finger

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Any girl can have a flawless complexion, simply by raising a finger," declares lovely Nancy Carroll, star of a current Broadway hit and former screen star. "The finger in question is your forefinger, and if you raise it correctly you can do a great deal to stimulate the circulation of blood in your face, thus nourishing the tissues and discouraging blemishes. In other words, massage your face. A moderate amount of facial massage never can be harmful and is always sure to be beneficial."

The important thing to be remembered, in Miss Carroll's opinion, is that massage should be gentle, rotary, and in an upward-and-outward direction. It should always follow a thorough facial cleansing and lubrication with a nourishing cream.

"Since the purpose of massage is to counteract incipient lines and wrinkles, as well as to stimulate circulation," asserts the red haired stage and screen star, "you should naturally concentrate on those areas where lines are most likely to occur. The danger spots usually are: Corners of the mouth, at the eyes, base of the nose, the forehead, and between the eyebrows.

"Use only your forefinger, gently and slowly rotate it, rubbing in cold cream as you massage. Always work the muscle in the direction you want it to take—against the wrinkle—but be careful not to push on the skin. Where lines have already made their appearance, rub cream in very gently along the lines with a rotary movement."

How to brush your hair properly and how often is told by Antoinette Donnelly, Tribune beauty editor, in her booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair." Get a copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Meets Him; Is Smitten; Turns Down; Regrets

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I met a boy about three months ago. I would like to see more of him. I had gone to an affair with a girl cousin. She introduced me to him and we three spent the rest of the evening together. When it came time to depart for home he asked if he might take me in his car. I refused because he did not ask my cousin with whom I came to the dance and I was afraid she would feel hurt.

"I work in a store and he did come in once but, as luck would have it, I was not handy to wait upon him. But he left word with the clerk who did that he had hoped to see me.

"The trouble is that I commute and live about 20 miles away from him. I was wondering if I would put myself in a wrong light if I dropped him a card hoping he would have a nice vacation or something. He should be taking his soon, as everybody does. I don't want to appear as if I were chasing him, you know, but he sure left a dent in my heart. D. D."

You have enough evidence, we think, to prove that the youth liked you, too. Now it is your move. Boys are sensitive to turndowns.

However, you surely can think up something to which you can invite the young man for a day or a weekend at your home. If you are within commuting distance, there is no problem there. There is usually something going on in suburbs over the week-end. There is swimming now. Tennis. Some match, game or something to look at if you don't participate. With your mother's coöperation you could extend the invitation for a Sunday night supper at your home.

Just think up something that will start the ball rolling again. If the invitation isn't accepted, then the incident will be a closed one and you'll have to look into the pond where the fish are said to be equally good. But we think you'll win on your first shot.

Music School Gives Degrees to Class of 68

Sixty-eight graduates of the American Conservatory of Music received degrees or certificates at the fifty-third annual commencement program in Orchestra hall last evening.

The address was delivered by Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, N. Y., and president of the National Association of Schools of Music. The honorary degree of doctor of music was conferred upon both Dr. Hanson and Palmer Christian, professor of organ at the University of Michigan.

Nine professional students of the conservatory appeared with the school symphony orchestra under the direction of Herbert Butler. The orchestra also played "Echoes of an Old Cathedral," an original composition by Jeannette Klemptner of Seattle, Wash., a member of the graduating class.

Philip Lee, Chinese-American baritone, gave a song recital in the Auditorium recital hall last night, accompanied by Virginia Vernquist. Possessed of a smooth legato and clear English diction, which many more experienced singers might well envy, Mr. Lee gave genuine pleasure to a good sized audience.

He sang with both intelligence and musical feeling. His voice, however, is rather too light for any but gently lyrical songs. Peter Wu, Chauncy Fong, and Moy Fing played solos and duets upon Chinese instruments.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Here is an unusual hand which I think might interest you. My friends and I would like to have your opinion on the bidding and whether you agree that the contract was reached in the proper way. We try to follow your conventions as closely as possible. Being hospital patients, we have much time to devote to bridge; in fact, it is our main diversion. This is the hand:

"North, dealer.

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	7 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West opened the diamond queen, dummy won with the king. The ten of spades was played and, when East played low, was allowed to ride. Imagine declarer's surprise when West showed out. The spade nine then was led and went through again. A low club was led to the king and the rest of the spade suit was run off, squeezing the life out of West, until he had to discard a heart to protect his diamonds. Then the heart suit was run off without any difficulty. T. McS., New York."

I am sorry that I cannot applaud the bidding of this hand nor the defense put up by East, the doubler. The bidding was all right up to and including North's five no trump, but South's leap to seven spades was wrong. I grant that South's spade suit was immeasurably superior to his heart suit, but the fact remains that North had supported hearts and not spades. And anyway, whether the contract played in one or the other of the major suits, South should have realized that heart, as well as spade, solidity probably would be necessary for thirteen tricks to be a laydown. If, over five no trump, South had bid six spades, he would have offered North the decision whether to raise that contract or to go to seven hearts. As it was, North was shut out.

Apparently it did not occur to any player at the table that East threw away the defense by failing to cover the ten or nine of spades. Had he covered, his eight spot would have "stood up" against any attack on the part of the declarer. The latter could not possibly have executed a simultaneous coup against East's potential trump trick and squeeze against West's heart-diamond stoppers. The contract inevitably would have been defeated by a cover.

SOX WHIP BROOKLYN, 3-2; CUBS HOME TODAY

MARCUM YIELDS SEVEN HITS IN SIX INNING GAME

John Rigney to Face Senators Today.

Charleston, W. Va., June 13.—[Special.]—The White Sox defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers in a twilight exhibition today, 3 to 2, before rain, which twice earlier had stopped play, finally ended the proceedings after five and a half innings.

Johnny Marcum, the pitcher obtained from the Browns in the deal for Johnny Whitehead, made his White Sox debut in the charity game witnessed by a sellout crowd of 2,500. Marcum kept seven hits well scattered while Evans, yielding six in five innings, was touched for four in the third when the Chicagoans counted all of their runs.

Dodgers Take Early Lead.

The Dodgers scored single runs in the first and second innings. Hudson walked in the first, took third on Sington's double, and scored on an infield out. Koy and Moore opened the second with singles and the former eventually was tossed out at the plate while trying to score on Evans' bounder to Kuhel. Lary followed with a double to chase Moore home.

Tony Rensa launched the Sox rally in the third with a single to center and Marcum doubled to the same field. Ollie Bejma blasted a two bagger down the left field line, scoring Rensa and Marcum. Ollie came home when Gerry Walker smashed a hit off Evans' glove.

The White Sox departed tonight for Washingon and the beginning of their 14 game eastern invasion Johnny Rigney will face Ken Chase in the opener of a four game series with the Senators tomorrow.

Norman Bickel Captures City Tennis Title

Norman Bickel of the River Forest Tennis club won the men's singles, and Catherine Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., successfully defended her women's singles crown in the annual City tennis championship tournament at the Oak Park Tennis club yesterday.

The hard hitting and rangy Bickel went four sets to down Marvin Wachman of Northwestern university, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, while Miss Wolf won from Helen Fulton of Indian Hill, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Bickel's powerful service decided the men's match. The new champion committed three double faults and registered three aces.

Miss Fulton had Miss Wolf rushing to the net to handle her chop shots, but the Hoosier star was equal to the occasion after losing the first set.

Bickel teamed with Norbert Burgess of River Forest to win the doubles title by beating the University of Chicago team of Charles Shostrom and Art Jorgensen, 6-8, 8-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Miss Wolf and her vanquished singles foe, Miss Fulton, won the women's doubles, defeating Louise Hofmeister and Florence Wittleder of River Forest, 6-1, 6-3, in the final match.

BROWNS GIVE UP HUGHES, $15,000 FOR GALLAGHER

Deal Saves McCarthy's Protege from Minors.

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—[Special.]—Big Joe Gallagher, rookie outfielder who went to the New York Yankees' training camp this spring as Manager Joe McCarthy's personal protégé, was sold down the river tonight. The pugnacious youngster, who comes from McCarthy's home town, Buffalo, N. Y., was obtained by the St. Louis Browns in exchange for Infielder Roy Hughes and a sum reported to be $15,000.

JOE GALLAGHER.

Recalls McNair Incident.

The 25 year old Gallagher, who batted .343 for Kansas City in 1938, was given an early season chance to play regularly in the world's champion's outfield, but was benched after hitting only .244. On June 2 he was optioned to Newark, but threatened to quit baseball unless he was sent back to Kansas City. Later he reconsidered and joined the Bears.

The sale of Gallagher, who weighs 210 pounds and who was a triple threat backfield star at Manhattan college in New York a few years ago, may have been the result of his unnecessary roughing of Eric McNair, half pint Chicago White Sox second baseman, in Chicago on May 10. Gallagher charged into McNair after the little fellow had made his throw to first base attempting a double play. The ensuing crash put McNair in the hospital for a few days and out of the lineup for a month.

He'll Report Today.

Manager McCarthy does not tolerate rough play and this display could easily have marked the finish of Gallagher in the Yankees' plans. In the American association last season, Gallagher was known for his temperamental outbursts. He will join the Browns in Philadelphia tomorrow.

Hughes plays any place in the infield except first base. He came to the Browns from Cleveland in 1938 and batted .281. He has seen little action this season.

A Note to a Graduate.

When they tell you life is tough,
A voyage that is plenty rough,
A sea that's stormy, often cold,
A sickly mess that will unfold—
And when they tell you that you're young,
And not a hero that's unsung,
That no success is planned by fate,
No happiness is on your slate—
And that you face work mixed with grief
And frequently get no relief
From pain and sorrow, strife and tears,
And many smaller human fears—

Just say, "Hey, pal, you've lived your life,
Good home and kids and darned nice wife;
Why gripe to those who're starting out,
Of misery and heartache shout?
Your salary's not large, I know,
Worked hard, and haven't much to show,
But we're still young and full of dreams,
And hopes, ideas, crazy schemes;
Depression-raised, we know the grind
We face, but we're a new-grown kind
Who cherish freedom, peace, and love,
The finest blessings from above.

WOODRUFF MAY RUN IN N. C. A. A. MEET AFTER ALL

Change in Plans Possible if Pitt Insists.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 13.—(AP)—John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's star runner, may find his plans for the week-end changed for the third time in three days. Director of Athletics James Hagan of Pitt said tonight he was "definitly in favor" of Woodruff running here Friday and Saturday in the national collegiate track meet instead of competing in the Princeton invitational meet.

Hagan's comment came after a day of cross country bickering between N. C. A. A. officials and Dan Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic union, which is backing the Princeton meet.

Hagan said he was advised today Woodruff had elected to run in the east because Ferris threatened to disqualify him for 1940 Olympic games consideration if he failed to run at Princeton. Woodruff had entered both meets.

Wants Woodruff on Coast.

Director of Athletics Willis O. Hunter of Southern California, host of the N. C. A. A., said Ferris wired an answer to criticism voiced earlier today by Arnold Eddy of U. S. C., secretary of the Southern Pacific chapter of the A. A. U. Eddy accused Ferris of meddling in collegiate affairs.

Ferris, Hunter said, claimed accounts of his action had been garbled and declared a reasonable excuse for Woodruff to pass up the Princeton meet would be for Pitt to insist that the lanky Negro run in the N. C. A. A. competition.

Told of this turn, the Pitt athletic head said he wanted Woodruff to run here.

Watson, Mehl Work Out.

Under a broiling sun, arrivals for the N. C. A. A. worked out in Memorial Coliseum. The Big Ten contingent reached here in four special cars and scores of track enthusiasts attended the afternoon practice.

Included in the group were Bill Watson, Michigan's triple champion of the broad jump, shot, and discus; Walter Mehl of Wisconsin, N. C. A. A. two mile champion, and Warren Breidendach of Michigan, undefeated Big Ten quarter miler.

Myron Piker of Northwestern, sprinter; Steve Gutting of Purdue, high hurdler, and two Indiana athletes, Mel Trutt, miler, and Roy Cochran, low hurdler, who are expected to give Fred Wolcott of Rice and Earl Vickery of Southern California a battle in the low hurdles, were others in the party.

PRINCETON IS HAPPY.

Princeton, N. J., June 13.—[Special.]—The decision of John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's colored middle distance star, to try for a record in the 880 yard event in the Princeton invitational meet rather than fly to the west coast to compete in the N. C. A. A. meet was hailed here today. But that was before tonight's statement, which indicated Woodruff might go to the coast meet if his coach insisted on his running there.

Soon after learning last night that Glenn Cunningham would meet Sydney Wooderson of England in what is likely to be a world record mile event, meet officials received word that Woodruff had changed his mind a second time and would run in a field including John Borican, Charley Beetham, Ed Burrowes, and Howie Borck in an effort to lower the half mile standard of 1:49.6, held by Elroy Robinson.

Called Despicable Trick.

Woodruff originally had decided to receive his degree at Pittsburgh tomorrow, then come here for the race. Later he changed his mind, planning to get his degree and then fly to the coast to run in the N. C. A. A. meet. Last night he again switched his plans and decided to come here. This change followed protests by Dan Ferris, A. A. U. secretary, and Princeton graduates against his abandonment of his original promise.

"Who forced him to give up the Princeton meet in the first place and send back his expenses, I do not know, but it was certainly a despicable trick," declared John T. Taylor of the Allegheny Mountain A. A. U.

Butch Stolfa, Passing Expert from Luther, Becomes a Bear

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Anton [Butch] Stolfa, who occasioned much eyebrow lifting at the National Football league's draft meeting last December when he was chosen by the Chicago Bears, returned a signed contract to Coach George Halas yesterday. Other coaches wondered where Halas had found him.

Stolfa, a 196 pound quarter back, lives in Cicero and prepped at Riverside High school before starring for three years at Luther college in Decorah, Ia. Six feet tall and exceptionally fast, Stolfa is a triple threat back and has a reputation as a defensive player who excels against passes and in backing up the line.

He was named Luther's most valuable player for two seasons and chosen on the All-Iowa conference team three times. In addition to football he was a regular on the basketball team for three years.

He's Quite a Pitcher.

Luther records give him a lifetime collegiate record of 50 per cent completions on passes and an average of 40 yards per punt. He called signals for three years and will be used in that capacity by the Bears, who rely on the quarter backs for most of their passing. Stolfa throws a bullet pass, but, unlike most passes of this type, it is reputed to be as easy to handle as the light, feathery tosses of Ray Buivid, the Bears' big half back.

Signing of Stolfa brings to six the number of new men who have returned contracts to Halas. They include Billy Patterson, Bays or quarter back and passing star; Chester Chesney, center, from De Paul; James Breen, North Central tackle; Ken Armstrong, Tarkio, Mo., tackle, and Chuck Apolskis, De Paul end. Apolskis tried out with the Bears last year and was farmed out to the New York Giants' Jersey City team in the American association. Armstrong was the only one of the above five selected in the draft.

Halas Counts on Luckman.

Halas expects to sign eight more newcomers, including Sid Luckman, the Columbia passing star, and plans on taking a squad of forty-two to St. John's Military academy in Delafield, Wis., for training early in August.

The squad will include all but three of the men who went through the National league season last fall. Bill Karr, veteran end, has retired to pursue a police career with the West Virginia state force. It is possible that Carl Brumbaugh, veteran quarter back, and George Corbett, reserve back for a number of seasons, will not play. One or both may be retained in some other capacity, however.

It's Butch! He's a Bear

Anton (Butch) Stolfa, 196 pound quarter back from Luther college, who lives in Cicero. He joined the Bears yesterday.

Illinois Piano Teacher Beats Helen Hicks Harb in Western

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—(AP)—A freckled-faced piano teacher, a 25 year old school girl and a veteran put plenty of spice into the first round of play in the women's western open golf tournament today.

Dorothy Foster of Springfield, Ill., who left a music class to compete here, gave some lessons in golf and defeated one of the favorites, Mrs. Helen Hicks Harb, former national champion and now a New York City professional, 5 and 4. Miss Foster, former Illinois women's champion, was 3 up at the turn and continued to drop her putts beautifully to end the match with four pars and a big die deuce.

All the other favorites came through the first round.

Jeanne Finishes Strong.

The baby of the tournament, Jeanne Cline, 15 year old Bloomington, Ill., high school sophomore, advanced to the second round with a 3 and 2 win over Iva Mae Pilcher of Mexico, Mo. They made the turn all even, going out in 45, but the youngster rolled in a couple pars and a birdie to gain the 3 point margin.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, veteran Kansas City pro seeking her third western open title in five years, breezed through her opening match, 8 and 6, against Mrs. W. F. Anderson of St. Louis. She toured the out nine in 41, four over par.

Three Pros Advance.

Mrs. Hill is one of three pros remaining in competition. All are paired in the upper bracket and one of the trio is almost certain of reaching the finals.

One of the business women players, Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C., posted a 4 and 2 victory over Mrs. M. B. Wallace of St. Louis, while the other pro, Virginia Pepp, St. Louis, was pressed hard to win, 1 up, over Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Chicago.

Four standouts in the lower bracket are Ellamae Williams of Chicago, Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, Minn., the defending champion; Phyllis Buchanan, Denver, and Mrs. Burt Weil, Cincinnati, former Ohio state champion. Results:

BATTLE GIANTS; LEE MAKES SIXTH TRY FOR NO. 6

Open 13 Game Stay in Wrigley Field.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Giants, who started something of a revival in their last two games with the Cubs in New York last week and later carried on successfully against the Pittsburgh Pirates, are in town, and this afternoon they will open a three game series against the champs in Wrigley field. Unless Bill Lee has better luck than he's had during the last month, the Cubs may drop into the second division with the Giants moving into the upper flat.

Lee is to make his sixth try for his sixth victory. The big man is in excellent health as to muscle. But, goodness, his nerves! One little mechanical upset or one teeny stupidity and Bill sighs, sometimes to himself and sometimes audibly, "Well, it looks like another one of them days and another one of them years." [Bill uses the vernacular in such psychological emergencies, though highly literate.]

The Blame's Divided.

One or two of Bill's failures to pull himself together have been due to the failure of the Cubs to glean runs in clusters. On the other hand, there was that recent afternoon in Philadelphia when the Cubs gave Bill a 6 to 0 lead. He couldn't hold it, and was knocked out in the fourth inning. The Cubs won, 9 to 4, but Jack Russell, who pitched five and two-thirds innings of scoreless baseball, was credited with the victory. All of Lee's other four tries for his sixth victory have been Cub losses.

The game this afternoon will be the first of a 13 game home stand. The stay will include the first Wrigley field double-header of the season. Sunday the Cubs and Dodgers will play off that 19 inning tie which was perpetrated May 17. No other double-headers are carded for the Cubs other than those arranged in the winter schedule making and those made necessary by the freeze out of the season opening three game series with the Reds.

The Cubs have played on every scheduled day since they opened their season in St. Louis, the only scratch on an unprecedented weather record being the jockeying which caused a Philadelphia postponement of a second game of a double-header, after four innings of play. It was a Sunday closing stall.

Drizzle Puss Tourney Lags.

The Cubs will start their home stay one game over the .500 mark. This is pretty high, in view of the fact that they have not put over a winning streak of as many as four games this year and only twice have knocked over three in a row. The Cubs have won 25 and lost 24. The revived Giants have won 25 and lost 25.

The pause occasioned by the Cooperstown centennial doings and the rise of the Giants last week, have marred the drizzle puss tournament in which Managers Terry and Hartnett have been jousting. In Cooperstown, Terry, who lost the sour mien monosyllabic conversation lead to Hartnett the last day the Cubs were in New York, seemed almost jovial.

In the farewell to New York, the Cubs walked in the tying run in the eighth inning and the winning one in the tenth inning. This caused Hartnett to leap into the drizzle puss lead by a margin of several thousand points, without even using the devastating leer on which he had been practicing faithfully. If Lee blows this afternoon, though, look out for that leer. It's a beauty and has growling and sulking desolately whipped as a point getter, observers agree.

Reds Due on June 30.

After the Giants depart, the Dodgers, who passed the Cubs in the league standings while the Cubs were in the east, will come in for a single game Saturday, that double-header Sunday, and a single game Monday. Following the Dodgers the Bees will come in for three and the Phillies for three. The Cubs will go to St. Louis for three games.

Tomorrow night will come the deadline for interclub deals. Cub officials, who returned from Cooperstown yesterday morning, said no player transactions with other major league teams are anticipated.

WOOD FAILS TO QUALIFY FOR P. G. A. TOURNEY.

Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., June 13.—(AP)—Craig Wood, tired from his long and unsuccessful effort to win the national open golf crown at Philadelphia, missed out on another title chance today when he failed to qualify for the national P. G. A. tournament.

Wood shot 74—73—147, two strokes above the qualifying limit, over the Briar Hills course.

The P. G. A. tournament will be played at the Pomonok club, Flushing, L. I., July 9-15.

N. U. INDUSTRIAL RECREATION MEET TO OPEN TODAY

Public Invited to Two Day Conference.

Chicago's two day regional conference on industrial recreation will open in the Sherman hotel today with discussions and demonstrations by representatives of management and labor, educators and recreational authorities. The conference, open to the public, is sponsored by the university college of Northwestern university.

The subject of the two day meeting will be the responsibility of management and labor in providing wholesome recreational opportunities for adults. Five hundred experts, under the direction of Dr. Samuel N. Stevens and Howard L. Vierow, arranged the program, which includes ninety exhibits of recreational activity provided for 2,500,000 persons over 18 years of age in Chicago.

Dunham on Program.

This morning's opening session will be conducted by Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district; Dr. Stevens, Howard Vierow, and Garnett Patterson, regional director of national labor relations board.

Following the general session, George B. Waterstraat, president of the Industrial Management society, and C. E. Shults, Chicago Mail Order company, will preside at two meetings on the organization, administration, and financing of industrial recreation programs.

Canty Directs Sports.

The first luncheon will be devoted to sports activities. Ted Canty, sports announcer, will preside. Speakers will be Milton Olander, personnel director, Owens-Illinois Glass company; James Walsh, director of recreation for the Chrysler corporation, and J. Lyman Bingham, assistant to the president of the National Amateur Athletic union. Immediately following this luncheon, experts in thirty-five sports will give short talks with demonstrations on those sports which can be adapted to an industrial recreation program.

Shrine Units Drill Sunday at Midget Races

Uniformed units of Medinah Temple will appear in drill formation as an opening feature of the midget auto races Sunday evening on Soldiers' field. The exhibition will be under the direction of Joseph G. Rowley, potentate, who announces that in addition to the patrol unit, the Shriners' brass band of 100 pieces, the Oriental band, and the chanters will appear.

The Chicago unit, Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, will benefit from the races.

Fifty to Compete.

Officials of the Chicago Bowl corporation, promoter of the races, announced yesterday that fifty of the country's best known race drivers will compete on the quarter mile banked track. The racing will open at 8 o'clock Sunday night and continue on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday nights. The 100 lap championship final will be held on Sunday night, June 25.

Among the entries received yesterday was one from Pat Cunningham of Los Angeles, for several years one of the star midget pilots on the west coast. Other Pacific coast entrants are Ronnie Householder, holder of the midget speed record; Mel Hansen, Sam Hanks, Reynolds Coleman, and Paul Swedborg.

Track Ready Tomorrow.

Workmen expect the track will be ready for trial runs tomorrow afternoon. The banks slope at 30 degrees, an incline which will allow the drivers to approach 100 miles an hour, racing officials declare.

The meet will be refereed by Col. Roscoe Turner. Ted H. Doescher, midwest zone representative of the A. A. A., will be chief steward, and Lieut. A. J. Strak will be steward of the track. This trio will serve as the governing body of the race meet.

GRAY ETHEL, always closest in pursuit and kept in hand for a half mile, came to the outside in the stretch, and also weakened in the drive, but was slowly wearing down the winner. BOY BABY, fractious at the post, but away fast and rushed into command, was kept under hustling tactics as he gradually increased his advantage, weakened in the last eighth, but held HURRIGAL safe. HURRIGAL, under light restraint early, and raced wide on the first turn, moved up and was ready to strike to the winner. LAMBETH, away fast, dropped back sharply as she stumbled soon after reaching the turn, continued badly off stride to the final eighth where she closed ground.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

REX EQUINUS, never a great distance back, and forced to overcome a big loss of ground, worked his way up gradually after three eighths, swerved badly after getting to the front, but drew out in the last sixteenth. MEMORY CHAIR, failed to keep up on the turn, closed well through the stretch, and wore down GEORGE BRYAN in the final strides. GEORGE BRYAN, fast speed from the start, raced to the lead on the inside on the stretch turn, bore out the entire final quarter and was disqualified for fouling. GLORIA G., away poorly, and badly outrun for almost five-eighths, came with determination on the inside thereafter.

FENG, racing in good form and away fast, forced the pace under steady reserve to the stretch, worked his way to the front under strong handling but could not draw away. BUSY LUTRECIA displayed the most speed from the start, took command and when she swerved to avoid a damp spot in the track, approaching the final eighth, but recovered quickly and held on stubbornly to the end. GOOD ACTOR, raced prominently from the start, saved some ground and fought it out with good courage in the drive.

Winner trained by W. Weber. Went to post at 5:16. At post 1 minute. Start good, for all but Sam Alexander, from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

CARDIBRE, raced well in hand to the final quarter, held on well under vigorous riding thereafter and got up in the last stride. AMERICAN EMBLEM, raced to the lead gradually and under restraint, held away without need of strong urging to the last eighth then weakened but barely failed to last. SILVER KIEV, reserved off the pace and raced very wide the final half mile, offered only a mild bid when called upon in the stretch and gave way steadily the last furlong.

H. Battle. Went to post at 5:45. At post 1 minute. Start good, from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

QUEENIE made the pace under good raking, drew out on the final turn, stood a drive, cassily and, shaking off MASKILLO, held TRISTRAP safe. The latter, well placed from the start but raced very wide to the final eighth, was under pressure after reaching the last three-eighths, swerved to the inside in the last sixteenth and, holding on well, was slowly getting to the winner. BEELAWAY, well up in the early racing, failed to hold his position on the backstretch turn but came again when straightened in the final quarter.

Beauhuld Beats Spiegal in Rainy New York Arena

New York, N. Y., June 13.—(AP)—Billy Beauhuld, Jersey City lightweight, outslugged and out skidded Tommy Spiegal of Pittsburgh in the rain-swept Queensboro arena tonight to win a close decision in their ten round bout. Rain caused the cancellation of two preliminaries, but Beauhuld and Spiegal managed to put on a lively bout and neither was off his feet despite the slippery canvas.

FENG REGAINS FLORIDA FORM, WINS AT CRETE

Suspended Jockey Brings Favorite Home.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Hunter Lyon's Feng, a 4 year old gelding which had been running fairly well against $4,500 horses during the Florida season, was dropped down into the $2,500 class for the Evergreen Park purse yesterday at Lincoln Fields. Though he had performed poorly in his only previous start of the meeting, the betters decided that the time had come for him to run back to his winter form. So they poured in enough support to make him the 5 to 2 favorite against Threadneedle, Delta Dan, and other well known campaigners.

Though two odds-on choices had failed earlier in the afternoon, Feng fulfilled the expectations of his followers by racing Gus Simone's Busy Lutrecia into submission during a hard stretch drive and beating her by a neck, while F. E. Waldron's Good Acter was getting in third.

Suspended Jockey Rides Feng.

Jockey R. L. Vedder put his heart into the ride on Feng because he knew he wouldn't be allowed any new engagements during the remainder of the meeting. That penalty had been meted out to him for what the stewards had decided was foul riding in the previous race.

Ernest Hanke sent Busy Lutrecia into the lead soon after the start of the six furlong dash, while Vedder forced the pace with Feng. Soon after the stretch run began, Feng drew alongside and went to the front at the eighth pole.

The winner ran the six furlongs over a slow track in 1:15 1-5. In the mutuels he paid $7.60, $6.60, and $4.

Odds-On Choice Beaten.

In the first race the crowd was reminded that it's a mighty precarious venture to make an odds-on favorite of any plater in the $1,000 class. The betters chose to honor Karl Mayer's 6 year old mare, Gray Ethel, in this fashion, backing her until she was quoted at 3 to 5 at post time.

The six furlong race promptly developed into a battle between Gray Ethel, with Jockey Hanke aboard, and Pay Check, which was ridden by Warren Yarberry. Seeing a chance to tie Hanke for the jockey lead, Yarberry took full advantage of it. He drove Pay Check to the front along the rail during the run down the back stretch while Hanke held Gray Ethel alongside. Going into the turn, Pay Check drew out into a lead of a length and maintained his advantage until the stretch run began. Then Hanke put the whip on Gray Ethel, but the favorite wasn't equal to the effort to getting her nose in front. In the last fifty yards Pay Check weakened, but lasted long enough to win by a neck. He paid $7.80 to win.

Another Favorite Loses.

Another strongly backed favorite disappointed the crowd in the second race, V. E. Berry's Bereit going to the post at 6 to 5 odds and finishing in third place behind the 6 to 1 shot, Sir Ajax, and the 17 to 1 shot, Honey Roll.

Sports Writer, one of the colts which Mrs. Ethel V. Mars withheld from racing as a 2 year old, scored the first victory of his career yesterday after seven previous attempts. Going to the post in the New Lenox purse, a six furlong dash for maiden 3 year olds, he demonstrated how well Trainer Roy Waldron had prepared him for a winning effort. He kept close to the early pace-setters El Juez and On Quest, moved up swiftly on the turn, took the lead when Jockey Al Robertson urged him in the stretch, and drew out to a lead of six lengths.

Sports Writer Pays $6.60.

Alldena closed well to earn second place and Slavic took third from On Quest in the last stride. The winner was the favorite, paying $6.60.

Another favorite, Mrs. Kirby Ramsey's Boy Baby, followed up with a victory in a five furlong sprint for 2 year olds, Jockey R. L. Vedder bringing him home a length ahead of J. T. Brownlee's Hurrigal, while Mrs. Roy Carruthers' Lambeth was third. The winner, which had scored one first and three seconds in his last four outings, was so well backed that he paid only $4.40, $3, and $2.20.

COBB NOW HAVING FUN BASEBALL NEVER PROVIDED

He Does as He Pleases—When He Pleases.

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—"It's a wonderful feeling," said Ty Cobb, "to do just what you want to do." The incomparable baseball player is devoting his time now to doing just what he likes, and that doesn't include any connection with the game in which he touched the heights.

He doesn't want to be a coach or a manager, or even own a team, which he could afford. He does see a game now and then, but he doesn't want to have anything to do with baseball most of the time.

He wants to have a family life with his five children, instead of living in ball parks and in hotels and on railroad trains. He wants to fish and hunt and play golf, and see the horses run and go to the opera and attend symphony concerts. And what he wants to do he does.

Earned the Rest.

Cobb says he believes he has earned the right to have a good time. He player major league ball from the time he was 17 until he was 42. He stole 892 bases. He led his league in hitting twelve times. Three years he hit better than .400. For twenty-one consecutive years he hit better than .300. There is no other record like it in the books.

He played every game to win, scrapping with umpires, coming into second with his spikes high, never content to lose, never content to appear at the plate without getting a hit, always ready to fight.

In all those years, he says, he never had much fun, and he never saw as much of his family as he wanted to see.

In New York for several days with his two younger children—a son, Howell, 17 years old, who usually is called Jimmy, and a daughter, Beverly, 19—Cobb will see one baseball game and two plays.

Called Out on Strikes.

A master of timing on the diamond, Cobb told how he was caught off stride during the height of the festivities marking the 100th anniversary party of the National pastime in Cooperstown, N. Y., yesterday. Ten thousand persons waited expectantly as the loud speaker blared his name, but the mighty Cobb wasn't there.

"I was washing up over at Knox college—the only place in Cooperstown where I could get accommodations—when I heard my name read off over the radio," said Cobb. "I didn't know the ceremonies began that early. Called out on strikes, I guess," he laughed.

Cobb, now 52 years old, quit baseball in 1928 and now won't even throw a ball around with his neighbors in Menlo Park, Cal. He saved his money when he was a ball player and invested it well, but he is not interested in putting it in any business. Business would be a worry, and he isn't going to worry.

"No business for me," he said. "I like fishing and I play golf every day. No business."

"Do you go to see the Pacific Coast league ball games often?" he was asked. "No," he replied. "I'm just a baseball player that's got saturated with baseball."

Open Western Junior Golf TourneyToday

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 13.—[Special.]—A field of eighty golfers from Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, and Indiana will tee off tomorrow on the University of Michigan golf course in the qualifying round for the twenty-fifth annual western junior tournament. The field is open to amateurs from 16 to 19 years of age.

The title will be vacated through the ineligibility of Charles Boetcher of Rochester, Minn., who recently passed his twentieth birthday.

In Boetcher's absence John Holmstrom of Rockford, Ill., the 1937 champion, has been installed as the favorite. Holmstrom won the 1937 title at the age of 16, and has a chance to join Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans as the only two time winner of the tournament. Haas won the event at Hinsdale, Ill., in 1934 and repeated at Oakland Hills, Detroit, the following year.

An 18 hole medal round will be played tomorrow with 32 players qualifying for match play for the title. Two rounds of match play are scheduled for Thursday and Friday with a 36 hole final Saturday.

Among the entries is Chase Fannon, Northwestern sophomore who recently won the Western conference title, and who is expected to give Holmstrom close competition.

FINISH HEARINGS IN RACE NEWS MONOPOLY SUIT

Hearings in the suit of the Bulletin Record company of Chicago versus M. L. Annenberg, publisher, and thirteen other individuals and corporations, charging a monopoly of racing news service, were completed yesterday before Master in Chancery Charles A. McDonald. After the last arguments by counsel, Master McDonald instructed them to file proposed findings of fact and briefs within ten days and said he would complete his report, with recommendations, within forty days after that.

The suit was filed May 14, 1937, by the Record company, publisher of the Chicago Turf Bulletin on the grounds that the Madison Publishing company, of which Daniel Serritella, Illinois state senator, is president, sought to create a monopoly for its National Scratch Sheet, rival of the Turf Bulletin. Annenberg was named by the complainant because it was claimed he heads or controls some of the defendant corporations. Annenberg was never served with a subpena.

Other defendants include the Cecelia company, Chicago, an Annenberg concern; the Illinois Nationwide News service, Inc., A. W. Kruse, general manager of the Regal Press; James M. Ragen, president of the Illinois Nationwide; Charles Thulis, general manager of the Madison Publishing company, and James Hulis, Frank Kelly and E. Harsager, all of the Milwaukee News company.

MARSHALL RIPS DUAL SUITS IN MONOPOLY CASES

Lawyer Charges Duress to Get Consent Decrees.

Challenging the government's practice of filing both civil and criminal actions against selected firms and organizations in monopoly cases, Thomas L. Marshall of the law firm of Bell, Boyd & Marshall, spoke yesterday in the final session of the University of Chicago alumni school at the Oriental institute.

His charges were answered by Assistant United States Attorney General Thurman Arnold, in charge of anti-trust law prosecutions.

"Under duress of pending indictment," said Mr. Marshall, "a defendant, whether guilty or innocent, may well initiate discussion of a consent decree rather than face the expense of a criminal action and be placed in jeopardy before a jury.

Brands Consent Decrees Unfair.

"Such decrees are unfair because they set precedents that govern companies not parties to the original anti-trust action and hence had no chance to defend themselves. There was one recent case in which the defendant consented to such a decree, although neither monopoly nor restraint of trade was involved. This type of action is leading to a revival of the ghost of the NRA."

In defense of the practice of filing against selected companies, Assistant Attorney General Arnold declared that only by taking up one business at a time can monopolistic "log jams" be broken up in the various industries. These jams, he stated, are keeping prices up.

Charges Monopolistic Devices.

"There is no business, large or small, that is untouched by some monopolistic device," he declared. "The devices are used to keep out competitors who might lower prices.

"We are producing for 30 million families and distributing to only 1,585,000—the number receiving incomes of more than $3,000 a year. There are two possible solutions to the problem: [1] let the government hand out enough money through the WPA and other government agencies to enable people to pay high prices, and [2] adjust prices."

Senate Modifies Base of Deposit Insurance

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—The senate today passed and sent to the house a bill making minor changes in methods of distributing the cost of deposit insurance among banks. It would eliminate from the assessment base of insured banks the deposits of other banks on which assessments already are being paid.

MOLYBDENUM.

Investors' Guide: The Molybdenum Corporation of America is going to offer debentures for sale. I would like to learn something about this company's business. What is molybdenum?—J. F.

Answer: The corporation is not offering its entire proposed issue of debentures to the public. The registration filed recently with the Securities and Exchange commission covers $1,500,000 of 5 per cent convertible debentures due in 1949 and 172,000 shares of $1 par capital stock to be held for conversion of these debentures.

The debentures would be offered at 99.75 to stockholders. Only the unsubscribed portion would be sold to the public. Money received from the sale of this issue would be used to redeem the 6 per cent debentures due in 1942, for retirement of other debts, and for working capital.

Rare metal alloys, salts, and acids manufactured by this company are used extensively in the steel industry and in smaller quantities in the production of radio and electrical equipment, and lithographing ink.

Molybdenum is a metallic element of the chromium group resembling iron. Alloyed as ferro-molybdenum it is used to improve the strength of steel or iron. Salts and acids of the metal are employed in the manufacture of molybdenum wire, which supports filaments in electric bulbs and grids in radio tubes.

Earnings of the company rose to a peak of $574,955 for 1937, but slumped to $232,469 in 1938. Operations in 1930, 1931, and 1932 were unprofitable. Comparative sales and net incomes of the last five years follow:

	Sales.	Net income.	Earned per share.
1938	$4,772,764	$232,469	$ .49
1937	8,333,989	574,955	1.00
1936	4,846,069	44,740	.08
1935	3,625,508	258,871	.45
1934	2,691,457	277,547	.48

No cash dividend on the common stock has been paid. The only disbursement was $1 a share on Dec. 23, 1937, in the form of 6 per cent debentures maturing in 1942.

At the end of 1938 the company had outstanding $577,944 of the 6 per cent debentures, 577,944 shares of $1 par common stock, and $6,000 in 6 per cent bonds of the York Metal and Alloys company, due in 1939. The common stock is listed on the New York Curb exchange.

Total assets at the end of 1938 were $5,046,302, of which $2,356,796 was current assets. Inventories included among current assets totaled $1,453,854. Current liabilities were $1,076,380.

RADIO BUILDERS LASH NEW DEAL FOR TAX BURDEN

Back M'Donald View in Television Fight.

The Radio Manufacturers association struck at the Roosevelt administration's industrial socialization schemes yesterday and then jumped into the fight over the introduction of television to the public. A statement advising the public not to expect too much from television until it is perfected to a greater degree was issued at the association's fifteenth annual convention in the Hotel Stevens.

A. S. Wells.

A. S. Wells of Chicago, association president, charged in a luncheon address that the "crushing" burden of taxation and restrictions on business imposed by the Roosevelt administration are retarding the progress of industry and preventing the employment of larger numbers of workers.

Charges Socialistic Aim.

Wells, president of Wells-Gardner & Co., radio manufacturer, declared tax increases and other New Deal measures affecting business were adopted not to raise revenues, but to "reconstruct and restrict, from a socialistic standpoint, the individuality, freedom, and enterprise which have developed the United States."

He asserted that industry generally must undertake a campaign to convince the public "that if government will tax equitably and only for revenue, and will not confiscate wealth in the name of taxation, money will be invested in fixed assets in factories and will provide the necessary capital and employment to permit all who wish to work to do so."

Brands Tax Policy Harmful.

"Such ideas as continuously higher taxes on industry, confiscatory rates on large incomes and inheritances, and undistributed profits taxes are thoroughly wrong in principle, destructive to business, and therefore harmful to labor."

Members of the association, including the major radio manufacturers and distributors, authorized Wells to issue his statement on television. It was issued, he said, "because television has suffered from overstatements, and because the inauguration of television in New York may arouse false and ungrounded hopes in the minds of the people throughout the country."

"We would like to present television to the whole country," Wells said, "but because of the many problems involved, it will be a long time before such a reality can be achieved." The economic questions involved are serious, he said.

Present Limit 50 Miles.

He asserted that the effective range of television reception at present is fifty miles; that television broadcasting is still on an experimental basis, and that programs will be limited to a few hours a day "for some time."

Members of the association's television committee include the two principals in the current controversy over television—Eugene McDonald Jr. of Chicago, president of the Zenith Radio corporation, and David Sarnoff of New York, president of the Radio Corporation of America.

McDonald has frequently expressed the conviction that television receiving sets are not ready for public sale at this stage. His company manufactures receiving apparatus and loans it to expertly qualified individuals. R. C. A. recently began "telecasting" from a sending station atop the Empire State building in New York and announced the public sale of receivers. Zenith "telecasts" from Chicago.

Official Warns Industry.

Television was also the subject of an address by T. A. M. Craven, member of the federal communications commission. He said "It would be foolhardy for the industry to lead the public into the belief that television is here as a practical reality, as a stable service to the public on a national or even on a regional scale."

Neville Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, also spoke.

About 200 exhibits will be placed on display today at the annual radio parts and accessories show. The convention and exhibition is expected to attract about 10,000 visitors.

Illinois Commerce Board Hears Railway Rate Plea

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday took under advisement an application of the Rock Island Lines for a reduction in freight rates on sand and gravel in Illinois. The railroad proposed to reduce the rate from $1.11 a ton to 97 cents on loads hauled between Chillicothe, Springfield, Decatur, and intermediate points. The Illinois Central railroad joined with opposing shippers and other railroads in arguments against the reduction.

Trust Indenture Measure Approved by House Group

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—The revised Cole trust indenture bill was aproved today by the house interstate commerce subcommittee in charge of this legislation. Representative Cole, sponsor of the bill and chairman of subcommittee, said the measure was approved in the form made public last Friday, and will be reported to the full committee later this week.

Labor Leader and Employers Attack NLRB

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and a group of employers and their attorneys led a two-way attack on the National Labor Relations board today.

While Green was demanding before a house committee that the present membership of the board be displaced, an attorney for a steel company was telling a senate committee how counsel for the board allegedly changed their tactics hurriedly in a hearing when he threatened to bring those tactics to the attention of senate investigators.

Robert Y. Caldwell, attorney for the American Rolling Mill company, of Middleton, O., testified before the senate labor committee that he protested when board counsel attempted to question company supervisory employés as to the company's possible defense against complaints made by discharged or laid-off workers.

Practice is Discontinued.

When he "suggested" that if this procedure were not stopped he would call it to the attention of the senate, Caldwell said the board counsel "immediately went into a huddle with the trial examiner and discontinued this practice." He contended that this procedure had involved a violation of the company's constitutional rights.

Green accused the labor board of bias in favor of the C. I. O., and warned that if this congress failed to amend the Wagner act the next congress may be called upon to repeal it.

Three other employers, an attorney and a leader of an independent tanners' union, told the senate committee of labor troubles and difficulties with the board.

A. F. Chrystal of New York, representing the Moore-McCarmack and Mooremack Gulf Ship Lines, complained that his companies had been made parties to a suit before the board in a case that involved only a dispute between rival unions. He said his companies thus had been liable to possible payment of back wages to members of one of the unions.

Milwaukee Tanner Complains.

Albert Gullun, of A. F. Gullun and Sons corporation, Milwaukee tanners, charged that labor board representatives had urged company employés to join striking C. I. O. members despite the fact that an independent union had won an election conducted by the board to determine the bargaining agent.

L. W. Calkins of Chicago, personnel director of the National Tea company, said his company had signed a labor board stipulation to rehire 149 C. I. O. strikers and pay them $51,000 in back pay, despite the fact, he said, only 40 per cent of employés went out on a C. I. O. sponsored strike.

$7,934,000 MORE OF GOLD WILL BE SHIPPED TO U. S.

Arrangements were made yesterday in foreign countries to ship $7,934,000 more gold to the United States. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported engagements of $4,411,000 in England, $2,800,000 in Japan, and $723,000 in Holland.

Figures released in Washington by the department of commerce showed that May imports totaled $429,440,157. This was about $200,000,000 less than the April import total. Yesterday's daily treasury statement listed gold holdings at $16,010,054,955 on June 10.

The Belgian belga fell 0.0275 cent to 17 cents in foreign exchange transactions in New York. Other foreign currencies were relatively steady in terms of the dollar.

BUILDING CLIMBS TO HIGHEST MAY LEVEL SINCE 1931

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—Building construction in May increased against the normal seasonal trend to the largest May total since 1931, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

The total valuation of permits issued in 215 cities of the United States during the month reached $111,507,630, compared with $95,268,241 in April, an advance of 17 per cent. With the exception of March, this was the largest total since last July.

The usual seasonal movement for this period is a drop of about 6.5 per cent. In contrast with the $77,606,496 reported for May a year ago, building permits last month showed an increase of 45.7 per cent.

Senate Committee Urges Money Powers' Extension

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—The senate banking committee today asserted the administration's emergency monetary powers should be continued for two years because "it would not be safe" to abandon them. The powers, scheduled to expire June 30, enable President Roosevelt to devalue the dollar further. They also authorize the treasury to maintain the $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund and buy domestically mined silver at prices above the world market.

CHIEF FILM CONCERNS AGREE ON MODIFYING POLICIES IN DISPUTE

New trade practices have been agreed upon by the major motion picture production companies designed to eliminate features of "block booking" opposed by some of the exhibitors, it was learned yesterday. The agreement also revises some of the practices upon which the federal government has based anti-trust actions in Chicago and New York against the industry's leading producers and individuals.

W. F. Rodgers, chairman of a group representing the major producers, most of whom have been named in the government's monopoly charges, announced the new "fair practice code." He expects it to be adopted shortly. The department of justice has been advised of steps in negotiations with distributors and exhibitors, he said.

Block booking is continued under the new agreement, but the exhibitor is given more latitude in rejecting unwanted films, Rodgers said. Larger exhibitors would be allowed to reject, without rental fees, up to 10 per cent of the block of films contracted. Smaller exhibitors would reject as many as 20 per cent of the pictures.

TAX EXPERTS GO OVER NEW BILL TO PLUG LOOPHOLES

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that administration and congressional tax experts were still trying to make sure the new revenue law contains adequate safeguards against evasion of tax payments.

In particular, he said, treasury and justice department officials are studying the question of strengthening a section of the existing law which provides penalties for corporations which retain profits in their treasuries for tax evasion purposes.

The new law, among other things, would repeal the remains of the tax on undistributed profits. Mr. Roosevelt has said that if this levy were wiped out, other steps should be taken to prevent corporations with a few large stockholders from reducing the surtax payments of the latter by holding on to profits instead of paying dividends.

At the capitol, the new bill was placed in the hands of expert bill draftsmen.

Walter E. Heller & Co. and N. Y. Firm May Merge

Officials of Walter E. Heller & Co., Chicago commercial banking firm, yesterday confirmed reports that negotiations are in progress for a consolidation with James Talcott, Inc., New York factoring company. The New York company buys merchandise from and makes advances to manufacturers and others, principally in the textile field. The Chicago company maintains a factoring division. If the merger is effected, companies doing $150,000,000 of business annually would be combined.

Cuban, Heads of U. S. Firm Tilt for Rule

New York, June 13.—(AP)—A former Cuban diplomat called on stockholders to change the management of the American Car and Foundry company, in a letter made public today. He was immediately described as a "disgruntled" and "discharged employé" in an answering blast by the company's president.

The Cuban is Oscar G. Cintas, reputed to be backed by sugar wealth, who described himself in his letter as "the largest individual stockholder in the company." He was ambassador to Washington in the last year of Gerardo Machado's presidency of the island republic.

Charges by Cintas.

He asserted in his letter that the management of the big firm "is unquestionably inadequote and inefficient." He declared "it would be in the company's interest" to have

Oscar G. Cintas (left), who assailed management, and Charles J. Hardy, president of company.

Charles J. Hardy, president, "return to his previous position as the company's lawyer and to his old law practice."

To these allegations Hardy replied: "Mr. Cintas is not the largest single stockholder of our company. He was formerly connected with the export departments of both our company and the American Locomotive company. In July, 1938, we found it necessary, in the best interests of our company, to sever his connection with it.

"A particular grievance of his was our unwillingness to grant long term credit to foreign countries whose financial condition did not warrant such credit. His present attitude seems to me to be that of a discharged employé, disgruntled because of his separation from the pay roll and now seeking reprisal for such separation."

Loss of Business Alleged.

In his letter to stockholders Cintas said as an example of what he believed to be "unsound financial policy" for the company: "Only a short time ago there was to be had much desirable car business with the Argentine State railways, Uruguay State railways, Central of Brazil, Paulista railway, and the Sorocabana, the first four of which have been among the company's best customers.

"Although very substantial financial aid was available from the Export-Import bank, which would have assumed its share of the credit risk as well, the company was obliged to turn down this profitable business because of lack of working capital."

He asserted that, at the same time, the Pullman company obtained more than $3,000,000 worth of business in Brazil alone.

BANKS ASK ASSEMBLY TO OVERRIDE HORNER ON STOCK LIABILITY

The Illinois Bankers' association yesterday appealed to members of the state legislature to override Gov. Horner's veto of a bill designed to limit the responsibility of state bank stockholders. The vote on overriding the veto will be taken today.

The association also made public the statement of a group of prominent lawyers, including Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the State Supreme court, expressing the opinion that the legislation is valid.

In vetoing the Perry-Wood-Bruer bill, Gov. Horner expressed doubt over its constitutionality. Similar legislation intended to limit a state bank stockholder's double liability to one year after sale of the stock, had been passed and vetoed in each of two preceding sessions.

The association, which sponsored a constitutional amendment which failed in the last general election, contends state banks are being penalized by the double liability feature which does not apply to national bank stock.

$9,000,000 ACTION IS FILED AGAINST PENNROAD BOARD

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13.—(AP)—A suit demanding an accounting of $9,000,000 in addition to one for $4,000,000 filed March 30, was brought against six estates and ten living directors of the Pennroad corporation in United States District court today.

David Steckler of New York, who acquired fourteen shares of Pennroad stock from the estate of his wife, Kate, is the plaintiff. He also acted for other stockholders.

He charges Pennroad lost the $9,000,000 through the "illegal" investment by Pennroad of $20,138,700 in 201,387 shares of the voting capital stock of the Boston and Maine railroad.

The "illegality" of the amount invested results from the fact, Steckler contends, that the 201,387 shares represent 19½ per cent of the total capital stock of the B. & M., whereas the public service law of New York prohibits any holding company, such as Pennroad from acquiring a greater interest than 10 per cent.

HECKER ACQUIRES 25,600 COMMON SHARES IN MONTH

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—Hecker Products corporation reacquired 25,600 shares of its common stock in May, bringing the total amount held in the treasury to 153,400 shares, the company reported today to the New York Stock exchange.

Atlas corporation reacquired 8,419 shares of its common, increasing its treasury holdings to 245,916. Curtis Publishing company reacquired 7,700 of its $7 preferred stock in April, after which it held 155,251 shares.

FANSTEEL GAINS BY DIVERSIFYING ITS PRODUCTION

Metallurgical Firm Put on Profit Basis.

Diversification of its business has resulted in substantially improved operating results for the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago, Robert J. Aitchison, president, disclosed yesterday. He estimated net profits for the five months ended with May at $76,000, equal to 30 cents a share on common stock, against a net loss of $14,243 in the corresponding 1938 period.

The company, Aitchison said, has developed products which are not dependent on the automobile industry, formerly its principal customer. He asserted that although the trend of company earnings for the remainder of 1939 will be influenced by the motor industry's activity, profitable operations are assured.

Celotex Profit Lower.

Celotex corporation, with headquarters in Chicago, announced net income of $22,535 for three months ended with April, against $109,128 a year ago. Net income for six months ended April 30 fell to $10,399, from $177,531 a year ago, when, it was explained, earnings were boosted by "a substantial amount of non-operating income not realized in the current period." G. S. Mansell, vice president of the company, which manufacturers insulation products, said May sales were 40 per cent above those of last year.

A more profitable year was also forecast by William O'Neill, president of the General Tire and Rubber company. He announced sales for the first five months of the company's current fiscal year, which began last Dec. 1, were 28 to 30 per cent above those of the corresponding period a year ago.

Simon Guggenheim, president of the American Smelting and Refining company, forecast "quite a reasonable improvement" in the copper market by fall. He said his company's earnings "will show a moderate improvement over the $1.55 per share earned in the first half of last year."

Three Month Profit Dips.

Electric Power and Light corporation announced net income of $1,571,187 for the three months ended with April, equal to 4 cents a share on the common stock, against $1,728,445, or 9 cents a share, a year ago.

For twelve months ended with April, net income was $4,612,118, equal to $6.28 a share on $7 first preferred stock, against $7,989,774, or 65 cents on the common stock, a year earlier.

United Gas corporation reported net income of $1,708,299 for three months ended April 30, against $2,145,501 in the 1938 period. For twelve months ended with April, net income was $4,989,237, compared with $8,762,521 in the preceding twelve months.

STUDY PROGRAM TO CUT INTEREST OF SOUTHERN RY.

New York, June 13.—(AP)—Plans for readjustment of the Southern Railway company capital structure to effect a $3,150,000 annual cut in interest charges are being studied by the management, it was disclosed today.

A proposal considered, it was reported, would involve a change in the terms of the development and general mortgage 6 per cent and 6½ per cent bonds of 1956 to make them callable at intervals of five years at graduated prices and giving bondholders the right to subscribe to common stock at a price of not less than $45 a share.

It was reported there have been preliminary talks between the management and institutional holders representing about 40 per cent of the $50,000,000 outstanding 6s and 6½s. The management's goal, it was said, is elimination of this amount of funded debt together with an annual reduction of more than $3,000,000.

Business Loan Bill Opposed by E. E. Brown

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, today told a senate committee that the pending proposal for government insurance of loans to small business would "retard the expansion of sound business."

Brown appeared before a senate currency subcommittee which is holding hearings on the bill introduced by Senator Mead of New York. Mead's bill would empower the Reconstruction Finance corporation to insure 90 per cent of loans made to small business and industry by private banks.

Terms Credit Ample.

"Virtually no small business or medium sized business which is entitled to short or long term credit is unable to get it," Brown told the committee.

In reply to a question by Senator Frazier [R., N. D.], Brown asserted that there were plenty of demands for loans that were not granted.

"No prudent man would make them because of doubt as to repayment," he said.

Brown appeared as the spokesman for the federal reserve advisory council, a group of bankers representing different sections of the country who act in an advisory capacity to the federal reserve board.

Council Criticizes Bill.

Brown disclosed that the council on June 6 had adopted a resolution criticizing the absence in the Mead bill of any provision requiring that loans made under the measure be reasonably assured of repayment.

The resolution said that no government agency should be empowered to make or insure loans unless there was reasonable prospect of repayment.

If loans on which there was no assurance of repayment were made, Brown said, it would "enable inefficient and poorly managed business to compete for a time and retard the expansion of sound business."

Urges Careful Study.

He urged that a careful investigation be made of the credit needs of small business before any legislation is enacted. Brown disputed earlier testimony before the banking subcommittee that there was a large demand for credit from small business that was unsatisfied.

Such testimony he described as "opinions unsupported by facts."

Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.], who is a champion of more abundant credit for small business men, asked Brown if the First National refused requests of any small business men.

"I would estimate rejections at less than 4 per cent," Brown said.

Brown was one of three members of the advisory council who asked to testify on the bill. Others were Walter W. Smith, president of the First National Bank of St. Louis, and Howard Loeb, chairman of the Tradesmen National Bank and Trust Company of Philadelphia.

TEXAS TO FIGHT DECISION VOIDING OIL FLOW LIMIT

Austin, Tex., June 13.—[Special.]—The Texas railroad commission today instructed its attorneys to file an immediate appeal from a federal court decision here Monday holding confiscatory and void its oil proration formula for wells in the east Texas field.

Chairman Lon A. Smith of the commission also announced an order will be entered next Monday fixing complete Saturday and Sunday shutdowns of all wells throughout the state for three months. Wells were open half the Saturdays of June.

The present formula, allowing east Texas wells to produce 2.32 per cent of one hour's potential each twenty-four hours, will be retained pending outcome of the court appeal, Chairman Smith said.

ELECTRIC LINE MAY QUIT OVER WAGES DISPUTE

Union Rejects Scale of Receiver.

Labor controversies may cause abandonment of operations by the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin railroad, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson was informed yesterday. Attorney Benjamin P. Alschuler, representing A. A. Sprague, receiver for the electric line, told the court that employés have refused to accept a proposed reduction in pay.

Judge Wilkerson orders wage plan drafted.

About 500 employés belonging to division 215 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés of America voted not to accept a wage proposal offered by Sprague. He asked wage reductions on a sliding scale, to help tide the road over its present financial difficulties.

Wages Based on Revenues.

The proposed reductions follow: When the daily average gross revenue is less than $5,500 a 10 per cent reduction would be in effect; between $5,500 and $5,649, 8 per cent; between $5,650 and $5,799, 6 per cent; between $5,800 and $5,949, 4 per cent; between $5,950 and $6,099, 2 per cent. If the daily average gross revenue is $6,100 or more, employés would get full pay. The present daily average is said to be less than $5,500.

In a statement filed with the court Sprague said that for several years the road's expenditures have been limited to such as would provide only safe operation conditions, and he has tried to make these payments out of revenues.

Lacks Funds for Renewals.

"It has been impossible for this receiver, due to lack of income, to make necessary and proper capital additions, and to provide such maintenance and renewals as in his opinion should be provided," the statement said. "In the opinion of the receiver it is now essential, to retain the present business and to attract additional trafic, as well as to the continued safe and proper operations of the property in his charge, that money be made available to him to provide, among other things, for reconstruction and repair of equipment and for maintenance and renewal of tracks and facilities."

Alschuler amplified the statement by telling the court that the road has been leading a "hand to mouth existence" in which it has made every economy. He added that the court is now faced with the possibility of discontinuing the operation of the road.

Argues Against Wage Cut.

Attorney O. D. Zimring, counsel for the union, said the men would not accept the proposed wage reductions. He admitted that the road was financially ill, but added that it was not sick enough to have the proposed wage reductions imposed on the workers.

Judge Wilkerson directed Alschuler to draft an order, which is to be presentd to him today, authorizing Sprague to post the proposed new wage schedule, to be effective July 1.

"We'll just have to see what happens," Judge Wilkerson said.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 13.—Stocks slipped fractions to about one point today. Traders were reported to be uneasy over increasing uncertainties at home and abroad. Volume was 531,870 shares, compared with 424,200 for the preceding session. Of 426 issues traded 425 declined, 119 advanced, and 182 closed unchanged.

Among the developments said to have worried traders was the spread of union labor troubles to include General Motors and Allis-Chalmers plants. Progress of the tax revision bill also occupied the attention of many in Wall street.

From Europe came disturbing reports of a Czech "avenging" legion being formed in Poland and of plans for a Nazi coup on Slovakia with the aim of strengthening Germany's threats against Poland.

After opening irregularly lower, the list turned definitly lower as offerings increased. Stocks then moved in a narrow range until the last hour, when the tone hardened a little and part of the losses was recovered.

Representative industrial stocks were uniformly lower, although pressure was not great at any time. Chrysler and General Motors were active, losing ¾ and ⅝ point, respectively.

United States Steel and Bethlehem also were off fractionally. United States Rubber lost ¾ point. Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck dipped about ½ point each. Leading coppers also slipped.

Oil stocks closed on a steady note, although Texas Corporation lost ⅝ point. Losses in the aviation group ran to almost a point in Douglas. Food shares dipped fractionally.

Power and light shares again gave a relatively good account of themselves. Rails backed away after a brief attempt to rally. Electric equipment and farm implement shares also gave ground.

New York Bonds.

New York, June 13.—(AP)—The bond market continued somewhat weak today and many corporate leaders finished fractions to around a point lower.

United States government issues also slanted downward. Some of the more active treasuries closed 1-32 to 7-32 lower.

In a few corporate loans buyers appeared willing to take a chance, but the general mood was to wait for new trend clews following the recent interruption to the early June rise. Sentiment basically, however, remained fairly cheerful.

Issues which closed lower included Northern Pacific 4s at 68⅛, Southern Railway 4s at 54¼, Pacific Gas 3¾s at 111, and International Telephone 5s at 66. Slightly higher were Studebaker 6s, Portland General Electric 4½s and Erie 5s of '75.

Among the wider moves in foreign issues were a 1¾ point slide in Japanese 6½s and a rise of 1⅜ in Rome 6½s.

Chicago Stocks.

Declines were posted against most issues on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of ninety-six issues traded, twenty-three advanced, fifty-one declined, and twenty-two closed unchanged. Commonwealth Edison continued as volume leader, closing unchanged at 29¼ on a turnover of 2,500 shares. Marshall Field was fractionally lower. Zenith Radio, Swift, and a few others showed fractional improvement.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks declined slightly yesterday. Chicago Title and Trust and City National lost $1 a share. Trading continued dull.

NORTH WESTERN ROAD MAY NAME PRESIDENT TODAY

C. T. O'Neal Is Viewed as Possible Choice.

Chicago railroad interests were guessing yesterday as to who will be named chief executive officer of the Chicago and North Western railway to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Fred W. Sargent as president. One La Salle street source said that the post would go to Charles T. O'Neal, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad.

Charles T. O'Neal.

The directors of the North Western are scheduled to meet in New York today, but the selection may be delayed until another meeting. New York dispatches said the directors may name Samuel H. Cady, general counsel of the North Western, as temporary president.

O'Neal's Record Cited.

In La Salle street it was said that O'Neal has the inside edge because of his record for efficiency as president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. That road, like the North Western, is being reorganized under the amended bankruptcy laws. O'Neal was made president of the C. & E. I. on Jan. 1, 1931.

The interstate commerce commission announced in Washington yesterday that it will hold a public hearing June 22 on the application of Charles M. Thomson to be trustee of the North Western. Federal Judge John P. Barnes on May 22 appointed Thomson trustee of the road, subject to approval by the I. C. C.

Thomson is the trustee of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, in which position he has been closely identified with O'Neal.

Thomson in Washington.

The Associated Press reported that Thomson conferred in Washington yesterday with officials of the finance bureau of the I. C. C. These officials said public hearings on applications to be named as trustee of bankrupt railroads have been held in only a few cases.

A record of the investigation made by a senate committee headed by Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] into railroad financing and the need for amending section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act indicates Thomson may have aroused opposition to himself within the ranks of the I. C. C.

In the hearing conducted by Senator Wheeler in Washington last April, it was brought out that Thomson, Judge Barnes, the I. C. C. and the Reconstruction Finance corporation had differences of opinion regarding the salary to be paid O'Neal as president of the C. & E. I.

Differ on Salary Cut.

The RFC in June, 1934, suggested O'Neal's salary be cut from $40,000 to $25,000, in exchange for which the RFC offered to reduce the interest on the RFC debt from 6 to 4 per cent. This interest cut would have reduced the interest charges of the C. & E. I. by about $115,000 annually, it was said. The I. C. C. supported the recommendation that O'Neal's salary be cut.

Thomson declined to accept the suggestion, saying he feared reduction of O'Neal's salary might lead to his resignation.

Business Bits

J. L. Beven, president of the Illinois Central railroad, will address the seventeenth annual meeting of the operations and maintenance division of the Association of American Railroads at the Palmer House today. The association consists of purchasing agents and stores officials of the railroads. About 300 are expected to attend.

Before the daughters of John D. Morgan can obtain control of his $2,000,000 estate they must pass examinations in the "principles of sound investment." The will of Mr. Morgan, New York patent attorney and a resident of Summit, N. J., was filed yesterday. He died May 23. Morgan's widow, Mrs. Mattie B. Morgan, is to receive the income from the estate for life. On her death the estate will be divided equally between two daughters, if they pass the test.

John P. Higgins of Boston has been elected to the board of directors of George A. Hormel & Co. He succeeds Arthur A. Dacey, resigned. Higgins has been New England manager for the Flavor Sealed division. He succeeds Dacey also as manager of the Hormel eastern division headquarters at New York.

Charles R. Ogsbury has been made a vice president of International Business Machines corporation.

Alvin A. Voit, vice president of the Mengel company, manufacturers of wood products and containers, has been designated executive vice president. Warren T. Green, general manager of the body division, has been elected a vice president. Green and Walter R. Jones, also a vice president, have been added to the executive committee.

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade have elected John L. Driscoll, Milwaukee, and Ernest J. Cwik, associated with Babcock, Rushton & Co., Chicago, to membership in the exchange.

BUTTER FUTURES RISE; TRADERS BUY ACTIVELY

Encouraged by the firmness of the cash market, traders bought November butter futures aggressively yesterday, restoring the seasonal top of 25 cents a pound in transactions on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. There was an early gain of ¼ cent and a net advance of ⅛ cent over Monday's final level.

Although cash prices remained unchanged in the Chicago market, a further boost of ½ cent at New York widened the spread in prices between the cities.

The government's report on Monday, showing June 1 warehouse supplies at a new high record for that date, was said to have had negligible influence on the market.

Eggs for future delivery advanced ⅛ to ¼ cent in active dealings, setting new seasonal tops. Brokers said interest in the market was stimulated by country reports indicating reduced production.

The 3¾ per cent bonds were reoffered at prices to yield from 1.00 to 3.50 per cent and the 3½s at prices to yield from 3.45 per cent for the 1953 maturity to a price of 99½ for the final maturity.

C., June 13.—(AP)—The Federal Land Banks of Louisville and Omaha will call all of their ten to thirty year 4½ per cent bonds dated July 1, 1929, for redemption on July 1, the farm credit administration announced today. The issues total $170,720, the administration said, and are the last of the individual federal farm loan bonds outstanding. For the last six years bonds issued by the land banks have been consolidated farm loan bonds.

Wilkerson yesterday entered orders authorizing the trustees of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad to spend $327,373 for new equipment and to remodel present rolling stock. The road will spend $223,773 to construct eighty-three new fifty-ton, all steel box cars and purchase miscellaneous equipment. Another $103,600 will be spent to remodel 200 automobile cars to accomodate larger automobiles being shipped from the Janesville [Wis.] General Motors company plant.

New York, June 13.—[Special.]—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States last week declined to 3,376,950 barrels, from 3,558,800 barrels in the preceding week. The American Petroleum institute announced today. Production was 114,050 barrels under the calculated requirements of 3,491,000 barrels daily.

TELLS INSURANCE GROUP'S PART IN KILLING DEBT ACT

Counsel Traces Activity at Monopoly Hearing.

Washington, D. C., June 13.—[Special.]—The Association of Life Insurance Presidents employed expert counsel to assist in having the Frazier-Lemke act declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court, the monopoly investigating committee was told today by Vincent P. Whitsitt, manager and general counsel of the association. He also said the association paid fees to prominent New York attorneys for prospective testing of an objectionable New York City ordinance which never became law.

Whitsitt testified that in 1935, when the companies were concerned about the possible undermining of their mortgage holdings by the Frazier-Lemke act, William Marshall Bullitt of Louisville, Ky., and John W. Davis of New York were retained as special counsel. They were employed to carry the "test case" of Radford vs. Joint Stock Land bank to the United States Supreme court, where they succeeded in having the law declared unconstitutional by a unanimous decision. The Frazier-Lemke act provided moratoriums on farm mortgages and a scaling down of such debts.

$60,000 Fee Paid in Case.

Fees of $60,000 were paid in this case in 1935 alone, the record showed.

The New York City case was listed on the association's record of legal fees as "New York City contemplated suit" of 1934 and related, according to Whitsitt, to the retaining of counsel to test in court the legality of a proposed city ordinance to "tax life insurance companies in some manner." The witness did not recall the particulars of the ordinance.

Although the ordinance was not enacted, Whitsitt said the insurance companies, which vigorously opposed the measure, wished to be ready for an immediate test suit.

Law Firms Get $17,500.

The record showed that fees totaling $17,500 were paid for this purpose in 1934 to Clarence J. Shearn, the firm of Bruce & Bullitt, and the firm of Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine.

Describing his association, Whitsitt testified that it was originated in 1906 at the suggestion of Paul Morton, then secretary of the navy. Grover Cleveland became the association's first manager. The idea, he said, was to correct abuses in life insurance practice.

Association records introduced by Gerhard Gesell, attorney for the Securities and Exchange commission, showed that the member life insurance companies paid dues and other fees to the association aggregating $332,694 in 1934; $442,896 in 1935; $365,211 in 1936; $495,086 in 1937, and $435,375 in 1938.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL ASSAILS MERGING OF MOBILE ROADS

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—The Illinois Central system today urged the interstate commerce commission to reject a proposal for consolidation of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern and the Mobile and Ohio railroads. The plan does not meet the test of the public interest, the Illinois Central said in a petition.

"The proposed merger will not create one additional ton of trafic," it said. "It will not result in any shorter routes or in any better service. On the other hand, a condition to the success of the merger is the diversion of a very substantial volume of trafic from the shorter and more efficient routes of the Illinois Central system to those that are longer and less efficient.

"The Illinois Central system can ill afford the permanent loss in revenues that here confronts it."

Gaston Confirmed as Aid to Secretary of Treasury

Washington, D. C., June 13.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed the nomination of Herbert E. Gaston of New York to be assistant secretary of the treasury.

COTTON

Cotton futures in American markets finished .05 to .11 cent a pound higher yesterday. After an easier start, the market came back on reports of continued wet weather and prospects of further moisture in the central and eastern belt.

Brokers said the weather situation may become serious unless the rains halt shortly. Grass and weeds are said to be choking out cotton.

Trading was extremely dull during the first hour, but picked up to some extent on the rally.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .10 cent a pound higher, with New York at 9.92 cents; New Orleans, 9.45 cents; Houston, 9.40 cents, and Galveston, 9.50 cents. Prices follow.

OMAHA DELAYS HOUSING ACTION AFTER PROTESTS

Omaha, Neb., June 13.—[Special.]—The city council today delayed action for a second time on an agreement of coöperation necessary to a $1,400,000 extension of a federal apartment housing project.

Dr. Claude Mason, school board president, said he opposed the extension of the tax free project both from standpoint of the schools and as a private citizen. The schools, he said, cannot stand the burden of providing additional facilities in that area. The school board cannot be expected to add pupils at $75 a year each, he said, without reimbursement. The proposed 283-family extension, he contended, would make a new school building necessary.

"I think the principle of this housing has failed," Dr. Mason asserted. "We don't go on forever with projects each one of which removes some property from the tax rolls. The logical outcome would be government ownership of all the city, with everything tax free."

Nearly a dozen other speakers opposed the extension.

Anthracite Shipments Dip in May; Exceed Year Ago

Shipments of anthracite in May aggregated 4,205,564 net tons, a decrease of 13.14 per cent from the April level, but an increase of 10.05 per cent over May, 1938, the Anthracite institute announced yesterday.
